Nation's Sons, From Humblest to Most Distinguished, Pay Final Tribute to Their "Beloved Friend," by Honoring Him in Death as They Never Before Honored Foreign Envoy.

THRONG AT CEREMONIES RIVALS ATTENDANCE AT FOCH FUNERAL

General John J. Pershing, Delivering First Funeral Oration, Calls Late Ambassador "True Soldier" and Likens Him to Late Marshal for His Human Qualities and Bravery.

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, April 4.—While all Paris mourned as though a beloved son of France had passed, a double funeral service was held here today for Myron T. Herrick, late American ambassador.

The first service was held at the United States embassy. Then the body was borne to the American Pro-cathedral where the final ceremonies took place. The body was then placed in a temporary vault preparatory to shipment to Brest. From Brest it will be carried to the United States upon the French cruiser, Tourville.

Three speakers paid tribute to the memory of the diplomat. Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary force in the great war, delivered a eulogy in behalf of the United States. Premier Poincare spoke for France, and Senor Quinones de Leon, Spanish ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, expressed the sorrow of his fellow envoys.

France bade farewell to her "beloved friend," by honoring him in death as she never before has honored a foreign envoy—with a national funeral.

Flags at Half Mast.

Flags were at half mast on Eiffel tower and throughout the city. Silent crowds stood with bowed heads as the hearse, bearing the body, passed to the American Pro-cathedral. Airplanes droned overhead in majestic sweeps, adding another touch of honor to the widespread tributes of the French republic.

The embassy service was official and was confined to members of the French and American governments, the diplomatic corps and representatives of American organizations in France. There were no women present.

Two marshals of France were in the procession—Marshal Petain and Marshal Franchet D' Espery.

Marshal Joffre, the hero of the battle of the Marne, was invited but owing to a crippled knee was unable to march. Marshal Lyautey also was absent.

Episcopal Service Read.

The coffin was followed into the church by the bearer of Ambassador Herrick's Legion of Honor decoration.

Two gigantic French and American flags draped the facade of the church. Inside there was a profusion of emblems and flowers.

Mrs. Parmalee Herrick, daughter-in-law of the late envoy, sat at the left of the coffin. Representatives of the French government were behind her. Uniformed standard bearers of the American Legion were in the central aisle.

The funeral services of the Episcopal faith was read. The ceremonies began with the hymn, 'Lead Kindly Light," the recesional and Chopin's Funeral March.

The church was crowded and many of the mourners who had known and loved Mr. Herrick in life sobbed.

Elihu Root, former American secretary of state, who is in Europe on a mission for the Washington government, dealing with America's possible entry into the World Court, was among the distinguished Americans present.

Military Honors at Brest.

BREST, France, April 4.(INS.)—The special train which will bring the body of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick here for shipment to the United States aboard the French cruiser Tourville, will arrive at 6:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Full military honors will be paid the late ambassador here. The train will be met by a battalion of infantry and marines. Several companies of the republican guards will escort the Dust for Fuel.

Why Make Farmers Pay?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

TWELVE HUNDRED advertising agencies and advertising writers are asked to compete for a prize of $1,000, answering the question, "Why go to church?"

What would your answer be?

WAR in China has its old-fashioned side. Marshal Chang, on one side, offers General Liu, on the other, $50,000 if he will surrender. General Liu is holding out for $250,000.

IT REMINDS you of the camp follower, Catherine, who married Peter the Great. She earned his gratitude by buying off a Turkish general that had Peter in a trap. She gave the Turkish general all her jewelry, and he, convinced that jewelry was better than a victory, trotted home.

RUDOLPH KAWLIKOWSKI, head of the Kosmos Machine Works, of Goerlitz, Germany, and a serious scientist, has interesting news for farmers.

He says they can run motors with dust made of pulverized coal, charcoal, farm waste and other substances.

KAWLIKOWSKI runs an 80-horse power Diesel motor with pulverized vegetable materials, costing 75 per cent less than gasoline costs in Germany.

DRIED and ground cornstalks could run all the farm machinery.

Everybody knows the terrific explosive power of dust as demonstrated in exploding grain elevators. Controlling the power in motors is new.

THE Federal Reserve authorities are entitled to the information that they are unpopular throughout the country. One hundred and twenty millions of Americans are not aware that the Federal Reserve was established to tell them what they may and may not buy, stocks or anything else.

THEY ALL TROD THE PATH OF GLORY TO THE GRAVE

Death has struck down these six leading figures in the great drama of the World war. Strangely enough, from the death of Earl Haig, in January, 1928, to that of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, they have followed each other to the grave within the compass of little more than a year. Left to right are shown, Earl Haig, died Jan., 1928; General Diaz, died Feb., 1928; Lieut-General Jacques, died Nov., 1928; Marshal Foch, died March 20, 1929; General Sarrail, died March, 1929, and Myron T. Herrick, died March 31, 1929.

SABO IS AGAIN SENTENCED TO DIE IN "CHAIR"

Akron Killer Will Pay Penalty on May 3.

APPEAL REJECTED

Three Times Court Stays Have Saved Him.

COLUMBUS, O., April 4.—John Sabo, convicted Akron murderer, was today sentenced to die in the electric chair at the Ohio state penitentiary May 3, after the supreme court rejected an appeal for a rehearing of the case.

Sabo was convicted by the Summit county courts for the murder of Barton C. Painter, on May 26, 1926.

Three times Sabo has been saved by court stays. While confined in the "death row" at Ohio state penitentiary he has watched ten men take the walk through "the little green door."

Date of execution was first fixed for July 15, 1926. The appellate court granted him a stay until March 16, 1927. Next the supreme court decided to review his case, and an indefinite stay was granted.

In each instance, the stays were given to Sabo on the eve of the day he was to "ride the thunderbolt," as they say in prison parlance.

Sabo recently gained state-wide notoriety, when he gave a supper to the inmates of death row on the day before he was to have been electrocuted. The supreme court saved him from taking the "rap" at that time.

Sabo is but 22 years of age, and is a native of a southern European country.

LIONS PLAN ARMY DAY PROGRAM

Two discussions, one dealing with school needs in East Liverpool and the other pertaining to the state convention in Youngstown, June 15-16, and the international convention at Louisville, Ky., July 18-21, featured the dinner meeting of the Lions' club in the grill room of the Travelers' hotel last night.

Army day will be celebrated at next Wednesday's meeting which will be in charge of Attorney W. S. Foulks. H. D. Rist is chairman of the committee sponsoring a Thomas Jefferson birthday celebration on April 17. Better Homes week will be celebrated April 24 with G. L. Brokaw in charge of the program.

RADER SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON

Evangelist Paul Rader, Chicago, who is conducting a series of gospel meetings in the First United Presbyterian church, addressed members of the Kiwanis club and their guests at a luncheon in the Travelers' grill room.

Forty members attended the meeting. H. B. Keys presided. The club singing was directed by Prof. H. F. Laughlin.

FIREMEN ANSWER SEVEN ALARMS

Seven alarms, six of which were caused by grass fires, were received by the fire department yesterday. One call was prompted by a motor truck blaze near the Louthan Supply company's plant in Harvey avenue. The truck, whose owner was not identified, was slightly damaged.

Three Men Frustrated In Ohio Jailbreak

Alleged Leaders Thrown Into Solitary Confinement After Tunneling Through Floor In Pickaway County Building.

CIRCLEVILLE, O., April 4.—(INS.)—An attempted break from the Pickaway county jail here was frustrated today and its two alleged ring leaders were thrown into solitary confinement.

Three prisoners succeeded in tunneling through the limestone floor of the jail, by using an iron bar taken from a cot.

The break was discovered when the smallest of the men, Clarence Rooker, 18, became "stuck" in the hole, unable to get through to the dungeon below and unable to back out. The hole led to the dungeon below the jail, from which an escape had been effected about eight years ago.

Those placed in solitary confinement are Robert McClarin, 19, who recently confessed to a series of robberies, and Boone Hunter, 22, being held on charges of non-support, burglary, larceny, and breaking into a dwelling.

AIRMEN LAND HERE FOR PARLEY

Enroute from Troy to their home in Ellwood City, Pa., W. W. Wright and son landed their biplane at the Chamber of Commerce airport in Madison township at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to confer with members of the chamber's aviation committee.

Wright who made frequent visits to East Liverpool last year, and his son hopped off from Troy at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, coming here in two hours. They resumed their trip at 5:15 o'clock last night.

HUSBAND SHOT, WIFE IS HELD

GREENVILLE, O., April 4.—Unable to furnish bond of $5,000, Mrs. Anola Farmer, 32, of Versailles, is being held in the county jail here today pending the death or recovery of her husband Howard W. Farmer, 36, whom she shot and seriously wounded at their home in Versailles, near here, yesterday.

Farmer was taken to a hospital at Piqua, where it is said that there is very little hope for recovery.

Mrs. Farmer surrendered to Marshal William Jacobi. She was charged with shooting to kill, and upon arraignment was bound over to the Darke county grand jury.

Birth of Daughter Announced.

A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Moore, Glenmoor. The father is employed in the typographical department of The Review.

MRS. HOOVER DRIVES OWN CAR

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(INS)—Another Washington precedent was knocked galley-west when Mrs. Herbert Hoover got under the wheel of her own private automobile and took several women companions for a ride in her new car, unaccompanied by chauffeur or the usual secret service operative.

Old Washingtonians could not remember when the wife of a president drove her own equipage. Certainly none has ever driven her own automobile about the streets of the capital.

The new car is a dark sedan and has no distinctive markings or number plate. Mrs. Hoover plans to make extensive use of it.

Accompanying Mrs. Hoover on this morning's ride were Mrs. Adolph Ochs, wife of the New York publisher; Mrs. Edgar Rickard and the latter's daughter.

MOTORIST HELD FOR HEARING

H. H. Harrison East End, was held for a hearing at 10 o'clock Saturday morning when he faced Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today, charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated. He was arrested in East End last night by Patrolman John Richards.

Three other motorists, two charged with parking violations and the other with fast and reckless driving, paid fines this morning. Kenneth Keefer, Zelinople, Pa., forfeited $16 on a charge of fast and reckless driving in East End, while Nathan Caplin, of this city, and Wesley Wilson, Wellsville, paid $2 fines for parking in Welch alley, opposite the Central fire station in St. Clair avenue.

THREE FLIERS BURN TO DEATH

SCOTT CITY, Kan., April 4.—(INS.)—Three men were burned to death when an airplane fell and burst into flames near here today. The plane was enroute from Scott City to Tribune, Kan.

The dead:

Dr. C. C. McGinnis, and Chester Riley of Scott City and John Flournoy, of Wichita.

MAN AND WIFE ARE RESCUED AS HOME BURNS

DWELLING RAZED

Invalid in Serious Condition Because of Shock.

WILMINGTON, O., April 4.—Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Garner narrowly escaped death today when fire destroyed their ten-room home at Martinsville, six miles from here.

Both were asleep in the burning building and had lost consciousness. They were carried to safety a few minutes before the building collapsed.

Dr. Garner, an invalid for several years, is reported in a serious condition from shock and the results of the suffocation.

Mrs. Garner was revived and apparently was little the worse for her experience.

The blaze is thought to have been caused by defective wiring. The house was completely modern and built of hardwood lumber.

Loss was placed at between $10,000 and $15,000.

OHIO ASSEMBLY SPEEDS UP WORK

COLUMBUS, O., April 4.—(INS)—With sessions scheduled for tonight and Friday night in both legislative branches, as well as the regular afternoon sessions, the Ohio legislature today moved toward its 10-day recess which is to start Saturday at noon.

The house today is expected to concur in the action of the senate which, by a vote of 24, to 9, adopted the Aigler joint resolution providing for sine die adjournment of the legislature April 16. The senate, also, concurred in the action of the house which adopted the Hamilton joint resolution setting Saturday noon as the time for starting the 10-day recess.

Besides confirming 10 appointments made by Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, the senate late yesterday passed 17 bills. The house passed 15 measures last night and yesterday afternoon.

ENRAGED HUSBAND KILLS WIFE, SELF

REYNOLDSVILLE, Pa., April 4.—(INS)—Driven into an insane rage of jealousy, Frank Chiffen, 55, fireman in a Reynoldsville silk mill, killed his wife, Gertrude, 40, with a pole axe early today and then shot himself to death.

Chiffen attacked his wife as she lay in bed, raining blows on her head with the axe which he had previously sharpened to a razor-like edge. The woman's screams awakened their six children, the oldest of which, Frank, jr., struck the father as the latter fled to the living room. Placing a crucifix in his left hand, Chiffen then seized a revolver and fired a shot through his brain.

FERGUSON GETS CONTRACT FOR NEW POTTERY

$500,000 IS BID

Harrop Ceramic Service Will Install Three Tunnel Kilns.

Contracts for the construction of the building and three tunnel kilns of the proposed $1,500,000 plant of the Homer Laughlin China company, to be erected at Newell this summer, were awarded today.

Kilns Cost $500,000.

The H. K. Ferguson company, Cleveland, builders of the No. 6 plant, was awarded the contract for the factory upon a bid of approximately $500,000. The bisque and two glost tunnel kilns, which will cost another half million dollars, will be erected by the Harrop Ceramic Service company, Columbus.

The Ferguson company will break ground for the new plant early next week. The contract calls for completion of the structure within 70 working days, or by the latter part of July. The building, which will join the Nos. 6 and 7 plants on the west side, will be about 1,200 feet in length and 400 feet in width at one end and 90 feet in width at the other end. It will have a floor space of 375,000 square feet. The structure will be one story high and of brick, steel and concrete in construction.

The bisque kiln will be about 375 feet in length. The two glost kilns which will be about 320 feet in length, will parallel, running east and west and at right angles to the bisque kiln.

Plant Ready in Fall.

The glost kilns will not only take care of the output of the new bisque kiln but will also assist in handling an overflow from the Nos. 6 and 7 plants, company officials said.

Decorating kiln machinery and other contracts will be considered within the next few weeks.

The plant, which will be ready for operation in September or October, will offer employment to 800 workers. It will have a capacity of 40 upright kilns. It will be known as No. 8.

Laughlin offcials have not determined whether the plant will be used in the production of ivory or white ware.

FALLING LADDER STRIKES FARMER

Arthur B. Conkle of the Bell school house district, seven miles north of here, was recovering today from concussion of the brain, suffered Monday when struck by an extension ladder, which had been resting on the limb of a pine tree in front of his home. Conkle was building a grape arbor, when the ladder, caught by a gust of wind, toppled to the ground on top of him. He was attended by Dr. J. J. Fitzsimmons of Calcutta.

COLUMBIANA MAN IS FINED $400

Stephen K. Wagner, Columbiana garage owner, was fined $$400 and costs by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle at Lisbon today when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of illegally possessing intoxicating liquor.

Wagner was arrested recently by Sheriff W. J. Barlow and Deputy Sheriff James Elliott. He at first pleaded not guilty but later changed his plea.

U. S. Engineers Make Survey For Proposed $5,000,000 Dam Below No. 8 Locks Here

Tentative Plans Call for Elimination of Old System.

War department engineers from the Pittsburgh office today were making surveys for a proposed $5,000,000 dam, which, according to tentative plans, will be located in the Ohio river below the present No. 8 locks.

The proposed dam, which would be of concrete in construction, would have a "lift" of aproximately 30 feet, would eliminate No. 7 at Midland and the No. 6 locks at Vanport, Pa., as well as No. 8.

Recommendation for an appropriation will be made by the war department at the session of congress next December.

Tentative plans, according to No. 8 officials, call for the construction of lock buildings on the Howard farm, east of Congo. Brick buildings at the No. 8 locks would be retained for storage purposes. The dam would be the stationary-type, eliminating wickets and needles which are used in maintaining a pool stage during dry weather.

Captain William Henderson and three men from the Pittsburgh engineers' office are in charge of the surveys. Captain R. C. McCullough, district superintendent, and H. M. Welons, assistant engineer, visited the dam yesterday, while Colonel Jarvis J. Bain, district engineer for the Allegheny and Monongahela river, also of Pittsburgh, was here on an inspection trip today.

Construction Work on Howard Farm is Hinted.

The No. 8 locks were completed in 1911, six years having been required in the construction work. The "lift" in the present dam is six feet, which provides a pool for the No. 7 locks at Midland.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

Clean-Up Days

As a result of the co-operation of the municipal health board and service department, East Liverpool should present improved appearance insofar as back yards and, in some instances, front yards are concerned when summer makes its advent, for the way has been paved for the removal of the winter's accumulation of rubbish.

Monday, April 22, to Saturday, May 4, has been designated by the health board as a clean-up period, and there is expected to be a general attack on tin cans, waste paper and other substances which have been tossed into out-of-the-way places.

And to expedite the work, Service Director John W. Moore has promised to send motor trucks into all sections of the city for the purpose of collecting all rubish, except ashes and garage, providing it is placed in boxes, barrels or other receptacles in alleys or streets.

The campaign is planned as a sanitary measure as well as a means of fire prevention, for attics, cellars and back yards play no small part in spreading disease and offering fire hazards if they are used as hiding places for rubbish.

And while on the clean-up job, it would not be amiss to devote a little attention to sidewalks in some sections of the city. Many of them seldom are swept and know not the purpose of a hose.

Civil pride should prompt co-operation.

Executive Industry

There have been exclamations of surprise at the amount of work that President Hoover has accomplished in the few days he has been in office. Something that has far-reaching ramifications has come out of his office almost every day, it is revealed, but the observation upon it is that Mr. Hoover has been in Washington for so long and in so important a position that he did not need to spend a long time in preparing for his task.

At Cleveland the other day, it is reported that his hearers were startled when Governor Myers Cooper, who is just beginning his fourth month in office, launched into a trial balance of the achievements of the state since he took office Janauary 9. When it is understood that he spoke to an audience representing the leaders in all lines of activity in Cleveland, it may be certain that it must be an impressive record to "startle" them.

The governor listed as accomplishments the fact that the iniquitious Pence law had repealed by the Carpenter bill; the foreign insurance tax has been repealed; the state library has been restored; the first important step in obtaining a new state office building has been taken; he predicted the passage of the "honest elections" measures and of the new blue sky laws; he said that a greatly improved good roads program is certain of enatment.

With that record, Governor Cooper left the impression that more will be done, but that he will seek not new laws but enforcement of good laws and repeal of bad ones,, as he promised throughout his campaign.

One big thing remains to be done by President Hoover before the summer solstice withers the energy of Washington. The farm relief session of congress is coming along and the problem may be disposed of. There has been some criticism that the president will not outline his farm aid plans to congress, will let them go ahead under their own steam. The president's defense to that is that his broad general principles for farm relief are well known, that they were fought out in the last campaign. Congressional leaders know it, it is claimed, that the equalization fee or excise tax plan is not wanted, that some sort of loan fund and board to control it would be the solution. One able Washington correspondent says that although the president will avoid any appearance of dictating to congress, the responsibility will still be with him.

But his trial balance thus far is, too, impressive. His announcement that there would be a fact-fining commission on prohibition; his pronunciamento on the oil conservation policy; his dismissal of the Mayflower and its crew, and the breaking up of the presidential stables; his warning that those stables of Augea, patronage in the south, must be cleaned out; his proclamation on immigration restriction; his prompt action on the Mexican question, all furnish the beginnings of a splendid record.

The Groping Girl

The career-seeking American girl, although she regards herself as independent, advanced and self-determining, still is handicapped by preconceived limitations and amateuish groping when she starts out to find her place in life.

She starts with the idea that she must be a secretary, an interior decorator, an actress, tea-room owner, or get into some similar field already over-crowded by girls because it is the popular thing to do. Or, on the other hand, she deems herself fitted, without preparation, to fill a post which requires long years of thorough preparation.

These are the points brought out by Frances Parkinson Keyes, associate editor of Good Housekeeping magazines, who, in the April issue, relates recent experiences with young women seeking advice on prospective careers.

Too many still are timid about doing the thing that "is not being done," Mrs. Keyes points out. They are afraid they will lose caste in the eyes of their friends if they venture outside the approved fields of stenography, the stage, the arts, the tea-room, antiques, or the fashion shop.

Beaver county, Pa., courts have adopted an effective method of checking the operation of bootleggers. Jail sentences as well as fines are meted out to violators of the prohibition law.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 4.—That the problem of providing the youth of the nation with adequate instruction may be solved by radio is strongly suggested by the results of a special inquiry just conducted by the American Academy of Political and Social Science. In connection with a general survey of the place radio is occupying in national development, its place in education was especially canvassed. J. J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida and former commissioner of the United States Bureau of Education, was in charge of that branch of the study.

In his final report Tigert remarks: "Radio is a present force in education is an actuality. But, more important, radio, as a future force in education, is a potent possibility."

Tigert has investigated the use of radio in schools from its inception. He points out that individual schools ten years ago gave spelling bees and entertainments to raise money to buy talking machines as it was thought that they would be helpful in musical instruction. Later similar methods were being used to buy picture machines and screens to assist visually in education. Now, where instruments are not furnished by the school authorities, classes are raising money to buy receiving sets. Tigert suggests that it may not be long before television will be added as an educational device.

A questionnaire has been sent to the schools of the country to determine what use is being made of radio. Results are various. New Jersey leads all other states, more than half of its schools being equipped with radio receiving sets for educational use in classrooms during school hours. Nebraska comes next with 25 per cent of its schools equipped. In other states replies are scattering.

There is a marked difference of opinion among educators as to the propriety of using radio in classrooms. To begin with there is a consensus of opinion that radio is of little value in the first six grades of public schools but becomes of increasing value as pupils grow older and ascend in their grades. Some educators might be regarded as enthusiastic ovre the usefulness of radio as an educational agent, others see in it only a supplementary value, while still others of a conservative cast turn their thumbs down and take a position susceptible of interpretation as meaning that it constitutes an interruption to studies.

However, the general trend of educators is toward radio. "Radio in education has its greatest possibilities in the field of inspiration, interpretation, orientaton, and educational guidance," is the dictum laid down by Dr. W. H. Lighty, director of the department of extension teaching of the University of Wisconsin and chairman of the radio committee of the National University extension association. He continues: "It arouses and stimulates curiosity, breaking down error, prejudices, and other evils through the broadening and illumination of men's horizons. It is this, rather than direct instruction, that is the big thing."

Universities themselves, especially state universities, have taken up broadcasting to some extent. The Ohio State university broadcasts directly from the classroom giving outside listeners the same instruction as the pupils actually present. The University of Iowa offers extension courses over the radio, giving weekly lectures. The Alabama Polytechnic Institute broadcasts technical instruction. The University of Minnesota has attempted the teaching of foreign languages. Nebraska Wesleyan formally enrolled a class of 130 radio students for a course. Check-ups were made by mail and it was found that 80 completed the course and received awards. South Dakota State college is planning an entire course on the air this year. It will award certificates to any completing the course. Some schools give actual credits for work done but this has not yet become general.

Careful study of results has shown that the subjects best adapted to radio education are arithmetic and art, seemingly a curious combination. Benton high school at St. Joseph, Mo., uses radio in all classrooms, the principal of the school controlling the distribution, throwing lessons into this classroom or that at will.

One curious sort of a deadlock exists just at present. Many schools throughout the country say they would make more complete installations of radio receiving sets if the universities would broadcast more comprehensive purely educational programs. The universities say they would give the programs if the schools had receiving sets to get the benefit and prevent them from being wasted on the desert air. University officials have formed a committee to work in co-operation with school authorities to iron out this situation.

Q. Why is Death Valley so hot and dry? S. T.

A. The climate of Death Valley, California, is due in a measure to its configuration. It consists of a long, narrow, valley, considerably below sea level. The Panamint Mountains shut out from it the moist winds of the Pacific so that in August there is less than one-half of one per cent of moisture in the atmosphere.

Q. How are automobiles timed for speed at Daytona Beach? C. M.

A. Automobiles are timed at Daytona Beach by a trap laid at the start of the mile, and a wire at the end of the mile. These are connected with an instrument in the judge's stand which clicks the time when the car passes over the trap and the wire. The average is then made between the north and south trips.

Q. Why were some of our troops sent to Siberia in 1918? E. M. H.

A. In the summer of 1918 the Czechoslovakian armies operating in Siberia were threatened with destruction by hostile forces apparently organized by and often largely composed of enemy prisoners of war. It was of importance to the government of the United States that assistance be rendered and Russia aided to regain control of her own affairs and own territory. As Japan and the United States were the only two divisions in a position to act in Siberia in sufficient force to accomplish the purpose sought, the government of the United States proposed to Japan that each country send a few thousand men to Vladivostok. The government of Japan consented. The command of the forces was given to Major General William S. Graves. The troops arrived at Vladivostok from San Francisco and Manila in several contingents and by the end of September 1918, the whole force had landed. The purpose of continuance of American troops in Siberia was for maintaining an artery or trade in the operation of the Siberian railroad.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, April 4.—One of Manhattan's unique institutions is the Virginia Pope Bird Home occupying an outmoded brown stone front in West 65th street. It is a friendly sanctuary for birds that are ill, homeless or whose owners are on long journeys.

Three floors of high ceiled rooms are given over to several hundred domesticated pets. Stage people own more birds than any other class. The aviary is named for the original owner whose love for birds was the dominating motive of her life.

The work is carried on today by Mrs. Hattie Williams, a motherly type, who has a half dozen assistants to carry out her orders. The ledger of the bird boarding house shows a list of patrons from many high walks of life—Marion Talley, Margaret Anglin, Fred Stone, Otto Kahn and so on.

The birds are not freed to fly about the house but must keep to individual cages. Every variety almost is there—parrots, white cockatoos, the tropical, love birds, canaries galore and sundry others with unpronouncable names from the outer rims of civilization.

There are those that must be put in black sacks nightly or they cannot sleep. Others must have a certain diet or pine away. There are mated birds that droop when parted and there are innumerable feathered Thespians that were sent there by stranded troupers.

Boarding tariff varies. Canaries and thrushes are cared for at a dollar a week. Talking parrots for three dollars a week and those addicted to impolite language are not admitted. Strange exotic birds of rare plumage requiring special attention are charged $5 a week.

Many convalescing with broken legs hop about in slippery elm splints. The most prevalent ailment among birds is grippe which is relieved with whiskey. Birds are often taken there for surgical operations but cannot be anesthetized. One slight whiff and they expire.

On West 42nd street is another odd enterprise suggesting days agone and the only survivor perhaps in America. In a narrow slit of shop a bewhiskered gentleman remindful of Santa Claus repairs old time music boxes once prized by grandparents. They are the sort wound up by hand and dialed to render such airs as "Blue Bells of Scotland" and "Annie Laurie." Every attic almost has one and recently they have become valuable to collectors. Thus the aged repairer does quite a business. He learned his trade in St. Croix, Switzerland, where all music boxes were made in their era of popularity.

Broadway first nighters have missed Hetty Green's son, Colonel Edward, who used to attend almost every important premiere. The Colonel spends his time on his vast estates overlooking Buzzards' Bay, where his experimental laboratories and flying field are situated. Too rheumatism has claimed him and coupled with the loss of a limb which he suffered in boyhood, getting about is difficult. He has none of his mother's pecuniary peculiarities and proved his ability as a money maker before he fell heir to her millions. Close friends call him Eddie.

Hotel records show the most frequent visitors to town are natives of Los Angeles and Detroit. From Detroit come the automotive autocrats and from Los Angeles the migratory movie moguls and they are flashy spenders who demand the best.

One of those what-the-men-wear youths with a Came the Down! mustache was jay walking across the avenue this afternoon when a traffic cop shouted: Don't be late to tea, Ethelbert!" And the way he wheeled around and put that cop in his place was grand. You can't always tell.

It strikes me—business of stealing a bow—New York owes much to its country jakes this year. Six of its newest big buildings and two new hotels were erected by boys who came from towns of less than 1,000. Come to think of it, maybe they owe New York a lot. Anyway, it was a mild winter.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

At some time or other you may be called upon to give first aid to a person who is having a fit or has fallen in a faint. What are you to do? You feel you must do something, but just what is it?

There are several causes for loss of consciousness. That most common is an ordinary "fainting spell." Lots of people have a tendency to aint and do so on the slightest provocation. More than any similar trouble, this is the one you are likely to witness.

In apoplexy, the victim may fall to the ground absolutely unconscious. This sounds like a faint, doesn't it? But, as I shall sow you shortly, it is not difficult to recognize the difference.

There is also the loss of consciousness due to poisoning. This may be caused by a poison taken into the stomach, or it may come from the absorption of poisons generated within the body. Alcohol is a common example of the one, and what the doctors call "uremic poisoning" is a form of the other type.

How are you to tell whether the case is a fainting spell or is due to apoplexy? If you will consider the cause of each there will be no difficulty.

Fainting is due to the effects of a sudden emotion or other cause upon the action of the heart. It is slowed up in its activity. It does not beat with sufficient force to send the blood through the body and into the brain. The skin is blanched and cold. The face is white, like wax. There is a dead look, the pulse is so faint it cannot be felt and the breathing is very, very slow.

In apoplexy and in the more common poisonings, the brain is filled with blood. The face is flushed, almost purple in color, perhaps. The breathing is noisy, possibly snoring in its nature. The pulse is slow and full.

Have I told you enough to make clear what you should do? Since there is not enough blood in the brain, when the patient is in a faint, your effort should be to help Nature to supply that vital organ. To do this you must call upon gravity to help.

Place the patient on the floor or a sofa. Raise the legs and hips. Keep the head very low and the feet high. In this position the blood naturally gravitates to the brain.

Just exactly the opposite is the treatment to give the person who has a flushed face and congestion of the brain. It should be your effort to get the blood out of the head.

Raise the head, shoulders and upper part of the body. Keep the hips and the legs low. Call on gravity here, but with the idea of draining the blood from the brain.

The person in a faint is cold and clammy. Cover him up, but permit lots of fresh air to reach his face.

Never try to pour whiskey or other stimulant down the throat of an unfor the doctor who will arrive in time drown him, by getting the liquid into the lungs instead of the stomach.

If there is not a total loss of consciousness, a fainting person will be benefitted by a stimulant. But in its absence, the simple things I have suggested will be helpful always and never harmful.

This is all the layman can do to advantage. You will send somebody for teh doctor who will arrive in time to give appropriate medical treatment.

Tax Refund Publicity.

The executive order giving publicity to federal income tax refunds and abatements of more than $20,000 will meet popular wishes, as well as "an expressed congressional policy." While there has been no disposition on the part of the public to take seriously Senator McKellar's insinuations against the treasury department, as long as its management of tax refunds and abatements was shrouded in secrecy, there was an opportunity for criticism, which persons evilly disposed toward the secretary of the treasury were diligent in using.

An early effect of opening refund transactions to the public eye should be, as Secretary Mellon says, to convince the country that there is nothing mysterious about tax refunds and, that the treasury department has nothing to hide; that in virtually all cases such refunds have been necessitated by adverse court decisions or omissions or ambiguities in the statues and have thus been a necessary part of the administration of the tax laws. Officials who hold the purse strings of a democracy are always suspected by a section of the citizenry. "There are men," wrote Alexander Hamilton, "who could neither be distressed nor won into a sacrifice of their duty; but this stern virtue is the growth of new souls." Where it exists it should not be hidden under a bushel.

The wisdom of removing all cause for suspicion respecting tax refunds is so obvious that Secretary Mellon can have delayed recommending publicity only out of a desire to protect the interests of the tax-payers by keeping the secrets revealed to the government in their tax returns. This protection is obtained in the new regulations by providing that under no circumstances shall they be construed "as making any return, or any part thereof, open to inspection, or as authorizing the cause of an income gains or profits, or the specific transactions resulting in losses or expenditures to be made public." With this safeguard established, admitting public scrutiny of the records of refunds will satisfy legitimate curiosity, allow the congress to feel that it has put one over on Secretary Mellon and place the administration of the tax laws above suspicion of favoritism.—Detroit Free Press.

When You Look for Friends.

Don't expect the person who is seeking honors to be a good friend.

That person has a more or less selfish aim in life.

If it becomes necessary to sacrifice your happiness or your friendship in order to gain a coveted honor, such sacrifices will be made.

You may be a person of this sort.

You know then that the experiences you have had, the joy of gaining something which pleased your pride, outweighed any debt of gratitude you may have felt you owed to others.

You know that you believed those who might interfere with your progress were treated as handicaps to be avoided.

Knowing these things about yourself, why do you expect consideration from a person known to think only of himself?

You may have had experience with social climbers.

For a while you thought them genuinely interested in you.

Perhaps you were in a position to further their desires.

When you became socially useless they soon dropped you.

If you want real friendship, the safest person to tie to is the one who will not trample you to gain an objective.

CHARLES HACKETT, TENOR, WILL SING IN CONCERT HERE APRIL 19

CHARLES HACKETT, tenor for the Chicago Civic Opera company, will appear at the Ceramic theater, Friday, April 19, in the third and concluding concert of the Civic Music association's 1928-29 season.

Hackett made his memorable debut in 1919 in opera in this country at the Metropolitna Opera House, New York, in the "Barber of Seville," and since then he has sung in opera and in concert in all the principal music centers of the world. His tour of Australia was one of the great triumphs of his career and one of the most successful tours any artist has ever had on that continent.

He was born in Worcester, Mass. He received his early education in the public schools of that city. He made his first public appearance as a singer when he was a member of the Worcester high school glee club. It was then he discovered he had a voice.. He went to Boston soon after and there obtained a position as soloist in a church choir.

Hackett's success was so decided that he made up his mind to go to Italy and there develop himself as an opera singer. He made his Italian debut in opera in Genoa and was immediately engaged to sing in the famous La Scala in Milan. South America demanded him for a tour and he went there to sing at the celebrated Colon Opera in Buenos Aires. His success was so great that he was re-engaged for two seasons and later sang in the Municipal theater in Rio de Janiero, Brazil.

At the invitation of Arturo Toscanini, Hackett returned to the La Scala for the re-opening of that famous institution in 1922. Subsequent appearances at Monte Carlo brought him new laurels. Then followed his great success in Paris and his return to his own country for further and even greater glories.

Hackett's popularity throughout the United States is established and deserved and his successes in concert have equalled his triumphs in opera. Recently he made another tour of the leading opera houses of Europe, singing at Monte Carlo, Berlin, Munich, Vienna, Paris, and shared the triumphs of Dame Nellie Melba's final performance at Covent Garden, London.

Roanoke Lady About To Give Up Till "Orange Root" Came

Mrs. Mary E. Brown Tells How "ORANGE ROOT" Relieved Her of Fatigue, Quieted Her Nerves, Increased Her Strength and Built Up Her Exhausted, Rundown System—Gained 6 Pounds and Still Going Up.

Mrs. Mary E. Brown, of Roanoke, Va., Route No. 2, gives "ORANGE ROOT" all the credit for restoring her to glorious health, after all treatments had failed her. She says: "I have been in poor health for the past year—My system was all run down, and I was extremely thin and very nervous. I felt fatigued and wornout all the time. I doctored and took many different medicines but failed to improve. My strength continued to leave me, and when just about to give up hope of ever getting well again, I heard about this ORANGE ROOT Iron and Celery Compound FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING A DOSE OF ORANGE ROOT THAT EXHAUSTED, WORN-OUT FEELING LEFT ME! I continued to improve daily since taking it, and have ACTUALLY GAINED SIX POUNDS IN WEIGHT. All signs of nervousness have left me, my strength has returned twofold, and I feel like a new made person. I have a dandy appetite, my food seems to agree with me, and I sleep soundly all night long. I do not know what it is now to be tired any more, as this great ORANGE ROOT has stimulated and sertngthened my whole body. I certainly recommend it to anyone in a nervous, rundown condition, and think it would be especially good for anyone who had had the influenza, for it is truly a wonderful tonic to build one up. I am telling all my friends about it." All those who are weak, have no appetite, are nervous, rheumatic and dyspeptic, have skin eruptions due to bad blood, and are underweight, have had the "flu," and are devoid of strength, are advised to go this very minute to MATHEWS CUT RATE MEDICINE STORE, where the Orange Root man is meeting great crowds daily introducing this wonder-HEALTH GIVING ORANGE ROOT—get three bottles of it, take it faithfully for a few days, and watch the marvelous improvement in health. ORANGE ROOT is not a "fake," but a real, honest-to-goodness IRON and HERBS tonic, endorsed by over 100,000 grateful and happy users. Take it today and GET WELL. To stimulate lazy livers to energetic action, and to cleanse the bowels of poisonous waste matter, take a little golden NUGGET at bed time occasionally. They act gently, yet thoroughly. Prices, TONIC, $1.25; NUGGETS, 50c Follow the crowds to MATHEWS where the Orange Root man is making his headquarters here. It may mean years of HEALTH to you.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

BY JOAN

Young wife: Aren't you the same man I gave some biscuits to last week?

Tramp: No, mum, and the doctor says I never will be again.

I've observed that stores have their hobbies, just as we humans. At Frank Diamond's their hobby is "perfect fitting." Thats one reason why so many men buy their suits there. They feel confident it will fit perfectly and that's the prime factor in purchasing a suit of clothes. Their suits are tailored exclusively for Frank Diamond's in the finest fabrics and patterns you will find anywhere. They have a complete assortment of everything that goes to make up the most discriminating man's wardrobe.

If you've an ounce of curiosity in your system you'll not let another day slip by before you see the new Karpen Living-room suites at Crook's Furniture Store. I saw them yesterday, but honestly I can't find the proper adjective to describe their beauty to you. You know, however what the name "Karpen" has always signified in the art of furnishings. They use only the best materials in constructing and finishing. Instead of the tow and moss filling found in many of the high-priced suites..Karpen uses hair and cotton entirely and listen, their Mohair suites are guaranteed to remain free of moth for three years. Think of that!

I agree with you..there is no substitute for good butter. It's very important that we use good butter in preparing foods to be really appetizing. Your success as a cook depends on it. I have your interest at heart ..that's why I'm urging you to use Allen's butter. Every pint of cream they use is first tested, then pasteurized before being churned. Is it any wonder it's so fresh and sweet? And what's more they churn every day at the City Market.

All is not gold that glitters..I should say not. Among your friends and acquaintances you can number several who have lost fortunes on fake investments. Take the dreadful example of Mrs. C. N. Jones whose husband died..leaving her a tidy little fortune. In less than six months she had lost it on fake oil stock. She had no knowledge of stocks and bonds and didn't even buy from a reliable firm. She might have saved herself all this grief had she sought advice at The First National Bank. Inteligent information can be had here for the asking. Remember this when considering an important investment.

Tut-Tut! Don't argue unless you are in a position to know. I investistated this matter of chocolate pretty thoroughly before I dared to influence your choice. I've taken on several pounds lately trying to discover the best chocolate flavor. Now I'm ready to give you the truth. Siren's mild bitter-sweet chocolate is my favorite and judging from the number of folks who patronize Carnahan's Drug Store for their chocolate drinks and sundaes it is also the people's choice. Next time you're in the mood try one of their delicious chocolate malted milks.

Granting you were disappointed 'cause you didn't have your new coat for Easter, I'd like to offer consolation by way of telling you that LEMMER'S are featuring an after-Easter sale on some of their coats. Saving a few dollars will compensate for having waited. You had hoped for just this news? Then I did the right thing when I asked Mr. Lemmer's permission to announce the good tidings. Certainly hope you'll find the coat of your choice in the group. At any rate 'twill do no harm to investigate. You'll see lovely dress coats of broadcloth, cashmere and faille, furred in such fashionable flat pelts as mole, monkey and American broadtail and there are any number of the ever-popular sports models.

If you're in need of a good laugh (and you are if you're house-cleaning) or if you're tired and depressed and feel the need of an antidote for the "blues," I'd suggest seeing the screen version of "Stolen Kisses." It's a farcial little comedy..a rollicking bit of brightness, starring May McAvoy.

You've been in homes whose windows were curtained and draped so charmingly that if you did succeed in coaxing your eyes away from them, 'twould be for a few seconds only..again you'd be caught beneath their spell and you'd be racking your brain as to how they were made and how many curtain rods they concealed, etc. You would breathe to the friend at your left, "Those bewitching drapes!" Mrs. Nealings is surely an artist! "No more an artist than you or I," would be her retort. If you want your windows to look like that..call Ogilvie's. They'll send a representative who'll suggest the correct treatment for your windows and tell you the cost. Of course, you select your material and say: I never saw such gorgeous drapery materials as OGILVIE'S are showing this Spring.

GOITRE

A new treatment for goitre has been developed by the W. T. B. Laboratories 1234 Sanborn Bldg., Battle Creek, Michigan, which many believe will prove to be the long-sought specific for this unsightly and dangerous disease. Many of the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day. They gradually get smaller, and in many cases are entirely gone in a few weeks. It is equally efficient in cases of toxic and so-called inside goitre. The treatment is harmless and anyone can use it with perfect safety at home.

A 48-page illustrated booklet on the Causes, Dangers and Non-Surgical Treatment of Goitre, issued by the Laboratories, fully explains the new treatment and will be mailed free to any interested sufferer.—Adv.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

LITTLE BLDG. "DIAMOND"

Severe Itching, Burning Pimples Over Body. Cuticura Healed.

"First the pimples started on my hands and face and then spread all over my body. They were large and red, and the itching and burning were so severe that I scratched, causing them to bleed. I could not sleep at night on account of the irritation.

"I tried different remedies but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief, and after using two or three boxes of Cuticura Ointment, together with the Cuticura Soap, I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Aina Kallunki, 4321 Acorn St., Calumet, Mich., Nov 2, 1928.

A Magazine Critic Has the Following to Say About—

BUSTER KEATON'S "SPITE MARRIAGE"

(Reprinted Verbatim)

SPITE MARRIAGE
Comedy too Good to Miss

AS YOU value your laugh, don't miss the first half of Spite Marriage, for in it you'll see Buster Keaton funnier than I've ever seen him before and quite as funny as Charlie Chaplin at his funniest.

It's all done in kindness to a bride who has taken a quart too much. Buster is a poor little pants presser who dresses up in his customers' clothes and tags around after an actress until she marries him just to spite the leading man, who loves another.

The fun starts early when Buster gets behind the scenes and into the part of a soldier in a Civil War drummer, but it reaches its heights after the bride gets home from a cafe where she had taken on a load calculated to discourage the most wakeful bridegroom.

Getting her on a chair is bad enough, but getting her into bed is worse. His heart is in his work, and this is what makes it so hilarious. If he were cross with her it would be a different matter. But there is no end to his patience and his tenderness. You know he is going to get that poor dumb bride into bed even though it breaks his back. When finally he does get her there he is exhausted, and so are you—with laughter. Dorothy Sebastine furnishes the load.

There are also sea-going stunts, but they aren't a drop in the bucket to Buster's bridal night. Here is comedy too good to miss. High spots: Buster falling all over himself and the bride at one and the same time—M. G. M.

Coal Miner Fatally Injured At Empire

WELLSVILLE, O., April 4—Charles Thrasher, 52 years old, of Stratton, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock when he was caught beneath a fall of slate in the Locust Grove Coal company mine, Empire.

The slate fell just above Thrasher, who was alone at the time.

Fellow workmen dug him out of the slate and he was taken to the East Liverpool hospital where he lived less than half an hour. He was accompanied by Dr. John Young of Empire.

Thrasher's back was broken.

Thrasher is married and has several children. His home is in Stratton.

MICHIGAN VOTE ON WET-DRY ISSUE ASKED

State Senator's Move Prompted by Wisconsin Result.

ASSEMBLY TO ACT

Repeal Majority in First Referendum 150,000.

LANSING, Mich., April 4.—(INS)—Stirred to action by Wisconsin's overwhelming vote to repeal its state prohibition enforcement act, a movement was started in the Michigan legislature here today to have the state prohibition laws submitted to a referendum.

A resolution was prepared for presentation in the senate today by Senator Cass J. Janowski of Detroit which would provide for a state referendum on prohibition at the election in November, 1930.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 4.—(INS)—With "wets" claiming a 2-to-1 victory in Tuesday's statewide referendum on repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act and legalization of 2.75 per cent beer, interest today focused on the state legislature at Madison.

Although returns are not yet complete, due to crippled wire service as a result of the Easter storm, enough ballots have been tabulated to indicate a "wet" majority of approximately 150,000.

With slightly more than 2,000 of the state's 2,759 precincts heard from, the wets had a lead in excess of 130,000 on the question of repeal.

Senator Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee Socialist, author of the resolution that made possible the referendum, today gave the first intimation of recall action in the legislature.

CANTON MOTORIST DIES IN CRASH

CANTON, April 4.—(INS)—Alfred Derenberg, 37, of Canton, was killed today and Miss Dorothy Ray and Paul Faust, both of Canton were injured when automobiles driven by Miss Ray and Faust collided at Cairo, near here. Derenberg was riding with Miss Ray. Coroner T. C. McQuate is conducting an investigation

Your City Servant

Mirrors of E. Liverpool Municipal Family

Thomas Bryan

Fire Chief Thomas Bryan is the veteran of the safety department of the city of East Liverpool.

A son of Alex and Fannie Bryan, he was born on a farm back of Wellsville, Oct. 6, 1868. His parents moved here in 1877. His first job was at the Goodwin pottery where he learned the trade of a presser.

He entered the service of the city as a teamster for the water works department in July, 1892. A year later he was appointed fireman, James T. McCullough and Clint Morley being other members of the department. Bryan and McCullough were employed as team drivers during the day, Morley being on duty at the fire station.

Bryan, who was a member of the first paid fire department, was appointed assistant chief in 1907 and, in 1916, following the resignation of A. S. Aungst, was named chief.

He was married to Miss Alice Beech in 1896. He is a member of the Moose lodge and the First Methodist Episcopal church. In politics he is a Republican.

Bryan is the father of three sons, one of whom is a member of the fire department. He lives at 726 Lincoln avenue.

MAN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Motor Cars Collide at Broadway and Fifth Street.

Homer Anderson, Beechwood, and Charles Kontnier, jr., Pennsylvania, suffered scalp lacerations when a roadster driven by the former and a coach, in charge of Fred Rose, Princeton avenue, crashed head-on at Broadway and Fifth street at 8:40 o'clock last night.

Rose was traveling south in Broadway, while the Anderson car was headed north.

The Rose machine, which was badly damaged, was towed away by a wrecker, but the Anderson car which sustained a damaged fender and radiator, was driven away under its own power.

Captain of Police Conley and Patrolman Elwyn G. Shenkel investigated the accident.

coffin to the garrison where Vice-Admiral Piroz, maritime prefect, will deliver a tribute.

Upon the arrival of the coffin aboard the Tourville, the cruiser will render a salute of honor of 19 guns.

Three destroyers, the Touareg, Lynx and Hova, will escort the cruiser out of the harbor in an impressive naval tribute.

Services in Embassy.

The ceremonies, most impressive and solemn in their simplicity and sincerity, were witnessed by a throng rivalling that which attended the funeral of Marshal Foch nine days ago.

There was sorrow in the air and a deep sadness visible on every face as France's sons, from the humblest to the most distinguished, paid a final tribute to the man whom she regarded almost as a son also.

The ceremonies began at the American embassy where an impressive array of members of the American and French governments, the diplomatic corps and representatives of American organizations in France surrounded the flag-draped coffin of the ambassador reposing in the grand salon.

Called First Volunteer.

General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American expeditionary forces during the World war, and an intimate friend of the late ambassador, sadly delivered the first funeral oration on behalf of the United States.

He called his departed friend a "true soldier" and likened him to the late Marshal Foch for his human qualities and bravery.

"Ambassador Myron T. Herrick was a true soldier, our first volunteer, when he said 'if there is no one left in Paris to defend it, I will be that one,'" said General Pershing.

"He was a diplomat of the highest type. He anticipated difficult situations and always was his government's most trusted adviser.

Compared With Lincoln.

"Proofs of his moral virtues were so many that they need no mention now. They furnished the foundation of his human greatness just as they furnished the foundation of the human greatness of that other great heart that ceased to beat almost simultaneously.

"Both Ambassador Herrick and Marshal Foch were stalwart soldiers who always battled for right and each was the picture of an ideal citizen.

"Ambassador Herrick's capacity for the love of man was like that other departed great American, Abraham Lincoln.

"In the long farewell his spirit waits to France, there will be pledged to her the legacy of his love and to America, the pious duty to perpetuate it."

General Pershing's address was followed by another made by Premier Raymond Poincare who paid tribute to Ambassador Herrick in the name of France.

MAN KILLS GIRL, ENDS OWN LIFE

WILTON, Conn., April 4.—(INS)—Coroner John J. Phelan today was to close a page of the history of this little farm community when he records the deaths of Mary Yates, 18-year-old high school senior, and Edwin J. Melhuish, 49, father of Mary's chum.

Melhuish shot and killed the girl yesterday and then shot himself in the head when cornered by farmhands who saw the murder. He had secreted the revolver and a bottle of poison in a book, the pages of which he had hallowed out.

STUDENTS FREED IN GIRL'S DEATH

KENTON, O., April 4.—(INS)—Two Ohio Northern university youths today were exonerated of all blame in connection with the death of Mrs. Howard Smith, 16, who was struck and fatally injured while walking along the Harding highway, 15 miles west of here, last night.

The students, Everett Sutermeister, 19, and Thomas Cooper, 26, told police that they did not see the young girl because of the blinding rays from the headlights of an approaching auto.

Mrs. Smith was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Miss Josephine Smith.

Getting Up Nights Is Nature's Danger Signal

Rev. W. H. Mitchell, Jeffersonville, Ohio. Says, "I feel I am doing real missionary work when I tell or write how my wife was relieved of a serious case of bladder irritation with Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). She had to get up 6 to 8 times each night." It acts on bladder as epsom salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 2c each at J. D. Holloway, druggist.—Adv.

REBELS SHOOT DOWN MEXICAN BOMBING PLANE

Pilot and Mechanic Killed Just South Of Naco.

BODIES MANGLED

Anti-aircraft Gun Bullets Hit Cargo of Explosives.

NACO, Arizona, April 4.—(INS)—The pilot and a mechanic on a federal bombing plane were killed today when rebel anti-aircraft fire brought the plane down while flying over rebel troops just south of Naco, Sonora.

The plane was seen flying over the rebel troops dropping bombs when suddenly there was a terrific explosion in mid air. The demolished plane fell in a black cloud of smoke.

It is believed that rebel bullets scored a direct hit on its cargo of bombs causing them to explode.

Advices from rebel sources said that only fragments of the bodies of the two fliers remained in the wreckage of the plane which fell within the rebel lines.

Escobar Retreats

MEXICO CITY, April 4.—(INS)—The battered remnants of the once proud rebel army of General J. Gonzale Escobar today retreated into the hills north of La Reforma, Chihuahua, after suffering almost complete annihilation at the hands of Gen. J. Andreu Almazan's federal army in one of the bloodiest battles of the present revolution.

The rebels fell into a federal trap at La Reforma, 12 miles north of Jimenez. Evacuating Jimenez after suffering losses estimated at 2,000 in the two-day battle there, what was left of their original army of 6,000 retreated to La Reforma.

There they found that the railway bridge had been burned down the day before by federal cavalry. While attempting to repair the bridge pursuing federal calvary led by Gen. Anacleto Lopez fell upon them and the battle began.

The rebels hastily dug in behind intrenchments and began the most heroic stand yet seen in this revolution. Federal airmen flew over-head dropping destructive bombs. Then the federal infantry came up to reinforce the attacking cavalry. Finally the federals brought their artillery into play.

1,757 PUMP ARM OF PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The White House appealed to congress today to "go easy" on sending hand-shaking constituents to the executive offices to shake hands with the president.

The president's hand and arm were sore today from yesterday's record breaking throng, when 1,757 people filed by and pumped the presidential arm.

Informally the White House today requested senators and representatives to limit their cards to not to exceed ten a day. Yesterday one senator alone—and a Democrat at that—sent 188 visitors to shake with Mr. Hoover.

BOY, 17, FACES ELECTRIC CHAIR

CLEVELAND, April 4.—Sentencing of Lee Akers, 17, to the electric chair, today was set for Saturday. A jury found the youth guilty of first degree murder late yesterday.

The boy preserved an indifferent attitude when the jury announced its verdict after deliberating only 22 minutes. Akers was convicted of killing Frank McCormick, 50, a gasoline station attendant, during an attempted holdup.

Akers' sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, became hysterical when the verdict was announced. Defense attorneys indicated they would file a motion for a new trial.

CONNECTICUT MAY BAN FRATERNITIES

HARTFORD, Conn. — Connecticut legislators are trying to decide whether all secret societies and fraternities should be abolished from public schools or permitted to continue under supervision. Leading educators of children asked the legislature to abolish the fraternities.

The bill presented to the legislature provides that parents of fraternity members must be notified within 60 days to order their children to quit or be punished, probably by expulsion.

TODAY

IF BUYING and selling stocks is wrong, the government should close the Stock Exchange.

If not, the Federal Reserve should mind its own business.

WASHINGTON suggests that the United States will agree not to raise tariffs on Canadian farm products. Canada will sign the "St. Lawrence waterways treaty."

That seems hard on farmers. Why should THEY pay the price that Canada fixes for signing the waterways agreement?

WHY not make an all-American canal on American territory, entirely independent of Canada? This country can afford it. Then let the Canadians pay the increased tariff if it is just and necessary.

That tariff would enable Canada to pay for the canal instead of making American farmers pay for it.

AT THE end of the war Europe owed American citizens, apart from ten billions lent by our government, two billion six hundred and twenty-five millions, for private loans.

TODAY Europe's private debt to American individuals and corporations amounts to fifteen billion dollars. That amount added to the ten billions borrowed from this government, makes Europe's debt to the United States about twenty-five billions.

MORGAN LIKELY TO ESCAPE TRIAL

NEW YORK, April 4.—(INS)—Prosecution of William M. Morgan, the "bone dry" congressman from Ohio accused of violating the dry law, appeared to be unlikely today in spite of the testimony developed in United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle's investigation to the effect that Morgan did bring in four bottles of liquor when he landed at this port from Panama on March 25.

The alleged contraband, Customs Inspector Louis E. Crawford told Tuttle Morgan informed him, was intended for his wife's father, and the congressman claimed "free entry" of his baggage into this port. The liquor consisted of two bottles of champagne and two bottles of whisky.

LOGAN'S FERRY, Pa., April 4.—(INS)—"It's all a frameup. There's not a word of truth in it. My husband never touched a drop of liquor and Mr. Morgan wouldn't bring in any if he did."

In these words, Mrs. Hugh Logan, mother-in-law of Congressman William M. Morgan, today denied to the International News Service that the legislator brought in any liquor for his father-in-law from Panama.

GOLDEN HEADS SHRINERS' CLUB

Officers Re-elected at Masonic Temple Meeting.

Other officers re-elected were: Vice president, J. L. Vodrey; secretary, George Taylor; treasurer, Joseph M. Blazer.

About 100 members attended the meeting. Visiting delegations were present from Chester and other nearby towns. George L. Williams, Cleveland, potentate of Al Koran temple; Morris Miller, Canton, oriental guide of Al Koran, and William L. Smith, Chester, past potentate of Osiris temple, Wheeling, were special guests.

Music was in charge of William Mutchler, Cleveland accordion player and vocalist. Motion pictures of a side trip to Alaska for those attending the imperial Shrine meeting in San Francisco next month, were also shown.

Lunch was served.

$400,000 Fire in Adrian, Mich.

ADRIAN, Mich., April 4.—(INS)—Fire early today destroyed the plant of the American Showcase company here, causing damage estimated at more than $400,000.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 48 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.—Adv.

Chester Phone Lines To Be Reconstructed

Directors Will Expend $4,010 in Improvement Program in District.

CHESTER, W. Va., April 4—Reconstruction of the Chester and Hookstown, Pa., telephone systems, involving expenditures of $4,010, has been authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac company of West Virginia.

This work is provided for in an appropriation of $248,165 recently approved for improvements in the state, bringing the total authorization so far this year to $665,568, Fred R. Dunning, commercial superintendent, said.

The work in this district will consist of 82 creoseted pine poles, 70 cross-arms, 365 feet of aerial cable and 20 miles of open wire. Upon the completion of the new work, 78 poles, 146 cross-arms, 26 guys and 30 miles of open wire will be removed from streets and highways.

RIVER STAGE FALLS; STEAMER LIBERTY DUE

Towboats Pass Here With Coal for Weirton.

BUILD TERMINALS

Section of Dam at Deadmans Island Completed.

The Ohio river reached a stage of 13.5 feet at noon at Dam No. 8, with the water receding two-tenths of a foot every three hours.

The Cruiser, towing six barges of coal, the Old Reliable, with one barge of tar and two of scrap, and the Hillman, with six barges of coal, passed here yesterday afternoon for Weirton, W. Va.

Two oil-burner boats, the Indian No. 2 with two barges of contractors' supplies, and the Duncan Bruce, with two empty barges, passed here yesterday for Steubenville and Pittsburgh, respectfully. The government boat, J. F. Klein, with ten repair boats, passed here yesterday for Dam No. 11 at Brilliant. The Labelle passed here with nine barges of coal for Wheeling, W. Va.

Dravo Gets Crane Contract.

Shippers out of the Pittsburgh harbor are building their own terminals at southern ports. The Dravo Contracting company received a contract from the Wheeling Steel corporation for crane equipment for their Memphis river terminal. It will be electrically operated of the self-propelled gantry whiler type and will have a capacity of 15 tons. It will permit the unloading of barges with one operation into the warehouse.

The Dravo concern also was awarded a contract from the Morton Salt company of Chicago to sink a 900-foot shaft at Grand Saline, near Dallas, Texas. Since considerable difficulty will be encountered to reach the salt dome, on account of the water bearing strata, the Dravo concern will employ the Francois cementation process, a European method, for which they control the sole American rights. This will permit the sinking of the shaft without any foreign bearing matter reaching the salt. This will be the first shaft of its kind to be sunk in that state, as formerly the salt was pumped as brine.

Dam Building Rushed.

J. S. Miller, vice president of the Dravo concern, stated that 372 feet of the Deadmans dam, Ohio river, are completed, while 123 feet of the base in the second coffer is ready for the monoliths; this coffer will permit the building of 252 additional feet of the dam. Next week work will start on the third coffer, to permit construction of 210 feet of the dam which will be 1,585 feet long. In the Neville Island barge yards four flush deck type sand and gravel barges, each 100x26x6.6 feet were launched for the trade.

Francis W. Martin, tender of light aid No. 1, Monongahela river, reports that the recent storm blew down the light aid opposite Homestead. A temporary light has been installed, until the arrival of the U. S. S. lighthouse tender Greenbriar.

The steamer Little Clyde of the Clyde Transportation company is on her way to Memphis with steel products from the Pittsburgh Steel company with Captain Rush Burnsides in charge. This boat is scheduled to return to the Pittsburgh harbor May 27.

The steamer Sam Craig of the Union Barge Line corporation passed Cincinnati yesterday on her way to Memphis with a tow of steel products. The steamer C. W. Talbot of the same line passed Huntington bound up stream with a tow of empties. The steamer Reliance also of the same line arrived at Parkersburg from Charleston.

Want Bank Fill Permit.

Major E. D. Ardery in charge of the Huntington district states that the Norfolk & Western Railway company is asking for a federal permit to make a series of fills on the right bank of the Tug Fork of the Big Sandy river between Lindsey and Devon, W. Va. According to the plans there are five fills contemplated with a total length of approximately 3,000 feet.

Colonel Jarvis J. Bain, Pittsburgh district engineer, stated yesterday that a permit was granted to the county of Allegheny for the construction of a bridge across the Ohio river at McKees Rocks; a permit also was granted to the Ohio Bell Telephone company of Akron, O., to install a submarine cable across the Mahoning river at South avenue, Youngstown, O.

Owa-Ton-Na Proves First Medicine to Reach My Troubles

Suffering From Kidney and Stomach Disorders Respond to the Use of This Fine Old Indian Remedy When Time After Time, Other Methods Failed.

Surprising indeed are some of the marvelous benefits obtained by the use of this natural remedy, Owa-Ton-Na, by eager health seekers in E. Liverpool and vicinity. These results however, are not remarkable to one familiar with the good that has been accomplished by Owa-Ton-Na in thousands of cases all over this broad land. Time after time it has given new hope to discouraged suffering humanity. These results are obtained not through the use of harmful, doping deadening drugs; but by nature's own roots, herbs, barks and berries. A laboratory representative is now introducing and explaining Owa-Ton-Na to eager health seekers in E. Liverpool and can relate case after case where Owa-Ton-Na has restored health.

MR. J. H. GRIMM

One of the interesting cases where Owa-Ton-Na has proved its merits is that of Mr. J. H. Grimm, 927 St. George St., East Liverpool, long time resident and employed as a potter by Hall's China Co. He says, "It is certainly remarkable the way this medicine works. Why, for years I have been seeking for something to relieve my stomach and kidney disorders. I had almost got to the point that I believed there would be nothing to help me."

"Almost any kind of food distressed me. Gas and bloating spells seemed to follow every meal, gas would crowd my heart and cause it to palpitate and make me feel faint. My Kidneys also caused me a great deal of trouble, dizzy spells and headaches were the results. At times it seemed that my whole body ached. Almost every night I was forced to get up on account of kidney and bladder weakness. When this fine old Indian Remedy Owa-Ton-Na started to do its work, I could notice a big change in my condition."

"I feel better now than I have for years and my appetite has improved wonderfully and food doesn't distress me as it used to. My Kidneys, too, act more normal and each day I can see where Owa-Ton-Na is bringing me back to a more normal condition; and I know it won't be long until these old troubles are a thing of the past and believe me I am not going to be without a bottle of Owa-Ton-Na in the house all the time." I recommend Owa-Ton-Na to all sufferers and know that if they give it a fair trial, they, too, will benefit by its good results."

Owa-Ton-Na is nature's own remedy just as pure as eating celery, lettuce or dandelion. If you are suffering, why hesitate another day. Call at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 E. 6th St. and have a talk with the special laboratory representative who will be glad to tell you all about this fine old Indian remedy. This service is free and incurs no obligation. Owa-Ton-Na is also obtainable at Carnahan's East End and Newell, W. Va., Stores.

In Three Days Prove That You Can Overcome Stubborn

INDIGESTION

"Money Back" Says Carnahan Drug Co., "If One Bottle Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used."

After you have taken Dare's Mentha Pepsin for 3 days you will, we are sure, prove to yourself that at last you have found a stomach medicine that won't fail.

Please don't think of Dare's Mentha Pepsin as one of those "relievers" that may help for a couple of hours but do no lasting good.

Better take it for what it is—a pleasant to take elixir that besides giving instant relief tones up and invigorates your weak, ailing, distressed stomach so that it will in a short time be able to digest the heartiest meal without a sign of gas, sourness, belching or acidity.

The tremendous sales of Dare's Mentha Pepsin prove it to be the one supremely good remedy for stubborn indigestion.—Adv.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed.

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

Nor does cutting remove the cause. The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Mathews' Original Cut Rate, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—Adv.

Stomach Distress, Symptom of Gall Bladder Trouble

If you have stomach or intestinal distress, headaches, dizziness, constipation, pains in the right side, especially under the ribs, you will be gratified to learn of and try a new pleasant home treatment.

It is called Klax-Ko and is recommended to bring relief and overcome the conditions which cause gall bladder inflammation and gallstones.

Bile stagnating in the gall bladder inflames it and if neglected causes salt formations which become gallstones. Avoid this danger. You can, as others have testified. Klax-Ko thins the bile and assists the gall bladder to empty. When bile flows naturally there is no inflamation, intestinal digestion goes on naturally and gall-stones cannot form or intestinal fermentation take place.

Try Klax-Ko tablets. They are harmless. Carnahan Drug Co., or your own druggist is authorized to guarantee them.—Adv.

SOME WOMEN ALWAYS ATTRACT

You want to be beautiful. You want the tireless energy, fresh complexion and pep of youth. Then let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets keep your system free from the poisons caused by clogged bowels and torpid liver.

For 20 years, men and women suffering from stomach troubles, pimples, listlessness and headache have taken Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a successful substitute for calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients, mixed with olive oil, known by their olive color. They act easily upon the bowels without griping. They cleanse the system and tone up the liver.

Keep youth and its many gifts. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. How much better you will feel—and look. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

The REFRIGERATOR of the FUTURE

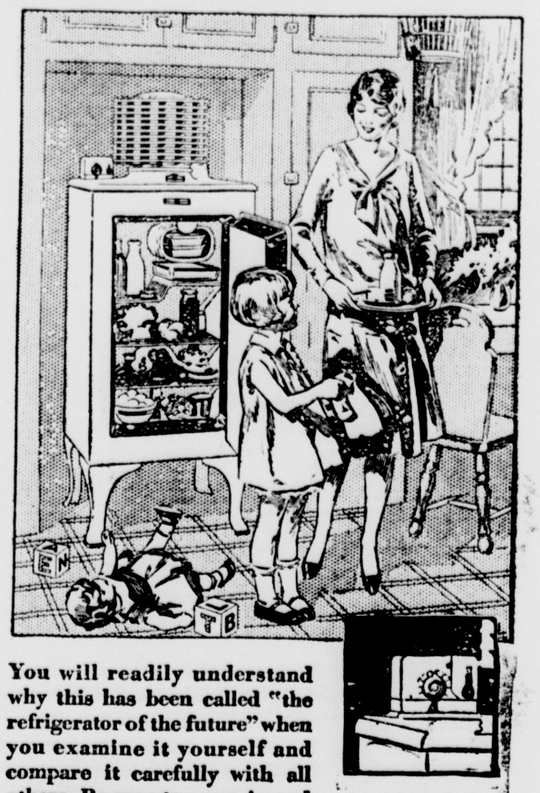
$215

At the Factory

with conveniently spaced payments



THE same group of engineers and scientists who perfected the hermetically sealed mechanism of the General Electric Refrigerator, now have designed and produced an all-steel refrigerator cabinet—the first all-steel refrigerator ever built!

It is a small-family model—entirely of steel—strong and durable as a safe. It has no wood in it. It cannot warp. No cold can seep out, no heat can creep in.

Quantity production and the employment of the most efficient manufacturing methods have made possible this very low price—$215, at the factory. Never before has any single refrigerator been built in such great quantities . . . never before has such high quality been available at such a low price.

You will readily understand why this has been called "the refrigerator of the future" when you examine it yourself and compare it carefully with all others. Be sure to come in and see it. This, or any model, may be purchased on easy payments.

Listen in on the General Electric Hour, broadcast every Saturday evening, 9 to 10 Eastern Standard Time, over N. B. C. network of forty-two stations.

This easily accessible regulator mounted on the top of each General Electric Refrigerator, makes it possible for you to speed up the freezing of ice cubes whenever desirable.

Old People Need a Spring Tonic

Father John's Medicine Builds New Strength

It is not uncommon for old people to feel tired at the spring of the year. Their body energy is often at low ebb. They have not been getting quite the proper amount of nourishment from their food.

When this is so, they should at once begin to take a food medicine to strengthen the body and to nourish and enrich the blood.

Father John's Medicine is the best food tonic and is perfectly safe. It nourishes nerve and body tissue and builds up the resisting power so that the system is able to throw off poisonous waste matter. It acts as a very mild laxative. All pure food. Guaranteed free from dangerous drugs.—Adv.

DEVOE

The physical welfare of the child is being given much attention by school authorities.

Failure to keep up with class work and absence from school is probably due to nervousness and a run-down condition that may be largely attributed to a deficiency in red-blood-cells.

DO you not marvel when thinking of the inward physical workings of your child—bone, flesh, muscle and brain growing each day—building onward toward manhood or womanhood?

Rich, red blood builds and sustains

Of course it is the blood stream which carries the millions of tiny red-cells to all parts of the body. And it is the healthy, rich, red-blood-cells that does this building, warding off disease and making for strong and healthy bodies.

When a child's appetite wanes or he loses weight, the complexion becomes sallow or pimples and boils appear—then you instantly know that the inward mechanism is not working properly—that a good blood tonic is required.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

In such cases S.S.S. is the proper tonic. It is made from fresh vegetable drugs—therefore will not harm the most delicate system. It improves the appetite and restores the red-blood-cells to normal; lost weight is regained; skin eruptions clear up and color returns to the cheeks.

Give your child the right chance to develop. You will not regret it in later years.

For more than 100 years, S.S.S. has been helping children and their elders regain strength and vitality.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Three Companions are Placed on Probation for Five Years by Beaver Court.

BEAVER, Pa., April 4.—A 19-year-old Midland boy was sentenced to serve from three to six years in the industrial school at Huntingdon in court here yesterday after pleading guilty to charges of robbery and feltering in connection with the looting of 12 Steel City stores.

Thre other boys, who also pleaded guilty, were placed on probation for five years.

James Howard, 35, and Harry Moose, 24, both of Ambridge, pleaded guilty tho charges of robbery and felonious assault in connection with the holdup of the Ambridge Gas company office and the shooting of Archibald Pew, manager.

Holdup Men Sentenced.

Howard was sentenced to serve from five to ten years in the Western penitentiary on the robbery charge and three and one-half to seven years on the felonious assault count. Moose was given four to eight years for robbery and three and one-half to seven years for assault. The prison terms are to run concurrently.

Kirtz Price, Beaver Falls, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to serve four months in the county jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. The jail term will be reduced to two months if the fine and costs are paid.

Frank Smith, and Joseph Paris, alias Joe Boris, both of Homestead, were sentenced to serve one and one-half to three years in the penitentiary, after pleading guilty to a charge of robbery in connection with the looting of the Ewing Brothers' store, New Brighton.

Two Offenders Fined.

Charles Kapron, Aliquippa, was fined $350 and costs and sentenced to serve 60 days in the county jail on a liquor charge.

Charles Romigh, Rochester, was fined $100 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of offense against morality.

PRETTY YOUNG FACTORY GIRL FINDS RELIEF FROM PAIN

"I will always feel grateful in my heart," says Miss Mary Lloyd, Rochester, Pa., "to the scientific men who have given World's Tonic to suffering people.

"Before I learned about World's Tonic I used to suffer terribly at intervals. I would have awful shooting pains across the small of my back and an ache in the top of my head that was like a hot iron pressing down on my brain. When I had these spells I could not go to work. This made it hard for me to hold a job. I tried lots of different medicines, but none of them did me any real good. By and by my girl friend told me how World's Tonic had helped her. She said the herbs in World's Tonic were gathered in their natural state and used that way in compounding the medicine. This is why World's Tonic brings such amazing benefits. Other so called remedies are often mere "chemical extracts" which cannot possibly retain kindly Natures curative powers. When my next bad spell hit me I tried World's Tonic. I found it absolutely different from any remedy that I had ever used before. I was better from the first bottle. I continued taking it for a while longer because I wanted to get the complete effect of World's Tonic on my system. But I did not lose a day from my work. I was absolutely free from the terrible pains in my head and back and my whole system felt refreshed and cleansed.

"These bad spells don't bother me any more. I don't let them get started. At the first symptoms of one coming on, I take World's Tonic and that's the last of my trouble. I tell all my girl friends at the factory to keep World's Tonic on hand all the time. It has helped every girl who has used it."

World's Tonic is on sale at Carnahan's also C. M. Brannon's at Wellsville and all other modern drug stores. (A-12)—Adv.

YOUNG GIRL WAS HIGHLY NERVOUS; LAUDS KONJOLA

MISS

"My daughter h[illegible] n failing in health for some time and although we tried everything recommended, all medicine failed to help her until she started the Konjola treatment," said Mrs. Nora Stuver about her daughter Miss Ruth Stuver, 403 Commercial avenue, New Philadelphia.

"For several years Ruth suffered from nervousness and a disordered stomach, that always caused gas bloating and belching spells just as soon as she finished eating. Sound sleep was denied her and she never had the pep and energy common among healthy children.

"Konjola had done wonders for her sister Jean, and so I gave it to Ruth. All her troubles vanished as if by magic. Once again her stomach is functioning normally. She sleeps soundly each night. Konjola has rebuilt her entire system and to such an extent that we can hardly believe she was ever in poor health. Konjola exceeded our fondest expectations and it is a pleasure to indorse it."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

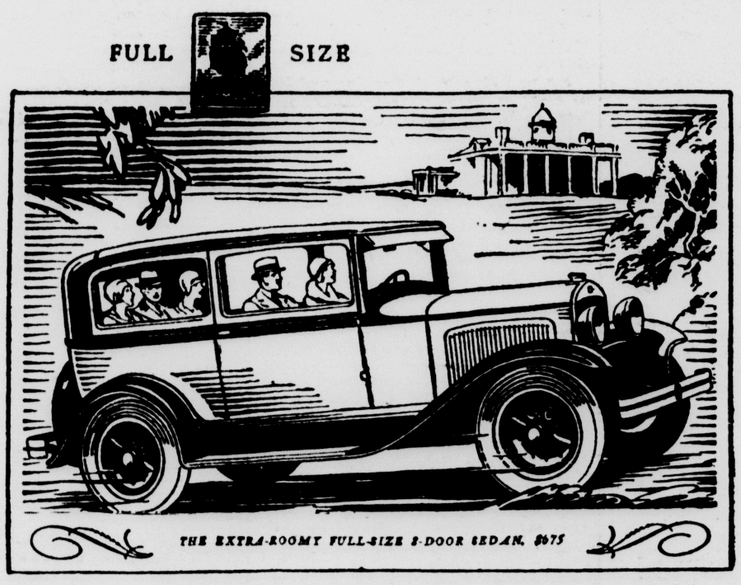
FULL SIZE



THE EXTRA-ROOMY FULL-SIZE 2-DOOR SEDAN, $675

PLYMOUTH—product of Chrysler engineering and craftsmanship—has been so named because its endurance and strength, ruggedness and freedom from limitations so accurately typify that stalwart Pilgrim band who were the first settlers of Plymouth and among the first American Colonists.

YOU can be proud to own a Plymouth, the Chrysler Motors car in the lowest-priced field:

—proud, because Plymouth is a full-size car, not a miniature—a comfortable car in which you and your family and friends can relax to the fullest, instead of feeling crowded and cramped;

—proud, because Plymouth has a distinctively Chrysler-like style and manner, a richness and dignity not to be found in other low-priced cars;

{$655 and upwards f. o. b. factory}

—proud, because Plymouth is so typically Chrysler in performance—so swift in traffic, so eager on hills, so competent in maintaining top speeds, hour upon hour, smoothly, quietly and without effort.

Plymouth is full-size and full-quality in every single particular.

In addition to its full-size body, its full-size chassis, its full-size modern engine, its full-size axles—Plymouth gives you the easy control of Chrysler full-size weatherproof internal-expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes—the safest ever devised.

Yet for all its size, Plymouth is so perfectly balanced and so skillfully engineered that unsurpassed economy of operation and upkeep is assured.

For reasons of both pride and purse, the Plymouth is today's finest investment in the lowest-priced field—the one car of that field that reflects fine quality without even the suggestion of low price.

Coupe, $655; Roadster (with rumble seat), $675; 2-Door Sedan, $675; Touring, $695; De Luxe Coupe (with rumble seat), $695; 4-Door Sedan, $695. All prices f. o. b. factory. Plymouth dealers are in a position to extend the convenience of time payments. 205

T.S.T. Passers Nose Out Collegians For District Cage Title

Potters Rally To Win, 31-29

Overcome Five-point Lead in Last Five Minutes.

Taylor, Smith and Taylor basketballers are champs of the Chester district basketball league. They copped the pennant last night by winning from the Chester Collegians, 31 to 29, in a fast engagement on the Chester auditorium court.

Lack of reserve material cost the Collegians the title although the sterling performance of the Potters can not be discounted.

The Collegians had a five-point lead with five minutes to go when Nease was banished from the game via the personal foul route.

The Collegians bench was empty and so the team played the rest of the way with four men.

Inasmuch as it took five men to keep pace with the Potters, the Collegians found that a four-man outlay couldn't stand the gaff.

Burke and Schneidmiller starred for the Potters while Campbell and Keightley figured prominently in the Collegians' performance.

A special meeting of the circuit managers and officials will be held next week when awards will be made to the victors and league business closed.

Couldn't Get Goin' Says Jim

AVON PARK, Fla., April 4.—Scene: Avon Park, spring training grounds of the St. Louis Cardinals during an exhibition game between the Cards and the Philadelphia Athletics.

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, Cards' star first baseman, and "Kid" Gleason, veteran coach of the A's, engaged in a "kidding" bee.

Gleason: What was the matter with you guys against the Yanks last fall?

Bottomley: We couldn't get started.

Gleason: That's a hot alibi.

Bottomley: Well, we were a streaky ball club all year. When we were hot we were hot. In the world series we couldn't hit you if you came across the plate.

Gleason: None of you guys had better ever hit me.

Bottomley: They (the Yanks) could hit, though.

Gleason: That guy Ruth could hit a pea shot out of a cannon. He's likely to kill anything. He's all man.

Gleason: You sure will. He's the fellow with the pepper, and you fellows need it.

Bottomley: Did you hear about Rabbit last year. He hit a home run in the Polo Grounds, poling the ball into the stands. I think he surprised himself. Well, the next time up he struck out, missing the third one by a foot. Coming back to the bench he remarked: "That's what I get for going after long ones."

GIRL STARS PLAN FOREIGN TOUR

Roamers, Bucs and Uniques Win Y Tournament Contests

Five Quints Still in Running; Two More Games Are Billed Tonight.

Roamers won from the Wolverines, 39 to 11, Buccaneers scuttled the Uniques, 30 to 16, and the Question Marks left no question in trimming the Immacons, 31 to 14, in last night's "Y" intermediate basketball tourney games.

Five quints are left in the running.

The Question Marks will clash with the Ceramic tonight at 8:15 and the Roamers take on the M. P. Juniors.

The winner of the Roamers-M. P. scuffle will battle the Buccaneers and the winner there will play the Question Marks-Ceramics winner in the final.

Hawaiian Athletes in Pennsylvania Relays

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—Punahou Academy, of Honolulu, Hawaii, has entered a team in the thirty-fifth annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival, according to an announcement by H. Jamison Swarts, manager of the two-day event. The team has entered the one mile high school championship and the quarter mile and medley championships for high schools.

It will mark the first time that a team has participated in the carnival from west of the Pacific Coast. The Hawaiians will be forced to travel approximately 5,089 miles on ocean and land to reach Franklin Field.

The carnival will be held on April 26-27.

COLLETT-TURPIE MATCH ON TODAY

PINEHURST, N. C., April 4.—Miss Glenna Collett, who has been enjoying a walkaway in the women's north and south golf championship here, meets sterner opposition today. Her opponent will be Miss Marion Turpie, the long-driving southern star who holds five titles.

In the other semi-final match Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago clashes with Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa.

Al Stillman, St. Louis, knocked out Bobby Cox, Miami Fla. (6).

In Training Camps

Reds in Top Form.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 4.—The Cincinnati Reds are elated today over their easy and smooth win over the Atlanta Southern Association team yesterday, 6 to 0. The Reds scored two runs each in the second, fourth and ninth innings. The National leaguers scored four runs off Griffith, who passed six men in his five innings on the mound and gave up four hits. The best the Atlanta boys could do was completing three double plays, being shut out with a mere five fits. Lucas, Rixey and McMullen composed the battery for the Hendricks team.

Columbus in Jacksonville.

LAKELAND, Fla., April 4.—The Columbus Senators, American Association squad, packed up today, tonight taking the rails to Jacksonville where games will be played tomorrow and Saturday. The game with Montreal at St. Augustine scheduled for Sunday has been called off. The game was called off because Montreal wanted to play at Dayton Beach and the Senators didn't want to go to the extra expense of traveling to the beach.

Tribe Faces Robins.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—The Cleveland Indians, after defeating the New York Gaints in an exhibition game yesterday, today were looking forward to their two-game series with the Brooklyn Robins, Saturday and Sunday. Dick Porter, recruit outfielder, saved the game for the Indians when he knocked a triple in the ninth inning, with the score at 4 all, Joe Sewell brought him in with a single, ending the game, 5 to 4, for the Indians.

Rookie Wallops Homer.

WACO, Texas, April 4.—Arndt Jorgens, rookie from Oklahoma City and a former Chicagoan, promises to be a valuable addition to the catching staff of the Yankees. His home run and double gave the world's champions a 5 to 2 win over Fort Worth yesterday. The Yanks play Waco today.

No "Poker" for Robins.

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 4.—Gink Hendricks, combination outfielder and third baseman, is now being tried out at shortstop on the Brooklyn Dodgers, who slugged their way to a 12 to 6 decision over the Jacksonville Tars yesterday. Del Bisonnette snapped out of his batting slump and Nick Cullop swung a wicked willow in the clean-up position.

Manager Robinson says he will recommend Miami as a training site for the Robins next year. Incidentally, he has forbidden his hired hands to play poker.

Phillies Victims Of Fate

Shotton Gets Tough Breaks as He Tries to Build Winner.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 4.—Fate, the bally old kibbitzer who uses your money with boisterous generosity in betting against the cards you draw, seems to have draped himself over Burt Shotton's shoulder as he attempts to run a shoestring into a rope ladder with his Philadelphia ball club. Today, Tommy Thevenow, key-man of Shotton's new infield, lies painfully injured in in Florida hospital as a result of an automobile accident and they say he will be out at least a month and perhaps for the entire season. If he is out a minute, it will be much too long, as far as the 1929 Phillies are concerned.

Apparently destined to make some kind of a play for sixth place this year, Thevenow's injuries mean that the Phillies virtually are committed to another season in the cellar. As it was, they didn't have too much. As it is, they probably have what they had before Shotton took the club over, i.e. and roughly speaking nothing. Whatever the outfit expected in the way of minor successes was predicated on Thevenow's recovery from injuries sustained in 1927 and his work at Winter Haven this year had proved that he was an assured come back.

But this only begins to tell the story. For two years, Shotton has needed above all else, the following in the order of their importance: first, sympathy; second, pitchers. What happened? He developed the best collection of first class sympathy ever seen in a training camp.

Frank Ulrich was rated as one of the best young pitchers in the league when Shotton took the club. If it was to go anywhere in 1928, Ulrich was the lad who might have taken it there. He contracted a serious illness and was lost for the season. He was getting himself ready for the impending campaign when illness overtook him again and he died.

His passing left Ray Benge, a recruit developed by Shotton, as the best pitcher at the camp. Benge today has a loose bone in his elbow and his future on the ball field is far from assured.

The infield has been almost clamorous with its problems but Shotton seemed to have connived his way out of that pretty well, after he wrangled Thevenow from the Cardinals in an alleged $50,000 deal. For Thevenow, almost useless in 1928, had played great ball at shortstop this spring and was working perfectly with Fresco Thompson at the axis of the infield. His only available successor is the none to eligible Barney Freiber.

Thompson, however, is Shotten's gold medal exhibit. The Pittsburgh club had this young man for a year and couldn't use him. McGraw had him overnight and didn't want him. So Shotten gladly traded a couple of passe veterans for the lad who was to become one of the ranking second basemen of the league.

Yes, he's no man's chump, this fellow, and little by little he is building his structure on a permanent, stable foundation. However, fate certainly is a swell demolisher.

Bunion Babies Race Across Four States

Paul Simpson Holds Lead in Elapsed Time.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 4.—C. C. Pyle's bunion marathoners started again today at 7 p. m. on their chase across the continent to foot of rainbow with its $25,000 prize for the winner of the trans-continental footrace. Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., held the lead in elapsed time since the start of the race in New York when the 57 entrants left here.

The fifth leg of the race ends at Havre De Grace, Md., thus the entrants will have crossed four states in as many days when they they cross the Delaware-Maryland line. After stopping in Havre De Grace over night the bunioneers go to Baltimore tomorrow and from Baltimore to Frederick, Md., and westward over the Cumberland mountains to Cumberland on Sunday.

John Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman and Peter Gavuzzi, of England, tied for first place when the entrants reached here but Simpson, placing third on the Philadelphia-Wilmington lap, remained in first place on the basis of elapsed time since the race started while Salo is second. Ed. Gardner, Seattle, Wash., negro, is in third place. Herbert Hedeman, Australia's grizzled veterans, running under the colors of New York City, is in fourth place.

Kamm on Hospital List.

SEMINOLE, Oklahoma., April 4.—Chicago White Sox and Des Moines were to resume their exhibition series here today. The Sox won the opener at McAlester yesterday by the score of 19 to 7. Blackburne used a makeshift lineup, Willie Kamm having been left at Dallas with an infected foot and Art Shires having been suspended and sent home for insubordination.

Boston Braves Replace Cards As League's 'Antique Shoppe'

When Beaneaters Take Field, Diamond Looks Like Campus on Alumni Day.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The Boston Braves, first choice for last place in the National League race this season, have replaced the St. Louis Cardinals as the Old Men's Home of the big leagues. The Hub antique shop is littered with discards from other major league outfits, many of whom were learning to play baseball when the twentieth century was peeping over the horizon.

When the Braves take the field, the diamond looks like the campus on Alumni Day. Heading the procession are Rabbit Maranville, and the two coaches, Johnny Evers and Hank Gowdy, all graduates of the class of 1914. There is George Harper, who has played on more big league teams than he can remember; George Sisler, a manager several years ago; and Joe Dugan, who was gaining fame on New England diamonds some fifteen summers back.

Other Old Timers.

Other buddies of Father Time are Heine Mueller, discarded by the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants; Catcher Pat Collins, who used to throw the ball into centerfield at Sportman's Park and Yankee Stadium; and Catcher Zach Taylor, again buried in the National league grave yard after a vacation with sprightlier outfits.

Even the members of the younger set have seen service with other clubs in the big show. There is Pitcher Kent Greenfield, who could not win ball games for the New York Giants until they traded him to the Braves, Cantwell and Clarkson, two more Giant pitching discards; Les Bell, former Cardinal; and Eddie Farrell and Al Moore, once with the Giants.

And then there is the complete ball team obtained in exchange for Rogers Hornsby. Direct from the Cubs came Pitchers Jones, Seibold and Cunningham; Second Baseman McGuire and Catcher Leggett. And part of the boodle which Hornsby also brought in the trading mart went to purchase Maranville, Harper, Collins and Robert James, a promising second baseman from Omaha who may win the midway post from McGuire.

There are old men even among the rookies. Socks Seibold, the pitcher who burned up the International League last year with 22 wins against only six defeats, is thirty-three years old. And Leaverett, hurler obtained from Indianapolis, is the same age.

And there you have the squad—a bunch of fading veterans who are bound to show a lack of incentive with a tailender; and only a slight sprinkling of young blood. Guiding this combination will be no experienced manager, but the owner of the club, Judge Emil Fuchs, who never played professional ball. The Judge takes the attitude that the team can't perform much worse than it did for Bancroft and Hornsby, and that with a layman at the helm is might accomplish another miracle such as occurred in 1914.

Plenty of Talent.

The Judge will have a great plenty of managerial talent at his beck and call, however, with Evers, Gowdy, Maranville, and Sisler around the premises, to say nothing of the other battle-scarred veterans. The Braves will be almost as heavily stocked with brains as were the Philadelphia Athletics when Connie Mack, Kid Gleason, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb were master-minding at Shibe Park.

But where Connie Mack gave orders first and discussed them afterwards with his lieutenants, the good Judge may be forced to use the huddle system with a conference before each play. The chances are that Johnny Evers will emerge as the real pilot of the team before the season is long underway, and "The Crab" may be just the right type to inject wim and wigor into his doddering charges.

If the United States becomes involved in another war, the Braves may win the pennant this season. With the other clubs crippled by the draft, the aged Beaneaters could romp right through to glory.

CAPITAL CAGERS GIVEN LETTERS

COLUMBUS, O., April 4.—Eight members of the 1929 Capital university basketball team have been awarded varsity letters for their work during the past season, by the board of activities, it was announced by athletic officials at the university here today.

Those who received letters are, James Haub, honorary captain; sumner Hinton, Lewis Nicol, Eugene Mechling, William Dierksheide, Frederick Brideweser, Harold Muntz, and Clarence Sheatsley. Albert Heil received a manager's letter.

DePauw Ball Tossers Will Play 13 Games

GREENCASTLE, Ind., April 4.—The DePauw University baseball schedule will open on April 10th with a game with Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., according to the schedule just announced here by Coach E. C. Oberst.

Thirteen games are on the De Pauw schedule.

A number of veterans have turned out for spring baseball practice and the prospects for a winning aggregation this spring are bright Coach Oberts said.

Forrest Cady Signs as Pacific Coast Umpire

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—Forrest Cady, who was the first catcher to receive Smoke Joe Wood's fast ones when the Boston Reds Sox were burning the American League, has signed again as a Pacific Coast umpire President Harry Williams says there is no better umpire in any league.

BOXING BOARDS IN AGREEMENT

CHICAGO, April 4.—The New York and Illinois boxing commissions have agreed to "understand" each other, it was officially stated here today. The working agreement provides for recognition of fines, suspensions and penalties imposed in other state by governing officials of the other.

Ohio Diamond Squad to Open With Indiana

Scarlet and Grey Tossers Face Strenuous Schedule.

COLUMBUS, O., April 4.—Weakness on the mound may hurt the 1929 Ohio State baseball team, but otherwise the squad shows promise. Eight letter men are back and several good sophomores have reported to Coach L. W. St. John.

William Sill is the only veteran pitcher to be back in uniform. Behind the bat, Ray Widdifield, last year's captain, will vie with Smith, another letterman. Widdifield was originally a first baseman, and there is a possibility that he will return to the keystone sack, provided Smith shows ability to handle the receiving end unassisted.

At second base, Ray Genger, letterman of last year, is back and Bobby Riehl, winner of the Potter Cup for baseball proficiency last season is holding down the shortstop post. The "hot corner" will likely be occupied again by Cline, another letterman. This leaves the Buckeye infield practically intact.

Al Hess and Bill Hinchman, are the two veterans in the outfield. In addition, Tittel, of basketball fame, Robert Horn and Bill Nesser, who won letters on the gridiron, and Hall, are sophomore outfielders, who will bid for berths.

Others who may be found in the Buckeye lineup this season include: William Kermode, pitcher; McKees, an outfielder on last year's freshman team; Phil Gutter, third baseman on the frosh nine of 1928; Clyde Walters, utility outfielder a year ago; Graff, a strong batsman who may be used in the infield; and Wesley Fesler, all-American football end and all-Conference basketball guard, who has an eye on the first base job.

The veteran St. John, is at the head coach job, again, and will be assisted by Wayne Wright, newly appointed to the Buckeye staff.

The Scarlet and Gray team faces a strenuous schedule of 20 games. The complete schedule follows:

April 4—Indiana, here.
April 6—Ohio, here.
April 8—Miami, here.
April 13—Cornell, here.
April 19—Indiana, at Bloomington.
April 20—Purdue, at Lafayette.
April 27—Illinois, here.
May 4—Chicago, at Chicago.
May 11—Purdue, here.
May 13—Michigan, here.
May 15—Ohio Wesleyan, at Delaware.
May 17—Meiji University (Japan), here.
May 18—Illinois, at Urbana.
May 22-23—Minnesota, here.
May 24—Ohio Wesleyan, here.
May 28—Chicago, here.
May 30—Wooster, at Wooster.
May 31—Michigan State College, at Lansing.
June 1—Michigan, at Ann Arbor.

Edwards Morris On Next Bill

Kenny Davis to Box Also In Valley A. C. Program.

District fight fans will have a week longer to whet their appetites for their next serving of boxing. Ray Foutts, matchmaker at the Valley A. C., has announced his next bill for Thursday night, April 11, just a week from tonight, at Wellsville.

In all probability, the card will show three six-rounders and a pair of fours.

Freddy Edwards, the Chester welter who polished off Jack McCarthy, of Pittsburgh, in a recent six-rounder at Wellsville, thereby confounding a lot of fistic followers who didn't think he was ready for a lad of McCarthy's type, will let out another notch or two in one of the proposed six-round events.

In all likelihood, Harry Morris, the Weirton boy who fights from the first gong to the last and whether conqueror or conquered, always gives a good account of himself, will figure in another six-rounder.

Foutts is still on the search for a pair of good boys for the third to top it off.

Kenny Davis is still going strong and the East Liverpool boy will get another shot on the Valley A. C. program as a result of his victory over Johnny Munroe of New Kensington here last Monday.

Frankie Stelmack, Cleveland welter who fought Young Rudy of Pittsburgh here a short time ago, is matched with Ray Newton, Mansfield, for a 10-rounder next Tuesday night in the main event of Ray Barnes' show at Alliance.

Frankie Porto, Glassport mixer, is paired off with Young Angelo, aggressive Swissvale fighter, in one of the scraps supporting the feature events on the McKeesport card tonight. Battling Gizzy of Donora and Chet Smallwood of Akron clash in one eight-rounder, while Phil Scello, McKeesport, and Bobby Green, Memphis, provide the excitement in the other.

Fight Results

AT CINCINNATI — Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, outpointed Joe Anderson, of Covington, Ky., (10).

AT NEW YORK—Hugh Devine of Scotland, knocked out Mickey Doyle, Scranton, Pa., (1).

Henry Lenard Chicago, and Rosey Stoy, Youngstown, O. drew (10).

Story of Adventurous Youth, Mystery, Fortune and a Girl.

By Herman Landon

Hannan shook his head slowly.

"Of course you don't. You have been away for so many years. I have made repeated attempts to reach you, but by the time I succeeded in tracing you to one locality you were always somewhere else. I shan't try to explain the details of the will now, except to say that your grandfather left you well provided for. Most of your share is in the form of very high-class securities. As for the town house, it was left to Maxwell Martnet, you father, and upon his death it became the property of the window. Then there is another house, as you may know; one located at a place named Valhalla Notch, in the New Hampshire hills.

"I was never there," said Hannan, "but I have heard about it."

Mr. Curry leaned back in his chair and gazed out the window.

"It's a curious place, I understand, and all the curious provisions in your grandfather's will are related to it. During the latter part of his life—the part that I know very little about—your grandfather spent a great deal of his time at Valhalla Notch. As you know, he had a strong scientific bent, and among other things he was deeply interested in the science of hydraulics. He fitted up a laboratory in the house at Valhalla Notch and conducted various experiments there.

"The results of those experiments I don't know, but they must have been extraordinary. Your grandfather was very secretive about them. He did not even take your father into his confidence until after his death."

For a few moments Mr. Curry chewed his wooden cigar in silence.

"He left a letter for your father, with the injunction that he was to destroy it after reading it and that under no circumstances was he to divulge its contents to anybody. It is my impression, although I can't speak with certainty, that this letter told something of your grandfather's experiments. He left a similar letter for you. I shall hand it over to you directly."

Hannan's eyes widened.

"My grandfather seems to have been a curious sort."

"He was, indeed. You will know more about it later. As for the property at Valhalla Notch, it is to be held in trust by this bank, taxes and other expenditures to be paid from a trust fund. The heirs are priviliged to use the house, but there are certain restrictions which, I think, you will find explained in the letter I shall hand you."

He rang. Hannan sat silent, a soft glow in his eyes. A dim picture of his grandfather—tall, silent, mysterious and solitary—rose in his imagination.

"The Martenet papers, please," Mr. Curry told the young clerk who entered.

Hannan felt an odd thrill. Soon he was to learn his grandfather's secret. The clerk returned and placed a bulging portfolio on the desk. Mr. Curry fumbled the contents, then drew out a sealed blue envelope. With an unconsciously dramatic gesture he handed it to Hannan.

"I wish you wouldn't read it here," he said. "I'm a curious old man, and I would be tempted to ask questions. Take it to your hotel, read it in your room, then burn it."

With an awed glance at the envelope Hannan put it in his pocket.

Mr. Curry shifted his cigar to the left side of his mouth. "I don't need to tell you Hannan, that your grandfather was a man who had great faith in the honor of the Martenets, both as a family and as individuals. He had faith that his heirs and descendants would obey his wishes in every respect. I am satisfied that they will prove worthy of that faith."

Mr. Curry took the wooden cigar from his teeth.

"Fond of your father, weren't you, Hannan?"

"It's a curious thing, Mr. Curry, I seem to remember more of my grandfather than I do of my father. I was fond of dad, and I believe he was fond of me. But we didn't always understand each other. I'm afraid I wasn't a very good son, Mr. Curry."

Mr. Curry fixed him with a kindly gaze.

"I don't think you need have any scruples on that point. One of the last things he said to me was that he wished he had been a better father to you. Maybe each of you in his place was better than he knew."

"And I have none to give. You see, he just went away and didn't come back. My own opinion is that he left town to attend to some private matter and met with an accident—perhaps drowning. I knew your father well, and I am certain of one thing. He did not disappear deliberately. If he were alive he would have come back."

Hannan's next question came hesitantly, as if he uttered it only to rid his mind of a disagreeable thought.

"You don't think he met with any sort of foul play?"

Mr. Curry's answer was not as emphatic as might have been expected.

"The police who investigated the matter didn't think so. However, I am still making inquries, in a very quiet way, in certain directions. You see, though there is no doubt in my mind, there is no legal proof of death. Three years from now—seven years from his death—the courts may declare him legally dead unless an assumption to the contrary should arise in the meantime. But the likelihood of such an assumption arising is very slight—very slight."

Hannan scanned his face, wondering if he had told all that was on his mind.

"Whenever you are in need of funds——" Mr. Curry began.

"Thanks," and Hannan brightened a little, "but I don't need anything at present. The pearl lagoon turned out a success."

The Blue Envelope.

Hannan walked out into sunshine that seemed all the brighter by contract with the solemnity that had entered his mood during his talk with Mr. Curry. He stepped to the edge of the sidewalk, loked up at the minarets of lower Manhattan, hummed a little turn beneath his breath, and half regretted that the girl in the navy-blue suit was no longer watching him in the offing. Yet, who could tell? In this swirling, jostling, speed-mad procession the individual was lost in the multitude. In this surging mob there could easily be a pair of eyes subjecting him to a furtive espionage. At any rate, the idea was intriguing.

He permitted himself to be caught up and carried along by the torrent of pedestrians. He walked with a loose, easy stride, as if his joints were on hinges and his muscles were very soft. His thoughts as he swung along were both bewildering and exhilarating. He had been in the metropolis only twenty-four hours, and already the wheels were turning—invisible wheels that hummed a rhythm of excitement and mystery. In his pocket was a letter which made him the sole custodian of a secret handed down by his grandfather. Somebody was taking enough interest in him to have his movements watched, and he was at a loss to understand why. The only thing that made him a figure of importance, as far as Hannan could see, was the letter in his pocket and the affairs connected with it. Perhaps the explanation was to be found inside the envelope.

He slapped his pocket to make sure it was still there. The more he thought of it, the stronger grew his curiosity. He was tempted to read it at once, but the crowded street seemed scarcely a fit place in which to persue a confidential communication, and as yet he was in no mood to go back to the hotel.

Present he turned into a narrow and very crooked street, flanked by buildings that looked centuries old. It was less crowded here; as he walked on the jangling noises of the traffic grew remote. A drab four-story building on a corner caught his eye. The establishment on the ground floor was evidently a restaurant. It had a rather quaint entrance, and the green shades in the windows gave it a cozy and inviting air. He decided to go in and read his grandfather's letter over a cup of coffee and a sandwich.

"FANCY BAGGAGE" AT THE CERAMIC

Scene from "Fancy Baggage"—A Warner Bros. Production

Many of the younger generation of screen players appear in "Fancy Baggage," including Audrey Ferris, Myrna Loy, Wallace MacDonald, Hallam Cooley, Eddie Gribbon and Virginia Sales. This rollicking comedy-drama tells the story of a flapper's love for her dad—of her fight for his honor—of the startling activities of a gang of rum runners—and of a yachting trip which permanently changes the outlook of half a dozen unsuspecting humans. At the Ceramic theater three days starting today.

CERAMIC OFFERS "FANCY BAGGAGE"

"Fancy Baggage," Warner Bros., latest comedy-drama, comes to the Ceramic theater today for a three-day run.

The cast is brilliant—featuring two of the most charming ladies of the screen, Myrna Loy and Audrey Ferris. The three most "grouches" of the movies are hilariously present, George Fawcett, Edmund Breese and Burr McIntosh. Eddie Gribbon, for years idol of baseball and ringside crowds, does a hard-fisted and amorous rum runner. Hallam Cooley and Wallace MacDonald are cast as rival lovers, the former for the most part in a state of mild inebriety. And funny Virginia Sales makes much of a small part.

The story is a unique combination of sense and nonsense. It has to do with the ways and means adopted by the most modern of flappers to get her aged father out of money tangles her extravagances have got him into.

He has made a false confession of crooked dealing in stocks, and in order to get more funds for his "fancy Baggage" daughter, consents to put himself in the light of a criminal and spend a term in prison. From the serious tone of the start the piece runs into some astonishingly clever and amusing complications which call forth reverberations of laughter.

DENNY PICTURE COMING TO STATE

A rollicking, carefree, comedy that guarantees to keep the audience in an uproar from the time it starts until its final "fade out" will be the offering at the State theater starting next Monday.

It is "Clear the Decks," Reginald Denny's latest Universal farce comedy. By all advance reports it is his greatest comedy offering. The action of the story centering around various hilarious situations on board ship, it was necessary to take the entire company for a two-weeks' cruise on the Pacific in making the picture. Besides Denny and an unusually brilliant supporting cast, the

RADER TO TURN HIS ARTILLERY ON EVOLUTION

Chicago Evangelist Announces Subject for Tonight.

DEFENDERS' RALLY

"Where are Dead?" Topic at Convention Last Night.

"You will be as conscious of yourself a moment after death as you were in life for there is no annihilation since God is God of the living," Paul Rader, Chicago evangelist, said at the Faith Defenders' convention in the First United Presbyterian church last night. His subject was: "Where Are the Dead?"

"The future existence will be as perfect as a honeycomb," he explained. "And the departed now are waiting the final coming of Christ when the good will be caught up in the air to reign with Him a thousand years. Hell wil not be opened until the last judgment and the first to enter it will be the anti-Christ."

Numerous hands went up as an indication of the purpose to give allegiance to Christ in the future, at the end of his illuminating address. Several later went forward to grasp him by the hand and to receive from other members of the visiting party on the platform suggestions as to necessary action and spiritual findings in their new sphere.

Will Tell Story of His Life.

"I can very readily apprehend that it will be necessary to have an overflow service on Friday night when Mr. Rader gives the story of his life," declared Dr. Gerald B. Winrod, who presided. "You sing 'Faith of Our Fathers' as though you mean it. We have already found that it was not necessary to build an atmosphere for this convention here. I rather imagine that Billy Sunday did that when he was here last fall. He is one of God's great men. We find in many places the good results that he has done. He has left his footprints. He is getting old and I do not know who ultimately will take his place."

Mr. Rader will speak tonight on the theme, "To the Finish With Evolution."

"When Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, defeated Jim Jeffries, the former heavyweight champion, Paul Rader, though a university graduate, was active in the squared circle himself though he never was down and out," Dr. Winrod said. "As such he was regarded by many at the time as one of the white hopes who might wrest the championship away from its then owner. He has not forgotten the parlance of the ring. Thus it will be a 'finish' attack that he will make on evolution."

Rev. Dr. Zeimer Speaks.

The preliminary prayer service yesterday morning was in charge of Richard Oliver, the Rader tabernacle bandmaster, of Chicago. He was also in charge of the service this morning.

Continuing his Bible expositions on the general theme of Divine Mysteries, the Rev. Dr. Zeimer, of Toledo, spoke yesterday on the "Hidden Mystery" and this morning on "Resurrection." His final appearance at the convention will be tomorrow morning when he will discuss "The Mystery of Iniquity." He made the invocation at last night's service.

The hearers were also reminded that Philip Siberski, of Chicago, will give a practical demonstration of the Jewish Passover on Saturday afternoon. In the evening Dr. Winrod will speakon "Rasputin, the Holy Devil of Russia."

Directed by the Rev. L. A. Britton, of the First Christian church of Chester, W. Va., a song service preceded Mr. Rader's address last night. It was enhanced by a trombone accompaniment by Richard Oliver during the rendition of the hymn, "I Walk With the King."

Sin Is Self-Centered.

Noting an interim that he declared occurred between first and second verses of Genesis Mr. Rader gave a detailed narration of satan's attempted usurpation of powers that were not intended for him by which sin came into vogue.

"Sin is self-centered," he said. "It is an ambition, a puffing up. It is not low, but high; it develops habits that pull down. But ever in the beginning its purpose is to pull upwards," he explained. "Satan was initially that total of wisdom and the perfection of beauty. It was the attempted expression of his ego that proved his downfall. In his pride he reached out for more. It was the same psychology that caused the kaiser to turn up his mustache at the corners and exclaim 'Me and God' as, despite the loss of a million lives and the unutterable suffering that occurred, he tried to conquer the world.

"The only limit to a man's selfishness is his power. And some of you may be so 'stuck' on what you think is your religiou that you have no fellowship with the Most High.

"Christ was the absolute opposite of the devil. He came to the world in humility; the devil came in angelic, magnificent form. Christ until He uttered the words 'It is finished, poured out His all to the Father. He suffered death from which God by the Holy Ghost raised Him for Jesus was dead.

"There is only one life that saves—the death life. Except a grain of wheat die it will not grow."

He blamed parents for not caring for their children as the basic cause of the present recklessness of youth. "They came to you small enough for you to control them. If they have gotten away from you it is your fault," he told them. "You can not rear children and not be with them all of the time."

Afternoon Session

"The church must evangelize the world or it will backslide, for only a running stream will keep itself pure" declared the Rev. Dr. C. L. Eicher yesterday afternoon. "It must remain alive and be awake in that which is its chief mission in the world."

He told of having visited sections in India in which the gospel had never been heard, but found the Singer sewing machine there, oil from the Standard Oil company lighting their lamps and cigarettes made by British-American companies being smoked. "It is a travesty on the church that such is the case," he said.

"The world must be evangelized, I do not say civilized. It is God's way to ever begin with the spiritual side of man; He would have the inside cared for first."

He stressed the need of the church in caring that none saved those believing in the diety of Christ should be sent to the mission fields. "All who do not preach salvation though the merits of the shed blood of Christ are a menace; he said. "Results will not be permanent when the Virgin birth and the wrong concepts of creation are given the people. Nothing but the gospel of Christ through the merit of His blood nac transform a human soul."

That the gospel must be preached, the people must hear, must believe and must be brought to a saving knowledge of the Christ were indicated as some of the demanded activities of the scriptures.

But 36 per cent of the world's population are even Christian. In this category are the Roman Catholic and the Greek Catholic church of Russia. This percentage also includes the many who have heard the name of Christ only in blasphemy and do not accept Him.

"But there are many places in which they have not heard His name even in blasphemy. Mission work in the world has not yet really begun."

Dr. Winrod at the conclusion of Dr. Eicher's address told of recently being able to send $1,000 to the ivory section of the Congo country where no preaching has been done in a long period and where a congregation of a thousand souls has been known to assemble on Sunday mornings and remain silent for more than an hour in the presence of a single copy of the Bible, none being able to explain it.

Prayer Genius of Christian.

"Prayer is the greatest thing in the world; it is the genius of a Christion," asserted Mr. Rader in the afternoon. "If you are really born Christian, transferred to Calvary as the property of God, your righteousness rests in Christ and He, your advocate, sitting in glory, possessing the deed of yourself, will make possible your causing the devil to get out of your life for he will be infringing on property not his own and must get out of your path.

"If anything in your life belongs to the devil, your pride or ambition, the devil has a right to your life and he will utilize such as the entrance ways into it. If you regard iniquity in your heart you can not really pray. If I have $50 in my pocket not belonging to me how can I intercede with God?

"Genuine prayer can only be made by the life surrendered to His will. The possession of pride in your hearts will make you smell like a glue factory when you essay prayer. There is nothing so absolutely certain as prayer. Fully surrendered you will learn not to say 'Give me' all of the time. You, filled with the delight of the Lord, will realize his love for you and that ever as the true husband and wife do to each other will be giving them that which they may want and never expected to get."

Suggests Reading of Hymns.

He suggested the reading of hymns as a contributing factor to the joy within Christians. "God never said you had to sing vocally," he said. "You can sing in your heart and be stimulated by the spiritual tones of the great hymns."

He gave a vivid description of the illness of his oldest daughter when afflicted with infantile paralysis and the quoting by her of the verse, "You will be kept in perfect peace" as she was carried away to a hospital.

How, returning from a service, one night he found his youngest child, a baby, ill with the same dread disease and the declaration of the physician that she, too, would be taken away in the morning.

"Laying the child in the crib I prayed while my wife fortunately slept in her weariness," he said. "All of the rationalistic doctrines that I had once studied came back to me, the devil affirmed one life was of no account when considered with the many. I was torn with the conflict, but finally I was able to praise God no matter what happened. In my joy my wife was awakened. She rushed to the baby. To my surprise it lifted its arms and smiled.

"In the morning when the doctor came she was at the table eating. He was so dumbfounded he knelt with us in prayer and, hardboiled as he had been, grasped my hand during it. He is in glory now, having passed on."

He declared that this night of spiritual travail enabled him to understand the love side of salvation and what God himself has gone through in giving His only Son Whom also He loved even more than does a parent his child for the sins of humanity.

Joseph Lemon, veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian mutiny, who served in the siege of Lucknow, died recently in London at ninety-four.

What's Best For A Bad Stomach?

Nearly all stomach troubles—indigestion, soruness, gas, bloating and pain are caused by "too much acid" in the stomach.

Artificial digestents are not needed and may prove harmful. Neutralize the Stomach Acid, sweeten the stomach and then pain, sourness and gas will stop and your food will digest properly and naturally.

From the nearest drug store get a little Bisurated Magnesia—either powder or tablets. Do not confuse with liquid Citrate Magnesia or Milk Magnesias that are strongly laxative. Insist on Bisurated Magnesia, especially prepared for neutralizing acid stomach and promoting healthy natural digestion. For quick positive relief from Acid Stomach troubles

Trudy, Deaf, Didn't Hear Judge Say "Suspended"

Speeding Case Reveals Swimming Has Hurt Ears.

Gertrude Ederle, so deaf she could not hear the magistrate, smiled happily when a traffic court attendant shouted into her ear that sentence had been suspended after she had pleaded guilty of speeding on Riverside Drive. She won the suspension. Miss Ederle was told, because of the glory she brought her country by swimming the English channel and because of the explanation she offered for her offense.

Charge Overshadowed.

The revelation of Miss Ederle's fight against deafness since 1926, when she conquered the Channel, completely overshadowed the traffic charge, on which a warrant had been issued for her arrest.

About eight months ago, she said, it became apparent her hearing was failing rapidly. She had just completed movie and vaudeville contracts.

Three months later, at her Pelham home, she said, she could hear only the most terrific noises. Since then she has been under treatment and her hearing has improved.

Miss Ederle was ordered into traffic court on February 18 and March 18 on the speeding charge, but failed to appear on either date. On March 18 Magistrate Rosenblum issued a warrant. Yesterday she explained she had not heard of either order until Thursday, when she read of them in the newspapers at Highland, N. J., where she had been staying with a friend.

Late for Appointment.

In pleading guilty of speeding Miss Ederle said she was late for an appointment with her ear doctor and drove faster when she saw traffic was light.

As she was leaving the court some one asked her if it were really true that she had been totally deaf five months ago. She replied smilingly:

"Yes. I couldn't hear the sweet words my boy friend was telling me —that was the worst of it. Just think I might have missed a proposal."

Look to the Vitamines—

In both professional and lay circles, Vitamines are in the limelight when food values are considered. The vital element that is said to make the things we eat assimable and hence valuable as tissue—builders, may properly be called the "key ingredient."

The vitamines of the retail business are no new discovery, although they have never been given a scientific name. Their presence has been felt rather than classified.

Building, fixtures, merchandise, sales force—important as they are, still they are insufficient to build a business to a state of perfect health, wthout the priceless key ingredient of sincerity. We constantly strive to enrich our physical store service with the vitamines that make its position in public favorite stronger from year to year.

BENEFICIARY ASKS BEAVER COURT TO BREAK HER MOTHER'S WILL

BEAVER, Pa., April 5.—Beaver county courts witnessed the unusual spectacle today of a beneficiary, who was left half-interest in a $10,000 estate, attempting to break her mother's will, so that her brother and sister, ignored in the will, might share.

Under the terms of the will of Mrs. Sarah A. Parris, late of New Brighton, Miss Emma Parris and Charles Parris, daughter and son, were named beneficiaries. Harry Parris, a son, of New Brighton, and Mrs. Clara Diamond, a daughter, of Beaver Falls, were not named in the will.

Miss Parris would break the will, while her brother, Charles, is opposing.

Testimony was taken before Judge Frank E. Reader and tended to show that Mrs. Parris was of unsound mind at the time of making a new will, which disinherited her two chidiren and was influenced by family differences.

PICTURE PATTERN

MODISH—PRACTICAL.

THE STYLE No. 3409 will immediately appeal to the woman who demands a smart appearance. It is one of those irresistible silk crepe blouses in bright red tones, that will be included in every complete wardrobe this season, for it can be worn with ensemble of sheer tweed or silk crepe, or with pleated silk crepe skirt. For sports it is stunning made of wool jersey in a pastel shade, printed pique, printed linen or plain crepe de chine.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust, and when it is possible to make it so easily with this Picture Pattern that shows each step in the making, there isn't any wonder for its popularity. The miniature views will give you an idea of this new method that enables even the amateur sewer to make it in about an hour. Think of it!

In ordering pattern clip the design shown or order by number, and be sure to specify the size you want. Write your name and address plainly, enclosing 15 cents and mail to Fashion Department, East Liverpool Review. From 7 to 10 days are required for delivery of patterns.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the Spring styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Blow at "Speed Traps"

The deathknell of "speed traps," which motorists contend have little, if any effect, in reducing the traffic toll, probably will be sounded in Ohio if the Boden ill, passed by the senate, becomes a law. The measure, which removes the present 35-mile-an-hour speed limit on highways outside municipalities, was adopted in the upper house by a vote of 27 to 1, and, although the lower branch has refused to concur in senate amendments, differences are expected to be adjusted in conference.

As adopted by the senate, the Boden proposal makes the speed limit outside of municipalities 45 miles an hour, while it raises the limit from 15 to 20 miles an hour in congested districts of cities and from 25 to 35 miles an hour elsewhere. The house measure provides for "a reasonable speed."

The legislators, who contend that careful driving rather than a slow rate of speed is the test of safety, point out that Florida and other states which have a 45-mile-an-hour limit have discovered that high speed on untraveled smooth roads is not necessarily proof of carelessness, or unsafe driving.

As one senator declared in debate on the Boden bill, comparatively few motorists observe the speed laws. There is a temptation to "step on the gas" in rural zones, especially on a good stretch of roadway. And this is true in municipalities, too, for even traffic patrolmen find it necessary to speed up automotive vehicles in order to avoid congestion on much traveled streets.

Michigan, which has no speed limits, reports a decrease in automobile accidents. There, as would be in the case in Ohio if the speed limit were increased or "reasonable speed" allowed, the responsibility is placed on the driver.

Any law that will reduce the Ohio automobile death toll, which increased from 1,518 in 1927 to 1,607 in 1929, should be welcomed by motorists and pedestrians.

Culture With Interest

England, stern critic of American accomplishments, has welcomed another group of American artists with enthusiasm. The organization which has aroused their interest, this time, is the Westminster choir from Dayton, Ohio.

The first concert of the choir was given at Bristol, a city closely associated with American history, and a city that is steeped in legend and cultural tradition. The choir was from one of the smaller American cities, one of the thousands which have grown up around big industry. Dayton can lay no claim to an original cultural inheritance of music; whatever culture it displays must, of necessity, have been transplanted. And yet, a group of singers from Dayton can go to England, the seat of a large portion of the world's culture, and return the small cultural inheritance with interest, and impress a supercritical Engish audience.

Attempts to attain artistic perfection, on the part of Americans, have been carefully watched by the English. Frequently, they have been watched with amusement. Especially, in the earlier days of American literature, our struggling was a source of amusement. Washington Irving, as much as any one American, hushed that laughter. Misdirected efforts in the field of painting have also come in for their share of derision. Music has escaped, to some extent, because it is more closely related to individual fancies and has fewer established rules.

England, herself, has derived most of her culture from France and Greece, but the fact that she retained it for centuries, before she passed a few fundamental rules on to her wayfard offspring, America, caused her to regard her child's attempts to do something with its inheritance, with an elevated brow and supercilious smirk.

That smirk has disappeared. American cultures, original and transplanted, have invaded the smug motherland. They have returned, after 150 years of growth, and have surprised the home folks with their virility and attractiveness. In the field of music, there has been a complete triumph. American jazz has been in as great demand as American choral societies; it has been a mutual triumph of the old and the new.

It is a good tonic for the self respect of the informed person who realizes the extent of America's original debt to England. It is the self respect that comes, when repayment with interest is made to a creditor who had given up all hope of ever seeing the return of his money.

Don't Chew Road Tar

A gob of road tar is a morsel which children like to chew. But note should be taken of an article from "Time, the Weekly Newsmagabine." It says: "Tar contains dirt, of course, and poisons with terrific names like cresote, benezene, cyclohexane, anthracene, dianthracene, toluene, pyridine, anylene, methyl cynide, carbon bisulphide. Tar-chewing children should be warned by the disaster which overtook a man tarring an Ohio road. As a case of industrial toxicology, the American Medical association considered it important enough to publish in its Journal.

"While the Ohio road mender had his back turned to his wagon of hot tar, scamps dumped the tar onto the road. Stifling fumes arose. The man ran to his wagon, into the noxious gases. Within a minute he fell into convulsions. A little while later he was bleeding from the mouth. Now, three years after, he is kept in a hospital. He cannot walk. He cannot feel. He writes insane and morbid poetry. He shouts out hymns for his own amusements. His wits are loose."

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—The weather, that element of nature which affects every one, is rapidly losing its mystery, for extended use of the radio by government weather officials is enabling meteorologists more accurately to forecast condition on the one hand and more speedily to transmit the information to the public on the other.

This is brought out in a survey of radio progress which has just been completed by the American Academy of Political and Social Science. C. F. Marvin, chief of the United States weather bureau, made that part of the study relating to the use of radio in weather forecasting.

New as radio is, official weather bureaus everywhere have been quick to seize upon it as the best possible vehicle for enhancing the value of their work and today the ether is daily filled with code messages hurrying to and fro about the world telling all nations what to expect in the way of tempest or calm, rainfall or drought.

The International meteorological committee on which serve representatives of all important countries has named a commission for synoptic weather information, the latter being in general charge of the method and manner of transmission of radio intelligence throughout the world. At a conference held at Paris just after the war a system of communication was set up and still is in operation.

The radio weather report day begins at Greenwich midnight. The first report is broadcast when it is midnight at Greenwich, every other station adjusting its hour of reception by calculating the difference in time. This initial broadcast comes from perhaps the most obscure and at the same time one of the most important radio broadcasting stations in the world, the station at Julianehaab in Greenland.

The weather takes little cognizance of men and their habitations. The gods of storm do not hold their conferences in office buildings or reach their decisions in convention halls. So men have gone to the remote places of the earth where the weather is brewed in order to obtain first news. So the tiny ice-bound hamlet of Julianehaab in many ways is a more important broadcasting station than the pretentious ones in New York or Chicago or London. What is sent out from that Greenland station may have an effect on millions of people. It may tell the story of good harvest or crop failure, of disaster at sea, of hurricane over the land.

Twice daily come the broadcasts from Julianehaab, one at Greenwich midnight and another at Greenwich noon. This international commission, by cooperation with local governments has arranged a whole series of broadcasts from strategic weather observation points in all parts of the world. A total of 250 broadcasts are made concerning the weather indications every 24 hours. With so many broadcasts in the course of a day it has, obviously, been necessary for some of them to go out on the air simultaneously. To effect this, different wave lengths have been assigned. Some difficulties still are experienced, however, in simultaneous reception.

These messages are thrown out upon the air from the oddest places in the world. For example there are daily reports from the town of Casablanca in Morocco. The great Sahara is a breeder of storms, both sudden and regular. The sirocco, a hot wind which at a given time each year blows for day after day off the desert, is born in the Sahara. Its effect on the crops of Mediterranean basin is all-important. To it is related the monsoon which, annually, brings rain to India.

Weather condition reports, therefore, are gathered from sixty stations in Egypt and the information is regularly broadcast from Ismailia in Egypt. The weather is broadcast from Iceland, from the Eiffel Tower in Paris—from all sorts of strange places, most of them places wholly unknown to any one in the outside world save the weather men.

Government observers, sending messages to each other and to central bureaus, usually employ code signals but broadcasts are made for the benefit of the general public giving forecasts in plain words. Special broadcasts also are provided for the benefit of ships at seas who, on the basis of data received, are able to draw their own weather maps, and for airports throughout the country for the use of aviators.

Questions And Answers

Have we had the pleasure of serving you through our Washington Information Bureau? Can't we be of some help to you in your problems? Our business is to furnish you with authoritative information, and we invite you to ask us any question of fact in which you are interested. Send your inquiry to the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage.

Q. For whom was St. Elizabeth's hospital in Washington, D. C., named? E. L. B.

A. The hospital was named for Saint Elizabeth of Hungary, who spent her life while on earth in ministering to the sick and the needy in hospitals and elsewhere.

Q. When will the Kentucky Derby be run this year? C. F. B.

A. The Kentucky Derby will be run May 18, 1929, at Churchill Downs, Ky.

Q. Why does snow and ice bother fliers? H. W. D.

A. Snow and ice collect on the edge of the two top surfaces of the wings. This changes the camber of the wings, making them lose their effectiveness. Also it adds weight, which is a great detriment to flying.

Q. What is the smallest, strongest string or cord made? C. W. S.

A. The strongest textile fiber based on a unit of cross sectional area is the silk fiber. A single filament of this material, barely discernable with the naked eye would be the smallest, strongest cord made.

Q. When were the English one pound notes made? M. H.

A. In 1914 at the outbreak of the World war, there were no English notes below five pounds, and currency notes for one pound and ten shillings were immediately provided under the Currency and Bank Notes Act passed on August 6, of that year.

Q. How far from downtown Los Angeles is Hollywood? H. L. K.

A. Hollywood is seven miles northwest of the business center of Los Angeles.

Q. Why was Jamestown, Virginia, never rebuilt? E. J. N.

A. Middleplantation was accessible and a natural place for the Jamestown colonists to settle. Williamsburg was already a port and hence of interest as a home for the colonists. In many instances their Jamestown houses had been but temporary structures.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Thoughts while strolling: wonder if they'll call Eddie Cantor Edward when he grows up. Those stores with artificial onyx fronts. Norman Anthony, the boyish new editor of Life. And Columbus Circle is tidied up again—hooray! Canes with clear crystal handles. A Michael Arlen conceit.

Ward Morehouse, a Savannah, Ga., boy, who made good in the city. Bereft colored gentlemen who wear black hearts on their sleeves. Howard Acton's mustache. Chinese cafes grow dimmer as outside signs grow brighter. More than 300 in the Broadway district alone. And what is more mysterious than chop suey.

Ladies in soft plum sport clothes, tavern effects instead of sanitized white tile. Lobby sign: "eGt away from crowds—go to the theater." And that's a bit of unconscious something or other. And more of those cackling arty theater things that "come up to Broadway" to lay an egg.

Delicatessen window displays silk hose. O, M'soo Reuben! Collegiate upstarts who snap fingers at hat check girls. And order arti-chokes to prove their worldliness. So Police Commissioner Whalen's middle name is Aloysius. The crooks will have a lot of fun toying with that one.

The Broadway pageant at cocktail time. Jazz divas honing up for "boop a-doop" arias. Freshly barbered stay-outs with eyes still heavy with sleep. Venerable and motherly wardrobe mistresses. Night hackmen shining up cabs. Dove silk shirts with boom-boom ties. Sure thing toth-pickers in front of the Astor.

Rothstein's old table at Lindy's. The giant movie doormen with a thin High C voice. Around the corner jewelry shops where sirens lead boy friends "just to look." The celebrity who refused to have a sandwich named for him. And that is 18-karat high hatting along the Big Dipper.

More expensive corners gobbled up for soft drink stands. Telephone pay stations jammed. And the evening flood of "kept at office" fibs. Karl Kitchen's derby. Oscar Hammerstein, the—I forget the number. The rim of clay that betokens the Jersey farmer. Two ladies smile. What power is this?

Bryant Hall is, to the theatrical profession, one of the best known buildings in town. The decaying pile spreads its architectural gloom across from Bryant Park on 6th avenue. We antiquarians describe it as a landmark. It is the preliminary stage of many shows. Early rehearsals, chiefly for the chorus and special dance numbers, are held there. All day and into the night it is noisy with the thump of pianos and clump of feet. In the assembly hall are held those odd Slovak weddings, union banquets and heavily "garliced" foreign lunch cons. Shortly after the civil war the big society balls and dinners were given there. But the especial room for the smartest dinners is now an Automat.

My notion of a swell number is a lady who drew up in front of a heigh ho luncheon place yesterday, sent the footman of her car inside for a menu, studied it carefully through a lorgnette and stifling a yawn with a jewe-cled hand gave it back. "Return home for luncheon, Montague!" she said to the driver.

Three gentlemen usually termed "hard headed" proved soft marks for the ootchie-kootchie who-hoo of Broadway this winter. Baby talk and simpering smiles led them from wives who helped them up from obscurity. They were not the usual White Way philanderers but men known for their fireside manners. But the vamps were those whose artistry in husband-snatching had been widely exploited. That old Broadway flame still scorches.

Tricks of Broadway make all suspicious. A gentleman tells me of being approached by a woman with every appearance of being a lady. She feared she was fainting. A drug store had refused to give her a stimulating brandy. His apartment was two doors away with plenty of good liquor and the lady seemed in distress. But nothing doing. The old suspicion—a drink, a knock at the door and "That lady is my wife!" So the lady actually swooned as he was assisting her into a taxi.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Is there any scientific foundation for the belief certain persons have that they can "feel" the onset of bad weather? It is a common thing for rheumatic persons to say that can "feel in their bones" that the weather is to change. I am asked frequently if there is any sense in this.

It is probably that barometric pressure has its effect upon the body. If it really has, a rising or falling barometer would have its effect.

eBfore a storm the barometer falls. This release of pressure lessens the escape of water from the body. It interferes with the free action of the skin. Perspiration is lessened.

Just how this is accomplished may be crudely likened to the effect of pressure on a sponge. If you squeeze it, the water runs out. If you release the pressure the water stays in the sponge.

In a sense, this is what happens to the body by lessening the atmospheric pressure upon its surface. With the decreased barometric pressure the fluid does not escape in the usual quantities.

In consequence, what we may call the normal "water balance" is disturbed. This causes certain effects upon the sensory nerve endings in the skin. As a result there is a disturbance of the nerve centers. Restlessness is the observed response.

A few weeks ago a Chicago physiologist, Dr. C. C. Smith, contributed an article to the American Journal of Physiology. In this he points out that:

"The restlessness of various animals that is often noted before a storm might be accounted for by the low barometric pressure and the consequent water retention. With an aniquent water retention. With an animal that is particularly sensitive to this condition there is thus given a foreknowledge of approaching bad weather, so that migratory birds are away before there is any sign in the sky of a weather change. Hogs usually bed themselves down and cattle on the range become restless and seek shelter, hours before there is any evidence of impending change in reaction that will impress the senses of man."

This scientists explains on the same grounds the claims of persons who suffer with rheumatism or any one of several other disorders that make the nerves particularly sensitive, that they can tell t ehapproach of bad weather. They suffer increased pain or have other symptoms that cause them to "feel it in their bones." Perhaps weather and the water supply of the body are related in such a way that the atmospheric changes are actually felt.

It may well be that the barometeric conditions are more important than we suspect. One of my doctor friends has preached this doctrine a long time.

It is a fact that a physician's rounds on a bright, sunshiny day, may find every patient restless and uncomfortable. There may be no obvious physical reasons for these unpleasant symptoms.

It may well be that the state barometer is responsible. That is what my doctor friend has believed for years. This most recent theory confirms his conclusions.

Answers to Health Queries.

B. L. W. Q.—Why is it every time I eat radishes I get a sore throat?

A.—You probably have an idiosyncrasy for them. Avoid eating them.

H. A. S. Q.—I drink six quarts of water daily during the hot weather. Is this too much?

A.—I see no reason why you should drink more than ten glasses daily.

MISS D. K. Q.—What do you advise for ingrown toe nails?

The World Physician.

The Gorgas Memorial laboratory honoring the late Major General William Crawford Gorgas will be dedicated in the city of Panama today. Built by the republic of Panama, and endowed for at least five years by this country, its purpose is to carry forward the work of the man who won for himself the title of the world physician.

It was through his effort that yellow fever and malaria were driven out of the Canal zone with a saving of lives running into the thousands annually. It was Gorgas also who had been assigned to Havana as sanitary officer following the Spanish-American war and to whom is credited the eradication of yellow fever there.

Just before the outbreak of the late war at the request of the British government he went to the Rand to study health conditions among the miners there and particularly to eradicate pneumonia. There as in Panama and Cuba he was successful.

As chief health officer of the American army in the war such precautions were taken that the death rate was reduced to an astonishingly low figure of only slightly more than one-half of one per cent. And following the war until the time of his death his major interest was in measures and policies that would build up the many who in their army examinations were found far below par physically, and in laying the foundation for a healthier and sturdier race.

The program of health improvement which he fostered will be carried on through the laboratory and the Gosgas institute, composed largely of the general's associates in the army medical service. In spite of the progress made in Gorgas' time there is still much to do.—Cleveland Plain Dealer, April 2.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

Do Unto Others.

Did you ever do a good deed without getting a feeling of satisfaction?

Perhaps it required effort — some financial outlay.

But if it really seemed the thing that you should do, did you not feel well repaid for all your trouble?

Undoubtedly you have had an impulse to help a person who needed your assistance.

You considered the cost and decided against it.

Didn't you have many regrets that you did not follow your heart's prompting?

Was what you saved worth the disturbing thoughts you had because of your failure to carry out your inclinations?

There is full recompense when action is in proportion to good impulse.

To have these good thoughts and then fail to follow the leadings is to weaken the fiber of your character.

Too many of us have promptings to do good deeds that are never carried into effect.

Dissatisfaction with self is the result.

Not the peace of mind that makes for true happiness.

The best we can get out of life is the compensation we receive from doing something for others.

Search For Girl, 14, Ends At Massillon

Daughter of Samuel Cole, Colored, Missing From Home Since Feb. 14, is Brought Back By Police, Four Arrests are Made in Case.

WELLSVILLE, O., Apr. 5.—Mystery of the disappearance of a 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cole, colored, Buckeye avenue, who left her home here Feb. 14, was solved yesterday afternoon when Chief of Police John Fultz and Patrolman Edward Pugh found her at the home of Edward Ivers, a barber, in Massillon.

Four persons have been arrested in the case and, Chief Fultz said today, there is every indication of additional arrests before the investigation, in which Probation Officer John McShane is taking an active part, is ended.

Two women and two men will face Acting Mayor Clyde Baker Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock in police court on charges of contributing to the girl's delinquency. They are: Mrs. Pope Rody, Fourteenth and Main streets; Herbert Hill, Nevada street; Charles Asbury, Fourteenth and Commerce streets; and Mrs. Ella Jones, near Fifteenth and Main streets.

Police and the girl's parents combed the entire district following her disappearance, searching in Midland, East Liverpool, Toronto, Steubenville and other points as well as questioning colored residents in Wellsville.

Through a tip, police learned she was seen in Massillon, and yesterday afternoon the information was verified. The girl was brought back to Wellsville and is being held in the detention room in the city hall building. It is believed the girl was enticed from her home here for reasons that may be uncovered in the police hearing.

SEWER BIDS ARE REJECTED

Board of Control Acts; Council Passes Resolution.

Corrective steps in the preparation of legislation preliminary to the construction of the $18,000 Seventeenth street storm sewer were taken yesterday afternoon and last night by the board of control and the city council.

At a meeting in the auditor's office yesterday afternoon the control board, including members Acting Mayor Clyde Baker, Service-Safety Director George Imbrie and City Auditor Fred Eckfeld rejected all bids received to date on the construction work as a result of irregularities in existing legislation.

The irregularities consisted chiefly of the lack of a resolution authorizing the service-safety director to advertise for bids.

So last night city councilmen convened in special session and passed not only the resolution authorizing the service-safety director to advertise for bids, but also the determining ordinance.

As a result, the sewer legislation today is in ship-shape order.

THRASHER RITES SUNDAY AT 2 P. M.

Funeral services for Charles Thrasher, 50, who died in the East Liverpool hospital Wednesday afternoon as a result of injuries received in a fall of slate in the Locust Grove Coal company's mine, Empire, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in his home in Stratton.

He leaves his widow and five children: Mrs. Carl Martin, Stratton; Mrs. Charles Keenan, Empire; Charles Jr., Harry and William.

Thrasher had been a resident of Stratton for 26 years. He served two terms on the Stratton village council.

The funeral service will be in charge of the Rev. C. C. Brewer, Newell, Nazarene church pastor. Burial will be made in Sugar Grove cemetery.

STOLEN BICYCLE IS RECOVERED

Charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Norman Eckfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckfeld, Sixth and Main streets, Daniel Rini, Fourteenth street, was arrested yesterday by police. Rini gave up the bicycle and in addition, made financial restitution for damages.

HINT ARMS PLOT

PROBE OF NOVACK CASE GOES ON

No developments were reported today by police in the investigation of the alleged kidnaping of Jimmy Novack, 6, son of Mrs. Roland Henthorne, Nevada street.

The child's father, James Novack, and his brother-in-law, Jacob Kyle, who lives near Charleroi, Pa., were arrested and bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $5,000 each. They were taken to Lisbon.

SUNDAY PROGRAM AT YELLOW CREEK

Regular services will be held Sunday in the Yellow Creek Presbyterian church, in charge of the pastor, the Rev. K. J. Stewart, at 11 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.

Sunday school will convene at 10 a. m. Annual meeting for the election of officers and the transaction of other business also will be held.

Young people's service will be held at 7 p. m.

Sunday school at Coal Hollow will meet at 3 p. m.

C. E. PARSONS, AGED 33, IS DEAD

Clarence E. Parsons, 33, son of Mrs. Isabelle Parsons, died yesterday at noon in Hammondsville following a year's illness of complications.

He was born in Hammondsville and spent his entire life there. He was proprietor of the J. W. Parson & Son store.

Besides his mother he leaves three brothers: Roy and Donald at home, and William E., Wellsville, and a sister, Mrs. Flora Russell of Haddonfield, N. J.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home. Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery, Wellsville.

CHURCH PLANS PROPERTY SALE

Trustees of the First Christian church, Wellsville, have filed an application in common pleas court asking for authority to sell the southwest corner of lot 25, fronting on Main street.

The trustees declare it is the desire of the congregation to sell it and purchase more suitable property for a church home or parsonage.

CITY HOSPITAL WINS PLACE ON ROLL OF HONOR

American College of Surgeons Recognizes Institution.

EFFICIENCY HIGH

Survey Made by National Hospital Association.

The East Liverpool City hospital has been placed on the 1929 list of approved and recognized hospitals by the American College of Surgeons and the National Hospital Council of the American Medical association, it was announced today.

Recognition is based upon efficiency of the institution. Among the qualifications are a staff of physicians, who are graduates of reputable medical schools, capable management, competent nurses and regular staff conferences and finally that the hospital shall not be conducted for profit but for the purpose of securing better medical service for the community.

The council making this survey functions as a fact-finding and rating commission, serving as a clearing house of professional information concerning hospitals throughout the country. All hospitals are privileged to apply for recognition and only those who apply for admission are included in the survey.

Last year 458 of the hospitals investigated were disapproved.

Edwin Mulvaney, the Chatanooga, Tenn., high school student who discovered a wholly new explosive, has been awarded a four years' scholarship at the chemical-warfare laboratories.

Nearly 75,000 motor vehicles were imported into Argentina in 1928.

OHIOAN TAKES "FRENCH LEAVE;" TWO WOMEN SAY HE'S BIGAMIST

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—John Yoakum, 53, whom two women claim as their husband, was out on the trail somewhere today, having taken "French leave" from his home here, which resulted in mate No. 2 learning of mate No. 1, who alleges that the middle-aged man who looks 30, never divorced her.

Before the probate clerk here, Katherine B. Yoakum, who is 50, asserted she married John five years ago, but left him shortly thereafter. Wife No. 2, Tillie F. Yoakum, 60, stated she became his wedded mate three years back and lived with him until 16 days ago, when he "up and left."

Neither of the women cares to have John back but thought the probate clerk should know of the case and bring him in on a bigamy count.

"John's such a talker," wife No. 2 said, "that if not caught he is likely as not to obtain a third wife."

85 Dahlia Growers Hear Expert Gardener

Herman Rapp, Leetsdale Pa., Speaks at Dahlia Society's Second Annual Banquet.

Methods of planting and raising dahlias both for exhibition and for the home were discused by Herman Rapp, gardener at the Watson Home for Crippled Children, Leetsdale, Pa., when he addressed 85 guests at the second annual banquet of the East Liverpool Dahlia society in the grill room of the Travelers' hotel, East Fourth street, last night.

"One must know exactly when and for what purpose he wants dahlias before their cultivation is started, and all other cares given to the flower depend on this," advised Rapp. He reviewed the history of the flower.

The Rev. R. C. Caulk, rector of the St. Stephen's Episcopal church, delivered the invocation. W. E. Wells, Newell pottery manufacturer, was toastmaster. Solo and duet selections were given by Mrs. W. H. Gerber, soprano, and Miss Helen Hague, contralto. Miss Helen Woessner was the accompanist.

Thomas Watkin and Thomas Anthony were in charge of the banquet.

BIDS FOR POWER

Joseph Caillaux, former premier of France, by his action in criticizing parliament for ineffectiveness, is believed to be making a bid for return to the power he once enjoyed.

HERBERT HOOVER ON JOB MONTH

WASHINGTON, April 5. — Herbert Hoover completed the first month of his presidency yesterday.

It has been a month of intense activities, witnessing the overthrow of some major Coolidge policies, the retention of others, and, in general, the changing of the course for the next four years.

That there is a new administration in the White House—and not merely a continuation of the old—Washington no longer doubts.

Innovations and renovations have been introduced, and more are to follow as the new regime settles to its tasks.

RADER ATTACKS 'APE' THEORY IN DEFENDER MEET

No Christian Believes in Evolution, He Says.

90-MINUTE SERMON

Chicago Tabernacle Chieftain to Speak Again Tonight.

Rising to heights of oratorical emphasis and contributing bulwarking facts from the domains of science, philosophy and religion, Paul Rader, of the Chicago Gospel tabernacle, declared at the Faith Defenders' convention in the First United Presbyterian church last night that "none believing in evolution can be a Christian." His subject was "To the Finish With Evolution."

For nearly an hour and a half his hearers listened and hung on his every word. During the preliminary song service, they sang the campaign song, 'Faith of Our Fathers."

"You can not take Jesus Christ as simply a man and pattern your lives after Him. Such a departure will mean nothing and avail one less," he shouted in conclusion. "If you take the cros from Christianity then you take everything from it. We are not evolving; we are but dying men and women. Christianity is not what man can do for himself; it is that resulting from the substitutionary sacrifice for mankind of Christ. We are not saved by works but by faith in the Christ as our Savior."

Hits Evolutionary Doctrines.

He pleaded that young people being taught evolutionary doctrines in college, university and high school would hold on to the biblical slant until it would envelop them in its truth. He quoted Dr. Clark, head of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C., as telling him there was nothing whatsoever to the evolutionary theory. "And it is but a theory at its best," he said.

Directed by the Rev. L. A. Britton, first Christian church pastor of Chester, W. Va., a song service preceded his discourse. It was heightened by the presence of Envoy Waggoner, of New York City Salvation Army corps and a former resident of the city. By request he sang "When the Gates of Heaven Swing Outward Never," by Charles Gabriel. Richard Oliver, of Chicago, gave a trombone solo "The Golden Bells."

The invocation was made by the Rev. Dr. C. H Elcher, of Chicago, and the benediction given by the Rev. Dr. Zeimer, of Toledo, who this morning concluded his series of Bible expositions on the theme, "The Mystery of Iniquity."

Convention Closes Sunday.

Having impressed East Liverpool church adherents as few speakers to it in recent years, Rader will make his final address at the convention tonight when he will give the story of his own life. "This address is one of the most remarkable ones I have ever heard," asserted Gerald B. Winrod, of Wichita, Kan., who presided. "He has held audiences riveted to their seats in speaking on 'My Own Story.'"

Two of the most talked about men in the last decade who have had a marked effect upon the world by their activities are to be discussed in the last two days of the convention on Saturday and Sunday—Rasputin, of Russia, and Premier Mussolini of Italy. The latter will be discussed on Sunday and the former on Saturday night by Dr. Winrod.

On Saturday afternoon, there being no morning session of the convention on that day, Philip Sidersky, of Los Angeles and formerly of Vilna, Russia, who following his conversion to Christianity, was long a co-worker with the late Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, will give a demonstration of the Passover service.

Jesus is Real, He Declares.

Basing his talk against evolution on the parable of the marriage feast to which many had been invited and from which several remained away by making excuses, Mr. Rader said that all attempts to exploit such a theory as a fact were excuses from accepting salvation by coming to Christ as Savior.

Men, sentenced to go on their own and work, following the sin and fall of Adam, have become smart enough to be poets, historicians and artists. So those advocating evolution say he has evolved.

"There is not existing a single scientific fact that one specie has come from another," he said. "Evolution started as a theory and it is that still."

He said that the population of the world doubled every 162 years. Taking the figures of evolutionists as to the years since man evolved, he said there would be so many on the earth by now that the population would be about a million for every one now on it. "And where are they?" he asked. "And how could such a number be accommodated on the earth?"

"We are not following a theory, or a condition," he declared in conclusion. "Jesus is real. His way and method is a banquet and we are called to a feast. If we accept we shall know that there is nothing to such a theory. I have posted $1,000 in a Chicago bank to be given to anyone proving there is an unscientific fact in the Bible. It has not been taken. To accept Christ is to have all of your doubts swept away."

Prayer Afternoon Subject.

In the afternoon he spoke again on the general subject of prayer in which he averred that the Bible, held to be a mass of fiction by many, was to the Christian but the blueprints of God. He emphasized the need for reading books of the Bible at a time.

Prayer is the industry of the Christian life. All of the victory, peace, calm, certainty and sureness that may be yours you got by the manufacturing of prayer. You can not be narrow and read the Bible. No course of study can give such breadth of mind as knowledge of the Bible."

Elmer McMillen

With the exception of one year, Assistant Chief Elmer McMillen has been a member of the fire department since 1896.

McMillen was born at Monroeville, Jefferson county, on Jan. 28, 1866, a son of the late Robert and Matilda McMillen. When he was two years of age, the McMillens moved to Salineville where the later assistant fire chief attended school. In his teens, McMillen drove a mule in Salineville coal mines.

Coming to East Liverpool in 1885, he worked as a presser in the potteries. He was appointed patrolman by Mayor A. V. Gilbert on April 14, 1894. Two years later he quit to become a member of the fire department.

McMillen was appointed assistant chief in 1916 when Thomas Bryan was named chief.

He is a member of the Knights of Pythias, the blue lodge, council and chapter of the Masonic fraternity and Fraternal Order of Eagles and Episcopal church.

His wife was formerly Miss Clara M. Hindle, whom he married May 23, 1901. He has one son, Burnett, and lives at 123 East Third street.

THE Bolsheviki are expected to send an ambassador to the Vatican.

Bolshevism, officially atheistic, believes that religion "is the opium of the people," invented by the prosperous "to keep the worker satisfied."

But Russia wants to do business with other countries and, wisely, will allow the Catholic church to do what it can to counteract Russian atheism.

FIFTY-TWO thousand Britons demand abolition of capital punishment. In England criminals are hanged. They don't use fancy electric chairs, reserving science for better things than killing men.

AN END of capital punishment would be a step toward civilization. Meanwhile, British capital punishment shows common sense.

When one Briton kills another, they hang him a few weeks later. No years of delay for appeals, delivery of bouquets and sympathetic letters from ladies.

BRITISH criminals, knowing this, rarely carry deadly weapons on burglary expeditions, since using them to kill would mean hanging. Here it means hiring an able lawyer.

MEXICO'S war seems to turn out badly for the rebels. Calles is burning bridges to prevent the rebels' retreat. His aim is "to wipe out the rebel troops."

The Mexican government thinks it is not far from complete victory, for this time.

MEANWHILE bombs from Mexican airplanes have been dropped on American soil. Mexican shells cross the border and land on American territory. Uncle Sam says he is going to do something about that if it doesn't stop.

companied the coffin to Pont Gueydon for a brief ceremony before it was carried out to the Tourville upon a tender.

The railway station, public buildings and many other structures bore French and American flags. Some were at half mast and others bore bands of crepe to signify mourning.

Warcraft, merchantmen and fighting boats filled the harbor, with half masted flags fluttering in the drizzle. The United States flag fluttered at the foremast of the ships.

A thin, persistent rain was falling when the coffin was removed from the train and placed in the hearse. Crowds of men and women, many of the wearing the customary wooden shoes of the region, clattered over the streets. Many bore flowers which they piled upon the coffin and the hearse.

Play "Star Spangled Banner."

Silent thousands filled the streets and jammed the quay. The coffin was placed upon the tender Dolmen which also carried the United States embassy staff and Prefect Pirot, of Brest.

As the tender reached the Tourville's side, tackle was swung over the side and the coffin was swung aboard while the cruiser's band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the crew stood at attention along the rail. The coffin was placed upon the quarter deck, covered with a flag.

American Charge D'Affaires Armour, who had accompanied the body from Paris, made a little address, standing on the quarter deck beside the coffin.

"The people of the United States have been deeply moved by the affection of the French people," said Mr. Armour. Then turning to the ship's officers he added: "We confine the beloved ambassador to your safe keeping, knowing it was his sincere wish thus to return home."

One American Accompanies Body

Commandant Abrial, commander of the Tourville, formally accepted the body which was later placed in the black and silver chapel on the port side of the after quarterdeck, adjoining the commandant's own state room.

On board the Tourville only one American accompanied the body of the late ambassador. He is W. W. Schott, of the embassy staff and private secretary to Mr. Herrick.

Just after noon the watching crowd got its last glimpse of the Tourville with its dead. The cruiser was soon hull down on the horizon, then nothing was left to view but a wisp of trailed smoke in the murk.

WIND UPROOTS FAMOUS TREE

NEW LEXINGTON, O., April 5.—Blown down in yesterday's rain and wind storm, Perry county's famous sassafras tree, which for more than 200 years had withstood the wrath of the elements and was recognized as the largest in existence, was a sight for the curious today. The tree, which is prominently mentioned in Ohio history, had a girth of 14 feet. A small part of its roots was supposted to make a gallon of tea.

HOUSE PASSES BILL CREATING TWO COURTS

Hamilton County Plan Wins by Vote of 89 to 26.

BECK MOVE LOSES

Seven Other Measures Ride Path to Victory.

By C. H. HADDOX
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—A heated controversy over the question of passing the Martin bill, a senate measure, providing for two additional common pleas judges in Hamilton county, featured a session of the house this forenoon. The bill was finally declared passed by a vote of 89 to 26.

After passing seven bills, defeating one, acting upon a dozen committee reports and disposing of senate amendments to various house measures, the house recessed early this afternoon until 2 p. m.

Lacking 16 votes of enough to pass it, the Beck bill, providing for an additional common pleas judge in Montgomery county, was defeated in the house by a vote of 73 to 30.

Bills Passed.

The house today passed the following measures: The Lear bill, providing for protection of travelers on highways and safeguarding and preventing loss of life and property at grade crossings; the Herbert bill, authorizing establishment of an experimental unit for Ceramic research at the state brick plant, Roseville, and the Aigler bill, an emergency measure, requiring out-of-state owners of motor vehicles operating on routes wholly within this state, to pay the Ohio auto license fees.

The house recommitted to the rules committee the Wise bill, which has passed the senate, proposing an amendment to the state constitution which would permit a majority of the members of the Ohio supreme court to declare a statute unconstitutional.

Gas Tax Boost Wins.

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—With the 4-cent gasoline tax bill passed by the house, the upper and lower branches of the legislature in a deadlock over the increased automobile speed limit bill and recess only a day away, the state solons were prepared today to step to a lively tune here.

By a 98-to-29 vote, the house put the stamp of approval on the Sullivan bill, which raises the gasoline tax in Ohio from three to four cents. It now goes to the senate, and will be considered by that body sometime before noon tomorrow. A stiff fight is expected, but it will be passed in that house, solely because Gov. Cooper favors the bill.

The prospect of having the state speed limit in the Buckeye state raised is not so good due to the deadlock existing between the house and senate. The upper house wants the speed limit raised from 35 miles an hour, which it now is, to 45 miles an hour. The lower branches wishes to abolish the limit altogether, allowing a "reasonable" speed on highways outside of villages and municipalities.

Debate on Morgan Bill.

A sharp debate took place in the house yesterday when the Morgan bill, repealing approximately 1,000 sections of the general code, came up for passage. It was finally given the "okeh." Among the sections it repeals is the provision which has provided state aid for township highways out of the general revenue fund.

24 ARE KILLED IN RAIL WRECK IN ROUMANIA

Sixty-five Injured When Express is Derailed.

SWITCH THROWN

Disaster at Boboca Occurs During Severe Storm.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, April 5.—The dead in the wreck of the Jassy-Bucharest express near Boboca was increased to 24 this afternoon when four of the injured succumbed to their wounds. Sixty-five were injured.

McVay Hurls Charges

"Some members of this board have been talking, saying that I would not be re-engaged for next year," McVay said. "Two members of this board were elected a year ago pledged to get rid of me at the end of my four-year contract."

"I resent your assertion that I am under dictation in this matter," said Dr. Kinsey. "I did not ask for one vote in the election and am in debt to no one."

McVay charged that the board through its policy in insisting that East Liverpool teachers be given preference for teaching positions had made the local schools "a laughing stock" all over the state. "I was forced to recommend local teachers regardless of their qualifications," he declared. "The board should give its reasons for opposing me."

Croxall told the school board that he (McVay) "lacked tact" in dealing with school matters. "There has been a lack of co-operation between you and the teachers," Croxall asserted.

"I have tried to be on friendly terms with the teachers but I don't play politics," he said. "I call a spade a spade. I want everyone to know where I stand."

Lack of Discipline Charged.

"There is a lack of discipline in many of the rooms," said Dr. Kinsey. "I called attention to this when I recently visited in one of the rooms where children were doing just about as they pleased.

"Discipline is up to the teachers," McVay explained. "Many of the teachers lack experience but I have never established set ideas how they must teach any subject. That is a matter I leave entirely with the teacher."

McVay then criticized the expense of the ceramic school, which he declared is costing $300 a year per pupil. "If you spent this much on the remainder of your pupils it would cost $2,000,000 a year to operate the schools," he said.

"Is this course worth while?"

"That is one of your drawbacks," retorted Croxall. "You have been opposed to the course from the beginning. Vocational courses are expensive no matter where they are taught, but they are generally worth the price."

"We should go slowly in this matter," said Ferguson, after McVay had retired. "Mr. McVay is a good man and one of the best educators in the state."

President Glenn declared that the schools here were in better financial condition today than they have been at any time during the last 25 years, due largely, he declared, to the "able leadership of Mr. McVay."

Clean House, Glenn Urges.

"If Mr. McVay is allowed to go we should start to clean house from top to bottom," Glenn urged. "Let's make a good job while we are at it."

Kinsey said that a large percentage of the teachers, pottery manufacturers and the boosters' club were among those against the retention of McVay. "Five high school teachers and two elementary instructors informed me that they would resign if Mr. McVay was reappointed."

"Mr. McVay is not an applicant for this job, nor will he be," said Glenn.

"Then why didn't he resign before leaving?" asked Stevenson. "He sought to put this board in the hole by leaving as he did."

"Since he is not seeking re-election we should let it be known that we are looking for a successor," said Croxall who offered the motion "to receive applications." It was midnight when the motion was recorded.

McVay came to East Liverpool in 1925 from New Philadelphia, succeeding F. P. Geiger, who went to New Philadelphia to take the post McVay vacated. He was elected for the four-year term beginning September 1, 1925, and ending August 31, 1929.

McVay failed to disclose the two places at which he had been offered positions. He plans to make weekly trips back to East Liverpool during the six weeks he will be teaching at Kent.

POLICE WARN LIQUOR "JOINTS"

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 5.—(INS.)—Chief of Police John L. Miles, newly appointed, today issued an order that Kansas City bootlegging "joints" must be closed by 8 o'clock each night, under threat of invoking the Jones law. In his edict, Miles also ordered concealing blinds and advertisements be removed from "speakeasy" windows.

The chief said his edict was a forerunner to complete annihilation of "joints" which he had set about to put out of business. A government agent recently said there were 1,000 "joints" here.

POTTERY CITY GETS RECOGNITION ON COLLIER'S MAGAZINE COVER

The cover is a drawing by Edmund Davenport, New York artist, and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith, sr., of West Sixth street. The picture is that of a young woman in an aviatrix costume, who is about to respond to an invitation to attend a dance.

DEATH ROLL

George A. Butler Funeral.

Funeral services for George A. Butler, 68, formerly of East Liverpool, who died in Pittsburgh, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street, in charge of Field Major Joseph Hughes of the Salvation army. Burial will be made in the Lisbon cemetery.

He leaves three sons and one daughter.

Samuel G. Cowles.

Samuel G. Cowles, a former resident of East Liverpool, died last night in his home, 810 Lincoln avenue, Stebenville, after a short illness.

He leaves his widow, three sons, Robert, Charles and Arthur, and one daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Cowles, Steubenville; two brothers, Thomas Cowles, New Castle, Pa., and Raymond Cowles, East Liverpool, and two sisters, Mrs. Howard Richardson, New Castle, and Mrs. Charles Lentz, this city.

Mrs. Ellen Bott Funeral.

Services for Mrs. Ellen Bott, formerly of East Liverpool, who died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. D. McDevitt, Urbana, Ill., were held yesterday afternoon in the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street, in charge of the Rev. W. O. Hawkins, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was made in Riverview cemetery.

On the West Side, Rocky river threatened for a time to get out of bounds and a number of cottagers along its banks fled to higher ground. The waters subsided within an hour and only nominal damage resulted.

Reports that nine girls were marooned in a cottage on the banks of the river brought out a police emergency squad but all the cottages and dwellers were found to be safe.

Washout on Railroad.

Lightning struck one east end home with damage estimated at $700. No one was hurt. A washout was reported on the Wheeling & Lake Erie tracks and the roadbed of the Northern Ohio Light & Power company at Garfield Heights, a suburb. Repairs were effected without delaying service.

Independence Village, a suburb, was the scene of a spectacular fire early today when lightning struck a gas main. The flames blazed high into the air and were visible over a wide area until brought under control about an hour later.

Elyria Memorial Home Flooded.

ELYRIA, O., April 5.—Engine rooms of the Elyria Memorial home were under nearly six feet of water today as floods caused by last night's rainstorm were slowly subsiding. All fires were withdrawn from the furnaces or raked by the boiler room attendants before htey left their posts. Several families were reported marooned by high waters last night and others were forced to desert their homes. Practically all of them had returned this afternoon, however.

Fire Station Blazes, No Alarm.

ELYRIA, O., April 5.—When firemen can't use their own alarm system to announce a fire on their own switchboard, well there'd ought to be a law or something.

It was midnight. Everything was more or less quiet about headquarters. Of course it was raining outside and Capt. Myers had just lighted his pipe, preparatory to a long and uneventful spell of duty.

Cra—A—C—K! !

Myers was puzzled. How could he turn in an alarm? But he hesitated only a moment, realized he couldn't telephone downstairs to his waiting laddies and slid down the brass pole to tell the firemen their house was on fire. Four brave laddies dashed up the stairs with a tube of chemical and presto, the flames were conquered.

However, if anyone wants to sound and alarm today he'll have to call up on a private phone.

CORNELL SQUAD IN BUS CRASH

QUANTICO, Va., April 5.—Virtually the entire Cornell University baseball squad was recovering in the marine base hospital today from injuries suffered last night when their motor bus plunged off the Richmond-Washington highway.

Twenty-seven passengers, most of whom were members of the Cornell contingent were hurt, five of them seriously.

25 LIVES LOST IN RUM RAIDS IN 15 MONTHS

Official Report of Killings Submitted at Washington.

23 DIE IN YEAR

By Robert S. Thornburgh.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Enforcement of federal prohibition cost 25 lives during the last 15 months.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman today submitted an official report of the killings to Under Secretary Ogden L. Mills. Twenty-three persons were killed incident to raids in 1928, while the other two lives were taken during the first three months of this year.

Comparative figures for 1927 were not given in the report, but Lowman declared the reduction in fatalities was great. He attributed the decrease in the number of slayings incident to enforcement of the dry law throughout the country to the treasury department's rule against promiscuous flourishing, display and use of firearms by prohibition agents.

Nine Operatives Slain.

In the fifteen months sixteen civilians were killed and nine government operatives met death in the drive to dry up United States. As a result of raids and other enforcement activities 11 citizens were killed by agents of the prohibition bureau. Seven agents died, the victims of bootleggers and others.

Two mounted inspectors of the customs patrol were slain by smugglers, but no civilians met death at the hands of agents of that bureau.

Five civilians were killed by members of the Coast Guard. The Coast Guard was the only enforcement branch that did not have fatal casualties within its ranks as a result of prohibition operations.

Courts Exonerate Officers.

In all cases against government agents which have reached the courts and have been terminated, the officers were exonerated from criminal liability, according to the report.

The two deaths this year involved the drowning of Leon Hangay, a seaman aboard the British schooned "I'm Alone," which was sunk by a Coast Guard cutter in the Gulf of Mexico, and that of Joseph O. McGuire, of Laramie, Wyo. The report showed the latter was shot to death by Agent Charles F. Patterson, deputized by Sheriff Edwin A. Baily, of Wyoming, to assist in capturing McGuire, who had committed a murder and was resisting arrest.

IT'S hilarious. It's intense. It has everything a good comedy should have. And is without those wise-cracking titles. It's as Chaplinesque as anything Buster Keaton has ever done and it proves Dorothy Sebastian a charming comedienne of the highest calibre. For all its fun, it is the story of a great love, more pathetic, more vital than many of the Immortal Romances. See it!

NECKLACES THEN AND NOW

Remember the choker necklace? In the picture on the left Mary Dolan demonstrates how it was worn in the olden days of 1928. On the right, however, she introduces a new way of using it, which is fashionable as well as utilitarian. "It's very simple," says Mary. "Just attach the choker to the side of the hat, and when you take your hat off, presto! you have a choker necklace."

DOGGED DETERMINATION WINS

After gaining the pinnacle of success through the wizardry of his right hand, Robert Reid lost the use of this precious arm by paralysis. Doctors told him he would never again be able to use it, but Reid was undaunted and painfully taught himself to use his left hand. Today, at age of 69, he has regained in his left, the lost art of hisparalyzed right arm.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my late teens, considered to be attractive, and I also am told that I have personality. I am very much interested in boys, but I simply can't attract their attention.

How can I become popular with the fellows? "ANXIOUS."

ANXIOUS: Perhaps your fault is that you try too hard to attract the opposite sex. Why not start being a good listener instead of doing all the talking? Give the boys a chance to talk about themselves occasionally. Be interested in their hobbies and their conversation. And don't show them that you are deliberately trying to gain their attention. This is the surest way to make them run away, for men hate the thought of being pursued.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

1. Is it improper to go out riding after a party?

2. I am in love with two boys and I like them both the same. Is there any way I can find out which one I like best?

3. Is it insulting to write to a friend with colored ink and paper?

4. Is it proper for a hostess to leave her party and go out riding for a short time? B. L. AND W. B.

B. L. AND W.: 1—Hardly proper, my dears, to say nothing of being indiscreet and laying yourselves open to slanderous gossip.

2—You're really not in love with either of them. Keep on being friendly and perhaps in time you'll discover which of the two you like best.

4—No hostess who has any respect for the ethics of refinement and good taste would be guilty of such a breach.

HARD WATER PLUS MELO MAKES SOFT WATER

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Soap and hard water make scum. The hardness in the water combines with the soap. The scum collects dirt. There is a dirty ring around the dishpan, the washtubs, the bathtub. But soften hard water with Melo and no scum forms.

Water softened with Melo is a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. It makes the soap much more effective, too, saving from ⅓ to ½ the amount ordinarily used. Melo only costs 10 cents a can. You can afford to buy 3 cans and keep one in the kitchen, one in the laundry, and one in the bathroom. Get it at your grocer's.

Roamers, Ceramics Winners

Three Teams in Running For 'Y' Cage Honors.

Ceramics threw a surprise into "Y" intermediate tourney ranks by polishing off the Question Marks, 26 to 19, last night, while the Roamers continued to win at the expense of the M. P. Juniors, 33 to 24.

Roamers, Ceramics and the Wellsville Buccaneers are the three survivors of the tournament at the present stage. The Roamers will meet the Buccaneers in the semi-final in that bracket and the victor goes into action against the Ceramics in the final. These games likely will be played next week.

WANER SIGNS BUC CONTRACT

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 5—Paul Waner, the "big poison" of the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday ended his holdout by signing a contract with Barney Dreyfuss, president of the club, after brief dickering here.

The star outfielder demanded $18,000. Whether he got it is not known. Neither he nor Dreyfuss would discuss terms of the agreement. But both said they were satisfied.

ANZAC LEADS BUNION BABIES

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 5—Herbert Hedeman, veteran Australian marathoner, was in the lead today as C. C. Pyle's trans-continental foot racers got away at 7 a. m. today on the sixth lap of the jaunt, Baltimore 44 miles distant is the next stop.

Hedeman held the lead by about six minutes in the elapsed time the runners have been on the road since they left New York last Sunday. He also claims 40 minutes additional for loss of time on the Trenton-Philadelphia leg due to being mis-directed by one of Pyle's route men. To date this claim has not been allowed.

SANDE TO RIDE ON BOWIE TRACK

Stadium Plan At Toronto Is Not Definite

Rumor of $25,000 Plant Premature Says School.

TORONTO, O., April 5. Rumors that a $25,000 football and track stadium would be constructed within the next two months by the Toronto board of education on a plot adjoining the high school have been branded as premature by S. C. Dennis, superintendent of the Toronto public schools.

Dennis stated that persons responsible for the statements as to the stadium were hasty in their judgment and had greatly exaggerated on what little available information there was and had acted without any authority or information given out by the Toronto board.

Dennis revealed that the construction of an athletic field was under consideration by the members of the board but the matter was only an idea as yet and no definite steps had been taken.

According to the superintendent the plot adjoining the high school would make an ideal location for a football field and that several thousand dollars had been spent on grading and filling it for that purpose. The use of the plot for a football field this coming season has been under consideration and the board of education may decide to erect temporary and concrete bleachers this summer but it is only an idea on which no definite action has been taken.

Change in Date Of Ohio Golf Meet Sought

Amateur Tourney May Be Moved up to June 16.

CANTON, O., Apr. 5.—Efforts to change the date for the Ohio amateur golf championship this summer, to be played over the sporty Brookside layout here, have found Stanley Crooks, secretary of the state association, in a receptive mood and have been passed on to members of the executive committee.

This information comes from George Howard, the Brookside professional who will be in charge of the tournament, and who has been in communication with Crooks.

It was first proposed to change the tournament from the week of June 24 to the week of July 8, but in his letter to Howard, received last week, Crooks suggested that perhaps the week of June 16 would answer the purpose, providing the course is in shape at that time for tournament play.

Howard says there would be no question of Brookside's condition the week of June 16. In fact, he pointed out that the course quite likely would be in as good condition then as at any time during the season.

The proposal to change the date for the tournament came when it was discovered that the national open would be staged the end of the week of June 24th, and that the big shots in Ohio professional ranks would be absent from the state. It was hoped to induce there sharpshooters to come to Canton for the pro-amateur, which is always a big feature of the Ohio amateur joust.

With the date advanced to the 16th, the professionals would have qualified for the open, and might like the idea of a few days of play over the Brookside course as a sort of warming up for the big tournament, the following week. If that should be the case, it is probable most of the professionals in Ohio would enter the pro-amateur.

In Training Camps

Gehrig Gets First Homer.

DALLAS, Tex., April 5.—As the New York Yankees pulled into Dallas today Buster Gehrig was in a cheerful frame of mind. The younger home run twin hit his first homer of the season against Waco yesterday, breaking the ice ahead of Ruth. Lazzeri, collected a pair of circuit clouts.

Genewich Goes Route.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 5.—Joe Genewich is the first pitcher of the New York Giants to twirl a full game this season. He was hit hard by the Toledo Mud Hens at Biloxi, Miss., yesterday, but won, 14 to 6. Bill Terry walloped a homer, a double and a single.

Robins' Hurling Improves.

MOBILE, Ala., April 5.—The Brooklyn pitching staff is slowly rounding into form. Moss and Dudley held the Pensacola team to five hits yesterday, the Robins winning, 5 to 2.

A freight wreck near Crestview delayed the Brooklyn players and they had to commandeer a fleet of automobiles to reach Pensacola.

Tribe Primes for Dodgers.

NEW ORLEANS, April 5.—The Cleveland Indians were to go through a stiff workout today in preparation for their exhibition game with Brooklyn tomorrow. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh directed batting practice and put the infield through a snappy drill yesterday, topping the day off with a lecture in which he pointed out errors and bad plays which the Indians and New York Giants committed in their two-game series this week. The two teams split the two-game series.

White Sox in Wichita Falls.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., April 5.—The White Sox came here today for a three-game stand against the local Texas Leaguers. They came from Seminole, Okla., where Des Moines defeated them yesterday, 6 to 4. McKain blew up in the fifth inning and the Iowans put the game on ice with four runs.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 5.—Erratic playing marked the contest between the Barons of Birmingham and the Reds of Cincinnati yesterday. The National leaguers did a bit less of it, with the result they had chalked up today a 3-to-2 victory.

HOOSIERS BUMP OFF BUCKEYES

COLUMBUS, April 5.—Indiana university opened the Big Ten season here yesterday against Ohio State, by running off with a 4-to-2 victory over the Bucks, in a game that was featured by the masterly hurling of the Hoosier ace, Russ Paugh.

Pitching a full game for the first time this year, Paugh seemed invincible, and improved with every inning. The Hoosier twirler allowed only three hits, one a bunt, sent ten Buckeyes to the bench by the strikeout route and gave only one free walk to first base.

Sill, the only letterman returning to the mound this year, was retired in the sixth, and Lawton Fontaine, the Akron lad, took up the reins in the next frame. Eleven Indiana batters faced him, and were retired in order, four of them fanning. His pitching was the only bright spot in the losers' play.

Ohio made two feeble rallies in the sixth and seventh innings, but Paugh, the star of the day, held them under control in the pinches.

SHE BREAKS PAR

Female superiority in golf was proven by Glenna Collett, women's national champion, at Pinehurst, N. C. links, when she beat men's par by one in beautiful performance at 27th annual North and South championship competition for women, in spite of wind conditions and other deterring factors.

BOWLING COLUMN

Rolling a combined score of 1,053, Johnny Greene and Millard Blythe took the lead in the double events in the duckpin tournament at the American alleys.

Ted Ganas and Bob McHenry are second with 928. Ganas rolled high individual score of 218 last night. Other doubles entries will roll tonight.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 5.—The Cubs were out today to make it two in a row over the Houston Buffs, champions of the Texas league. The Bruins opened the series yesterday with a 10-to-0 win. Hack Wilson featured with four hits, one a home run. Blake yielded only 4 hits in seven innings. Bush was untouched in the last two frames.

Yankee Golfers Set For Seige Of High Hatting at Muirfield

Over There, You're One Of Two Things—a Gentleman or a Pro; and It's Just Too Bad if You're An American.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Within less than a week, they will be sending a team of American professional golfers out to the British open championship and because this will be held this year at Muirfield, the elevated fedora or high hat will be on for everybody and, if they can have their way, Hagen will be eating with the scullery help. There is no place like Muirfield for giving an American a case of permanent distemper.

It is a place that divides the human race into only two classes. One is a professional and the other a gentleman. And in case you are an American of either classification, all the worse for you.

It was at Muirfield, that Eddie Van Vleck, of the Park avenue Van Vlecks, was given the back of someone's neck when he attempted to play as an amateur in one of the British championships. Edward didn't bring a letter from his cotillon leader, or something. Anyhow, they wouldn't let him in the place, in spite of the fact that he was vouched for by a then prominent British amateur. It must have been like the Morris plan and required three endorsements, so that when you stole the piano, there would be a man at each leg to help you carry it back.

Funny thing about it all is that official American golf admires this typically British attitude most intensely and even goes so far as to ape it in some respects.

There isn't any class consciousness in everyday golf here, for Joe Dockes, the prominent caddie master who has worked hard and become club professional, is pandered to as though he was a man among men. But, officially, we are as close to British standards as we can contrive to get. Hagen is only Hagen on the scoreboard when he plays in our open championship and thereby is made to look like a chump because every amateur in the field rates the prefix "Mr." for some absurd reason.

There are certain clubs, happily few in number, who affect this British chill and, therefore, are correspondingly high in favor. Baltusrol is one of these and, in order to preserve the illusion in its original state, it hired as its club manager an Englishman who even looked down a disdainful nose at the club president. When they conducted the amateur championship in 1906, Baltusrol divided the newspapermen into classes, which, as a parlor trick, represents par for any course.

Those who were on the list received credentials and were presumed to be gentlemen until such time as they were found out. Those who weren't on the list were ignored on a very large scale.

Getting back to the anglicized complex under which labor the officials of American golf, didn't they leave Bill Mehlhorn out of their Ryder cup selections? There is nothing the matter with Mehlhorn's table manners. He doesn't garble his soup or spear more than one pea at a time with the tine of his fork and it has been denied, both here and abroad, that there was the slightest personal objection to him from a Ryder cup standpoint. Yet every one knows that the P. G. A. committee feared that the British mightn't approve of William.

For, you see, the British approve of so little. Our professionals, with their self-sufficiency and their multi-colored raiment, are regarded as pure swank around the average British course. Hagen, the pompous, strutting Hagen, a sartorial triumph and a very bland fellow altogether, affronts them instantly and permanently. They want him and all professionals to be grateful for their tolerance. He flaunts his superiority in their very faces and, in his absurdly precocious way, he even argues his right to enter the club house—of all places.

They have what they might be please to consider their "servants" better trained. James Braid and Harry Varden are the immortals of all British golf. Yet they enter the grounds with the rest of the help and the club house never at all.

This preposterous condition is universal throughout Britain. But, if you wish to see it become really feudal in its operation, you have to go to Muirfield.

Sheriff's Sale of Real Estate
The State of Ohio, Columbiana County, Common Pleas Court.
Case No. 18554.
Lena Breakstone, Plaintiff vs. Benj. Warnikoff, et al., Defendant.
In pursuance of an Order of Sale issued from the Common Pleas Court in the above entitled action, I will offer for sale at public auction, at the door of the Court House in Lisbon, in the above named County, on Friday the 3rd day of May, 1929, at 1 o'clock P. M., the following described real estate, situate in the County of Columbiana and State of Ohio, and in the City of East Liverpool, to-wit:
Situated in the City of East Liverpolo, County of Columbiana and State of Ohio, and known as and being part of Lot Number Nine Hundred Forty One (941) as numbered and distinguished on the recorded plat of Wucherer's Addition to said City. Bounded and described as follows: Commencing at the Northeast corner of said Lot 941 and running thence West a distance of 56.00 feet to a point; thence South a distance of 40 feet; thence East a distance of 56.00 feet; thence North a distance of 40 feet to the place of beginning. Situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana and State of Ohio, and known as and being Lot Number Twenty seven Hundred and Ninety Six (2796), as said lot is numbered and distinguished on the recorded plat of Bradshaw's Addition to said City.
Situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana and State of Ohio, and known as and being that part of it Number fifteen hundred seventy eight (1578), in Josiah Thompson's Second Addition to said City, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a corner of said lot at the intersection of Pennsylvania Avenue and Pleasant Lane, and running thence with the South line of Pleasant Lane westwardly to a point midway between Pennsylvania Avenue and Elm Street; thence in a line parallel with Elm Street to the south line of said lot; thence with the south line of said lot eastwardly to the line of that part of said lot heretofore conveyed by said Richard L. Cawood to Joel E. Taylor, Jr. by deed recorded in book number three hundred twenty three (323), page one hundred eighty six (186), of the records of Deeds of said County; thence with the line of said parcel conveyed to Taylor, Northeastwardly to Pennsylvania Avenue, thence with the said Avenue northwestwardly to the place of beginning, being the same premises conveyed by John S. Scott and wife, to Richard L. Cawood by deed recorded in book number three hundred fourteen (314), page thirty three (33), of the Records of Deeds of said County, except the small parcel conveyed to said Taylor above mentioned.
Said Premises Located in East Liverpool, Ohio.

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

PAGES 17 to 28

VOL. LIII. NO. 128. EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1929. TWO CENTS.

What's What in Dress Doesn't Worry O.S.U.

Easter Promenade Found Few Students Garbed in "Latest" in Clothing Line.

Review Bureau,
Ohio State University.

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—What the well-dressed man and woman should wear if they would captivate the interest of the opposite sex and what they should wear if they have no such intentions, is not worrying students at Ohio State university.

The annual Easter promenade found but a few of the students garbed in the "latest" in the clothing line in spite of the fact that many of the collegians donned new outfits in keeping with the Paschal custom.

To look at the ordinary Ohio State student would not necessarily give the old friends back home an indication of what appears to be the style in men's and women's garments this year. Varied styles are prevalent at the present time, at least in the men's division.

The collegian this spring at Ohio State in the matter of suits if wearing two or three-button coats, with both single and double breasted vests, the latter style which appeared prominently last fall, is still predominating. In the line of shades, most any color can be expected, light grays, tans, browns, blues and blacks with an occasional shaded gray here and there. The loud ties of a few months back are giving away, generally, to the more plain cravats.

Regarding the dress of "milady of the campus," or just ordinary co-ed, again most anything can be said. The pleated dresses have made a futile effect for popularity and the plain garment with a drape or a unique twist and an occasional flower is as good as anything. Stockings and small hats are being worn to match the dresses. Most of the dresses are so-called prints. Sun tan is all the proverbial rage when it applies to those co-eds who are inclined toward flapperistic ideals.

There is one part of the collegiate dress, however, which is due for a change even though many campus men are not willing to admit it. The change will not be to a new style but rather to an old one. The principal worry of many is that: garters are coming back.

Says "Orange Root" Rid Him Of Fatigue--Feels Peppy Now

Mr. Ray H. King Triumphs Over Debilitated Condition Caused by Sticking Too Close to Work — Was Extremely Nervous, All Rundown and Tired All the Time — Says "ORANGE ROOT" Was a Life-Saver to Him.

Mr. Ray H. King, of 908 Market street, Steubenville, Ohio, connected with the King Printing Co., has a message well worth reading by all business men who neglect their health by applying themselves too arduously to their business, with out an occasional respite. Mr. King has worked steadily and hard for the past few years and, when becoming so nervous and "all-in" he couldn't eat, sleep or do anything, took a course of ORANGE ROOT, and here is what he says: "I have been constantly on the job without a vacation or let up of any kind for the past few years, and it surely has been telling on me. I became nervous, restless and grouchy. I felt tired and wornout all the time, even on rising in the mornings. I lost my appetite, my skin became sallow, and I just felt "all-in" most of the time. I took 3 bottles of this ORANGE ROOT and a few of those golden NUGGETS. It has done me more good than a trip to a winter resort. All my oldtime strength and pep have returned, my appetite is something ravenous and I can go to bed and sleep like a child at night. I get up in the mornings feeling zippy and full of pep and ginger. ORANGE ROOT certainly is a wonderful stimulating and strengthening tonic and I advise all my friends who are overworked and all run-down to take a treatment of it. I particularly like the golden Nuggets, for they surely are wonderful laxative and liver regulators. I feel like a different man entirely, and give ORANGE ROOT Iron and Celery Compound all the credit for my return to bounding health. Go at once to MATHEWS MEDICINE is introducing and explaining this STORE where the Orange Root man great TONIC to the public, get a treatment of them yourself, take them faithfully for a short time, and watch the speedy improvement in your condition. Thousands have been benefited. You, too, can become strong, vigorous and free of all minor ailments. Prices $1.25; Nuggets 50c. Add 10c extra for parcel post charges.

This SUPER-SPRING Tonic is taking the country by storm. Call at MATHEWS today, get a treatment of it, and be convinced of its wonderful healing and reconstructive powers.

Mrs. Kate Evelyn Meyrick, London night club queen and mother-in-law of two young lords, will have to serve 15 months in prison in connection with the recent Goddard police bribery case.

GEORGE WATKIN MAY GET TRIP TO WAR ZONE

D. S. C. Man Eligible for Ohioans' Jaunt to France.

FOUR WILL GO

Party Will Dedicate Memorials in Three Battle Fields.

George Watkin, East Liverpool, holder of a Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry in action during the World war, is eligible to compete for a free trip to France and Belgium next September when veterans of the 37th Ohio division will dedicate memorials in three battle fields.

Watkin is one of 48 Ohio men holding the D. S. C. From this number will be selected four men to act as color bearers and guards for the pilgrimage.

Physical qualifications alone will be considered in determining the men who will get the free trip. Age, stature, physical ability and soldierly bearing are the four major points upon which the choice will be based. The selection will be made by Captain Claude W. Rhoads, who is organizing the 37th division band for the trip.

The color bearers and guards will be fitted with new uniforms. The official banners of the expedition will be the national and state colors. The original 37th division colors cannot be taken on this trip as they have been officially turned over to the state government.

THREE INTIMATE POSES OF LATE AMBASSADOR MYRON T. HERRICK

Healing Art Is Recognized In Code Voted By Congress

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Former President Coolidge's signature to the act passed at the last session of congress gives the District of Columbia a new and broadened law regulating the practice of the healing art in which complete freedom for the practice of Christian Science is granted.

The act provides that its terms shall not apply "to persons treating human ailments by prayer or spiritual means as an exercise or enjoyment of religious freedom."

The measure had the approval of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, the Medical society, the Homeopathic Medical society, the District of Columbia Osteopathic association, the Chiropractic society of the District of Columbia, the Washington Board of Trade, and numerous citizen associations.

Senator Copeland Sponsor.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland (D.), senator from New York, a practicing medical doctor, offered the bill in the senate and directed its course through the committees and the two chambers. He willingly accepted the amendment offered by Christian Scientists, and assisted in shaping it acceptably to the Medical society. The act iis the product of numerous hearings and conferences held over a period of several years.

"The bill will not prohibit the practice of those who believe in other methods of healing than the prescribing of medicine or the performance of surgical operations," the report made to congress by the committees that considered the legislation declared.

"Instead, it specifically authorizes the practice of so-called 'druggless' methods of healing. In other words the object of the proposed legislation is not to give any monopoly to what are known as 'medical doctors,' but to afford ample opportunity without discrimination for the practice of any system, provided only that the practitioner shall have such adequate knowledge of the human anatomy and other basic sciences and of his own particular method of healing as is necessary to protect the public against injury and fraud."

No Restriction on Methods.

Even the requirements of examination and licensing which apply to other drugless methods of healing are not applied to those who practice religious healing. Except for this and a few other exemptions, the act prohabits the practice of healing without a license or legal registration.

The law is distinguished by the fact that it lays down no restriction on the method of practice to be followed by the applicant for a license to heal. All applicants are eligible to practice, provided they can prove themselves competent and trained in the particular method of healing which they intend to practice.

For purposes of general administration a commission on licenses, composed of the president of the board of commissioners of the district, the United States commissioner of education, the United States district attorney, superintendent of schools and the health officer of the district is created with authority to appoint the boards of examiners in the various healing practices regulated by the act.

Iron and Steel Manufacturers Granted Freight Rate Cut On Pennsylvania Coal

Ruling Against Proposed Smiths Ferry Road Announced.

Although defeated in their fight for a direct railroad line to the Ohio river, iron and steel manufacturers of the Youngstown district were granted cheaper freight rates on coal shipments from the western Pennsylvania fields, according to a ruling of the Interstate Commerce commission announced today.

The steel producers have been paying a freight charge of $1.42 cents a ton from the Connellsville district and $1.34 from the Pittsburgh district for all rail deliveries. The Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroads have promised to cut this charge to $1.02 cents a ton by the installation of river locks at Conway and Colona, where cars will be loaded from barges. Steel manufacturers asserted that shipments by water and rail by way of Smiths Ferry could be secured for a rate not exceeding 75 cents a ton.

Text of Ruling.

The ruling of the Interstate Commerce commission on the application of the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western railroad for permission to build branch lines running between Smiths Ferry and the Mahoning valley is as follows:

"In our original report in these proceedings, we found that public convenience and necessity require the provision of rail transportation between the Ohio river and the Youngstown district, in connection with transportation on the Ohio river and connecting waterways; but that the record did not afford a basis for a conclusion that the rail service could not be satisfactorily furnished by existing lines. Further hearing was held for the development of additional evidence upon that question and to enable the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburg & Lake Erie to make clear their position in regard to the use of their lines. Such hearing was held on January 14, 1929, briefs have been filed by all parties, and further argument heard.

Service Offered By Carriers.

At the further hearing, the Pennsylvania announced that it would be prepared to provide facilities for the transfer of coal from barge to railroad cars, and finished steel products from cars to barge, at a point known as Conway, Pa., which is near Beaver and is 43.8 miles from Youngstown, and would furnish adequate transportation for these commodities on its existing tracks between Conway and Youngstown.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie stated its willingness to provide similar transfer facilities at a point known as Colona, Pa., about 41 miles from Youngstown, and would likewise be prepared to transport like traffic on its existing tracks between Colona and Youngstown.

These carriers further stated that, if required, they would also be prepared to transfer and transport additional commodities in like manner. The Pennsylvania would also cooperate with the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and the Baltimore & Ohio by offering those carriers trackage rights over its line between Conway and points of interchange with their lines, provided ample facilities should exist or could be provided at such points for handling the traffic. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie also proposed to grant trackage rights to the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio to enable them to reach the transfer at Colona, or to cooperate with the Pennsylvania, if found advantageous, in providing joint transfer arrangements at Conway or at Colona to be used in connection with trackage rights, thus avoiding construction of duplicate transfer facilities, but stated that the question as to whether separate construction or the use of trackage rights would be the more advantageous required further investigation.

Facilities at Conway.

The facilities proposed to be installed by the Pennsylvania on its own line at Conway would include units for the handling of coal and of steel, together with connecting tracks, the whole estimated to cost $707,000. The coal-handling unit would cost $377,000 and would have a capacity of 1,000,000 tons per annum. Additional units could be provided at the same cost per unit. It was testified that the Pennsylvania could provide transfer facilities for handling 3,000,000 tons of coal annually without difficulty, and that the capacity could be increased to 10,000,000 tons by rearrangement of facilities.

As stated in our original report, the ruling grade on either the Pennsylvania or the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie between Pittsburgh and Youngstown, including the lines here under construction, is three-tenths of one per cent. The Pennsylvania proposes to haul coal from Conway to Youngstown in trains of 80 to 85 loaded cars of 50 tons each with a single engine.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie at the time of the further hearing had secured an option on 77 acres of land on the river bank at Colona. In its brief, filed since the hearing, the carrier states that the option has been exercised. The cost of the land thus secured is $462,000. An unloading unit for handling coal, with a capacity of 1,000,000 tons per annum, could be constructed there at an estimated cost of $250,000. This estimate was made by the engineering firm that that the estimates for construction of the facilities at Conway, but the difference in estimates at the two points is not explained. Additional units for the handling of coal and for handling steel and other commodities at Colona are estimated to cost the same amount, $250,000 per unit, and space is said to be available for indefinite expansion of the facilities. Some river improvement would be necessary at Conway, but none at Colona, where barges are now unloading coal.

Adequate Facilities in Sight.

Without further detailing the evidence, it may be said that the record warrants the conclusion that adequate facilities and service could be provided by either the Pennsylvania or the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie for the transportation of all the freight that would probably be offered for shipment by rail between the Ohio river and the Youngstown district in connection with river transportation. The latter company states that the volume of business that could be handled would depend entirely upon the loading facilities provided.

The position of the Baltimore & Ohio, as stated at the further hearing and in final brief, depends largely upon the transportation arrangements effected by the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie. Should it participate in the service between the Ohio river and Youngstown, it would necessarily be by means of trackage rights between Conway or Colona and its interchange points with the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie at or near New Castle Junction. Interchange between the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie would be effected at Beaver Falls by use of the Marginal Railroad, a part of the Pennsylvania system. The grade on this connecting line is said to be one per cent.

Any arrangement for operation under trackage rights by any of these lines would require our authorization, but we are of the opinion that this would not be required for the construction or operation of the transfer facilities and the tracks necessary to serve them at Conway or Colona, as proposed.

Trunk Lines' Position.

The trunk lines take the position that the determining of proper rates for the transportation of coal and other commodities between Conway or Colona, on the one hand, and the Youngstown district, on the other hand, is not properly in issue in these proceedings and must be dealt with upon a record which will take into consideration not only the propriety of the rates in themselves but their relationship to the rate structure of the territory. Nevertheless, the Pennsylvania tentatively proposed a rate of $1.02 per ton on coal from Conway to Youngstown, rates to other points involving the same haul, in whole or in part, to be established in relation to the rate named.

The carrier placed in evidence existing rates on coal for similar distances, as carried in various tariffs, but offered no evidence to justify any conclusion as to similarity of circumstances other than distance. The rate of $1.02 is the maximum prescribed by us for distances from 40 to 50 miles. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie also proposed the rate of $1.02 per ton to apply on coal from Colona to Youngstown, and placed in evidence additional comparisons based upon distance.

Lower Rates Possible.

It is no doubt true that the nature of these proceedings does not admit such consideration of rates as would justify a finding as to the reasonableness of any rate proposed. Nevertheless, the amount of the rate for the rail transportation may well be the controlling factor in determining whether facilities and service should be provided by the river-and-rail route between the coal districts of Pennsylvania and the Youngstown district. The uncontroverted evidence offered by the applicant at the original hearing supported the conclusion that transportation by the river-and-rail route could be furnished at a cost and at rates substantially below those for transportation over the all-rail routes.

It was estimated by the applicant that its rate for the transportation of coal from Smiths Ferry to the Youngstown industries over its proposed route would be within the range from 50 cents to 75 cents per ton, which would cover the cost of any deliveries by connecting lines. The assistant president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company testified that he had been approached by a private coal company which offered to transport coal from river mines in the Connellsville district in its own barges to Smiths Ferry or East Liverpool and to furnish transfer facilities from barge to rail at a price of 35 cents per ton, which would include a profit.

From these figures it was deduced that coal could be transported from river mines and delivered to Youngstown industries at a total through rate of approximately 90 cents per ton, as against the through all-rail rates of $1.42 from the Connellsville district and $1.34 from the Pittsburgh district.

Applicant's Argument.

In final argument counsel for the applicant indicated his view that the rate for the rail haul should be approximately 75 cents. The witness for the Pennsylvania stated that in proposing the rate of $1.02 per ton no regard was paid to cost of the service. The rate proposed covered only the line haul and terminal delivery and did not include the service of transfer from barge to car. No estimate of a proper rate for such service was made. It should be noted that neither the Pennsylvania nor the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie indicated that the rate of $1.02 is regarded as a condition of their participation in the traffic.

Whatever rates may be determined to be reasonable for the rail hauls, it is necessary to conclude that the service can be performed at less capital and operating costs by either the Pennsylvania or the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie than by the applicant by way of Smiths Ferry and the proposed new line. It is also probable that the service by way of Conway or Colona and the trunk lines could be more expeditious than by way of Smiths Ferry. Location of the transfer facilities at Conway or Colona would reduce the river distance by more than 15 miles and would avoid the passage of several dams and locks. It was testified that a dam just below Conway provides a pool that would afford excellent conditions for the mooring of barges.

Facilities for Cleaning Coal.

Counsel for the Pittsburgh Coal company stated at the further hearing and in final brief that his company desired not only facilities for storage of coal at the transfer point but in addition sufficient space for screening and cleaning coal and to perform any other process necessary to adequately prepare it for market. Counsel further stated that without such privileges any arrangement for river and rail service would be practically useless to his company. No evidence was offered at either hearing upon this point. The record at the original hearing indicated only that coal would be transferred directly from barge to car.

That record also showed that large quantities of coal are now being shipped by barge from river mines in the Pittsburgh and Connellsville districts for delivery at Pittsburgh and other points on the Ohio river. Whether and to what extent, if any, that coal is subjected to the processes now mentioned by the intervener is not shown of record. Under the circumstances we cannot regard this objection as controlling. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie in its final brief and argument indicated its ability and willingness to sell or lease to the Pittsburgh Coal company sufficient land at Colona to meet its reasonable requirements, with our permission.

The Pennsylvania also announced its willingness, with our permission, to negotiate with the Pittsburgh Coal company with a view to furnishing it the desired facilities, but doubted the legality of such an arrangement, in view of the probability that it might not be able to afford all shippers similar facilities for their private use.

In view of the uncertainty regarding the necessity for the additional facilities desired by the intervener, it is deemed unnecessary to reach a conclusion as to the propriety of the proposed action by the carriers.

New Line Favored.

Neither the applicant nor the Youngstown interveners offered any evidence at the further hearing, but the latter, in final briefs and argument, reaffirmed their view that their interests would be better served by the construction and operation of the proposed line from Smiths Ferry. The grounds for this preference are set forth at some length in our original report, and, briefly stated, are lack of faith in the cooperation of the trunk lines and the greater probability of securing adequate service and favorable rates from a rail carrier which depends very largely upon the river traffic.

We must assume, however, that the trunk lines will provide adequate service and reasonable rates in connection with river transportation. Counsel for both the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie proposed that those carriers file line-haul rates on coal immediately, in order that investigation of their propriety may proceed while the needed facilities are under construction. The pending application for authority to construct the line from Smiths Ferry will be denied, with the understanding that rates will be filed by the trunk-line interveners as proposed.

MERCHANDISING MEETING LISTED

ST. LOUIS.—Modern merchandising and distribution, two of the major problems facing business in the present era of mass production, and the influence of style, color and design in the stabilization of industry, will be analyzed exhaustively at a meeting of approximately 600 of the leading business executives of twelve states in the Mississippi Valley, to be held here April 17.

The meeting, known as the Mississippi Valley Manufacturers' and Wholesalers' Conference, will be under the auspices of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, the Associated Industries of Missouri, Kansas, Kentucky and Oklahoma, the Manufacturers' Association of Iowa, Nebraska and Tennessee, Texas Store Manufacturers' Association, the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Club of St. Louis.

An outstanding result of the continued decline in the Mexican petroleum industry is the heavy decrease in the use of both native and imported lumber.

"KONJOLA WORKED WONDERS FOR ME," SAYS TOLEDO MAN

MR. JACOB ROSENBERGER.

"Konjola worked wonders for me, after I had abandoned hope of ever being well again," said Mr. Jacob Rosenberger, 2114 Elm Street, Toledo.

"For a long time I had been the helpless victim of a disordered stomach. My appetite left me and sometimes the sight of food nauseated me. I suffered almost immediately after eating the lightest of foods from gas bloating. My liver became lazy and sluggish. My system was filled with bile. Nasal catarrh, added considerable trouble.

"It was a desperate case that I asked Konjola to work on. But Konjola did not fail. Konjola went right to work. It cleansed and strengthened my system. My stomach resumed its natural functioning. My appetite increased. My digestion was restored. The catarrhal condition has been almost completely dried up. I know that what Konjola has done for me it will do for others, and I praise it to everyone."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

LISBON GIRL ENTERS STATE FRENCH TEST

COUNTY CHAMPION

Miss Margery Haines, Salineville, Also Goes To Columbus.

LISBON, O., April 5.—Miss Mary Wisden, member of the senior class in David Anderson high school, winner of county and district scholarship honors in contests sponsored by the Ohio State university, will compete in the state meet at the State university in Columbus tomorrow.

In the county contest held in the auditorium of the high school here ten days ago, Miss Wisden, out of the 13 high school students entered, was awarded first place in English and second place in French. Entering the Kent State Normal district contest against 20 other county winners, she won first place in French.

Accompanied by Miss Helen Wilcoxen, instructor in French in the high school, she will go to Columbus today.

Miss Margery Haines, student in the Salineville high school, who won third place in French in the district contest at Kent, will also go to Columbus to take part in the state contest.

Twenty-four scholarships will be awarded by the trustees of Ohio State university to high school seniors who win first place in the district contests, and six two-year scholarships to seniors winning first place in the final contest.

The Assessment Committee of Pontypridd, Wales, has threatened to go on a strike unless allowed traveling and incidental expenses.

Seemed a Miracle when Eczema Was Healed

Barrington, R. I.—"I wish the whole world to know what Resinol Ointment has done for me. I had given up hope of ever finding anything to cure the eczema on my ears. I was troubled with it for two years without finding anything that gave really good results—then I tried Resinol and found it worked like a miracle. After the third day my ears were better and within a week my skin was its natural color again." (Signed) Mrs. Sebastian De Stefano.

Resinol Soap and Ointment are prescribed by doctors for almost all types of skin disorder—the soap to cleanse and stimulate, the ointment to heal. Resinol Soap is unexcelled for the nursery. At all druggists.

HAROLD HIBBS IN HONOR FRAT

E. Palestine Youth is Initiated at O. S. U.

Review Bureau,
Ohio State University.

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—Harold Hibbs, of East Palestine, and William P. Mueller, of Sebring, were among 54 students at Ohio State university who were recently initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, national honorary freshman fraternity.

The two students were pledged along with the remaining members of the group during the winter term of school at the university. Hibbs is a representative of the School of Applied Optics and Mueller of the College of Engineering in the honorary fraternity.

A scholarship standing of 3.5 points of a possible grade of 4.0 points, is required for membership in the organization. Elections to the fraternity were made by university officials on the basis of grade standings. The freshman body corresponds to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary arts fraternity for upper classmen.

The fraternity was established on the campus at Ohio State last year. The national organization, founded at the University of Illinois in 1923, has a total of seven chapters at leading universities of the country.

"I Am So Thankful to Owa-Ton-Na," Says Happy Mother

Nervous, Run Down Condition Brought About by Worms Overcome by This Fine Old Indian Remedy.

Mrs. Marie Raimond

Harmul poisons, it almost seems in no matter what form, are routed from the system when this natural compound is put to work. Nature's own roots, herbs, barks and berries as formulated in Owa-Ton-Na just seem to cleanse the system from top to bottom. Stomach, liver and kidney disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and general run down condition of health have responded in so many thousands of cases that it is small wonder that the praise of Owa-Aon-Na has spread so rapidly wherever it has been introduced. Day after day eager health seekers report marvelous bnefits not only in East Livrpool but all over this broad land. Men, Women and children of all ages and all waks of ife are equally enthusiastic about its benefits.

Mrs. Marie Raimond, Corner 4th and Washington Streets, Newell, W. Va., says: "We have been worried for the past three years about little Jane's health. She didn't seem to respond to anything we did for her. She was terribly constipated and this is a terrible condition for older people, let alone little children, and to think that a little girl would have to suffer with headaches the way she did. Food of any kind seemed to disagree with her and she always have a coated tongue and bad breath."

"Many times we would have to force he to eat and she didn't want to play with the other children, always just seemed to ache her terribly at times and the joints in the different parts of her body would ache. She just seemed to be nerves, nerves all over. When so many people started to talk about the good that Owa-Ton-Na has been doing for so many people in this vicinity, some of our friends suggested that we try this harmless Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na."

"Of course, we had heard about the good it had done for a number of our friends and imagine how glad we were when little Jane responded to its use. Almost in no time, seemed like a different girl. Her stomach acted better and her appetite improved remarkably. She seemed to be hungry all the time now. Constipation which worried us so much is corrected and no more is she troubled with those backaches, headaches and achy joints. We had no idea that our little girl was troubled with worms, yet Owa-Ton-Na removed even these from her system and she has been picking up steadily ever since. Once again she is anxious to play with the other children and can unr and play with any of them now."

This harmless remedy is being introduced at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 East Sixth street, where for a short time a special laboratory representative is located to tell you of its merits and how best to take it for quickest results. Why not call today and have a talk with her about your own case? Owa-Ton-Na is also obtainable at Carnahan's East End and Newell, W. Va. Stores.

"FANCY BAGGAGE" IS CERAMIC HIT

"Fancy Baggage" is at the Ceramic theater, proving to the satisfaction of everybody that it is all that was claimed for it. Warner Bros.' latest comedy-drama deals with dramatic force, well sustained suspense and consistent humor the adventures of a flapper who sets out to make right the wrongs her extravagance brought upon her doting father.

George Fawcett plays the father, as only George Fawcett can, abetted by Edmund Breese and Burr McIntosh, themselves masters of "peppery" characterizations.

Audrey Ferris charmingly impersonates the repentant and live-wire daughter while Myrna Loy appears as an alluring rival, a type of role in which she excels.

Hallam Cooley, Wallace MacDonald and Eddie Gribbon play the parts of the amorous young gentlemen, who set out to win the hand of the dashing damsel, and Virginia Sales does a "bit" excellently.

Beginning in a serious vein the story develops into a veritable whirlwind of rushing taxis, yachts, rum-running boats and revenue cutters, and complications which land the two old gents temporarily behind bars—and winds up with the vindication of dad—and the security of the million by the daughter as well as the man of her choice.

KANSAS SENATOR

Vice-President Curtis has made it known that he will offer no objection to the appointment of his former political foe, former governor of Kansas, as his successor as senator from Kansas.

REGINALD DENNY IN NEW TALKIE

Reginald Denny will be seen and heard here next week when his latest Universal talk-film comedy, "Clear the Decks," is show at the State theater. It is promised as a hilarious photo-farce, in which the fun is greatly heightened by the amusing dialogue, and the apt sound effects.

The picture was directed by Joseph Henabery, from the popular humorous novel by E. J. Rath, entitled "When the Devil Was Sick." It is laid almost entirely on shipboard.

Pretty Olive Hasbrouck is the heroine of the story. Lucien Littlefield and Otis Harlan also have leading roles. Miss Hasbrouck has a good screen voice. Denny, a veteran of the stage and musical comedy, has a remarkable talk-film presence and enunciation, with plenty of warmth and personality in his voice.

Included in the cast are Colette Merton, Brooks Benedict, Robert Anderson, Elinor Leslie and others. All register well in movietone.

The story concerns the humorous adventures of a young society man who takes a sea trip in the place of a friend, using the friend's identity and passport. Just when he has fallen in love with a fellow passenger, he finds he is supposed to be demented, and has a strict male nurse who makes him go to bed, and who feeds him nothing but goat's milk.

JOHN GILBERT AT AMERICAN

John Gilbert, masked in a heavy beard and wearing one of the most unusual, yet comfortable, garbs of his many adventures on the screen, is the magnet now drawing audiences to the American theater, where he is appearing in his latest Metro-Goldwyn, Mayer feature, "Desert Nights," a sound synchronized film, which opened last night.

Portraying the role of manager of a South African diamond mine, who is taken prisoner along with a fortune of gems, he depicts one of the most interesting and tensely dramatic characterizations of his career. The story is one of a terrible revenge, laid in the primitive wastes of a vast and torrid African desert, in which Gilbert is a dominating figure, first as a prisoner and then as a savior of the girl and her bogus father who are responsible for his and their plight. The daring gem robbery is one of the most sensational thrills of the production which is all pitched in a highly dramatic key.

The grimness of a dirty diamond mine, manned by hundreds of dark-skinned natives, and the dazzling whiteness of miles of countless sand dunes form a spectacular and bizarre background for a revenge which is satiated only by the intense suffering of those about to die for the want of water. Baked by the ever shining sun and torn with a mad craving for a liquid to quench her thirst, a beautiful girl offers her soul for just a few drops of water.

Ernest Torrence plays the role of Steve, the suave and exceedingly clever crook who poses under the cloak of English nobility, and Mary Nolan, former Follies beauty and heroine of "West of Zanzibar," and of "Sorrell and Son," gives another outstanding performance as the daughter of the renegade.

BERLIN'S AUTO PILOTS IN DEMAND

BERLIN.—The "auto pilots" system inaugurated for Berlin last summer by the General Automobile club proved so successful that it is to be greatly improved for the coming season. In the seven months in which the system was in operation the pilots were called on some 1,200 times.

One South American, on his way from Berlin to Paris, took one with him as far as Aachen, and other motorists wanted pilots for trips of several weeks in Germany.

KAISER OPENS GAS STATION

Building Erected at Sixth and Jackson Streets.

The new Kaiser super-service gasoline filling station at Sixth and Jackson streets will be formally opened tomorrow.

The building is of a light colored brick in construction and, in addition to the office quarters, contains a display room, tire repair, battery charging, greasing and high pressure automobile laundry departments.

To each purchaser of five gallons or more of gasoline on opening day will be given coupons good for two quarts of Freedom motor oil.

William Edward Kaiser, jr., owner of the station, has been associated with his brother and father in the bakery business here since 1921. He has been vice-president of the Kaiser Bakery company since its incorporation in 1926.

Caressing White Hands

Every Woman's Right

Simple, New Way, Now—Use Any Kind of Soap

To have them—impeccable and flawless—and, at the same time, for the housewife to have caressing, white hands is a problem that's now been solved an interesting, new way.

Use any kind of soap, soap powder or soap flakes, in washing dishes. But add a teaspoon of CLIMALENE to the water.

This enables you to use ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity of soap. For it softens the water instantly, so that far less soap is needed.

Being a GREASE SOLVENT in itself, it DISSOLVES grease instantly and eliminates ALL FILM or scum from glassware. Makes it sparkle like rare jewels.

Containing superlative SKIN WHITENING and SKIN SOFTENING ingredients—used by scores of beauty specialists—it leaves the hands soft and lovely beyond words.

Women are flocking to it. It costs only a dime at grocers. Try it. Just ask for Climalene.

Women and Girls Ask Support of Concert.

Ticket sale for the Kiltie band concert, to be given in the public auditorium Friday night, April 12, under auspices of the East Liverpool Athletic association, will be launched in earnest tomorrow by an organization of 16 women and girls.

Booths will be established in the First National bank, the Potters' National bank, the Dollar Savings bank and the Potters' Savings and Loan building, as well as in the Herche drug store and Fleming confectionery.

Proceeds from the concert will be added to the athletic association treasury, which is to be devoted to the advancement of high school and other athletics.

CONVICT LINGO AT SAN QUENTIN, CALIF., IS HARD TO DECIPHER

So decipher this convict lingo—

"Every fish has to do time in the jute before the skees will give him a highball to the gardens."

Thusly, a veteran "con" explained today that a new convict must spend so much time in the jute mill before the guards will give him permission to work in the gardens—a "soft spot" these springtime days.

And so the "cons" have formed a little terminology of their own at San Quentin.

After the recruit is around the prison long enough to be acquainted with the routine, the "fish" becomes a "con," and the "fish-guard" becomes a "skee."

The word "highball" comes from the railroad signal term since the gatekeeper gives the tower guard a similar signal when a convict with a permit to go out passes through the gates.

Trusties who carry messages for the warden and guards are known as "runners" while condemned row is spoken of simply as "the row." "Bell time" is 5 o'clock, when the prisoners line up at their cells for "lock-up."

Forbidden Door

By Herman Landon

A stocky, lynx-eyed individual standing at the door gave him a sharp glance. The interior was a long, dim room with small tables arranged in rows and atrocious lithographs on the walls. A few people were partaking of refreshments, and they were served by a hunchback with a soiled apron who moved so quietly that Hannan know he must be wearing rubber soles. For that matter, the entire place was so quiet that the buzzing of a fly caught on an adhesive strip hanging from the ceiling sounded curiously loud.

Hannan selected a table at one of the windows where the light was good enough to permit him to read. The hunchback, after inspecting him from a discreet distance, came forward and took his order, shrugging his misshapen shoulders as he turned away. Hannan reached into his pocket for the letter, but his hand came out empty. The letter was still there, but he had suddenly conceived an aversion to reading it in this place. The atmosphere somehow did not seem just right, and his reluctance grew when two sinewy individuals entered and sat down at the next table.

After a considerable wait his order arrived. The coffee was vile, the sandwich stale and tough, and a sip and a bite were enough. Hannan signaled the waiter and called for his bill.

"Two dollars, mister," the waiter said surily.

"There's your pay," he said quietly. "Even at that rate you will be riding in a Rolls-Royce some day. Take it or leave it."

Hannan had started to leave, but now he turned back. With a contemptuous gesture and the remark that there mustn't be any "rough stuff," the hunchback put the half dollar in his pocket. Hannan, hooking his stick over his arm, lighted a cigarette and stood calmly awaiting developments.

"Them imitation sports make me sick," remarked the bellicose newcomer to his companion. "Pipe him, Bill. Don't he look cute? Mother's blue-eyed babe come to town for a naughty time. Don't he think he's the whole show, though—the dough-faced hick? Betcha he sells ribbons and laces back home.

But the belligerent one, to the evident approval of his companion, continued his uncomplimentary remarks. When he had listened a while, Hannan put his cane on the table, sauntered forward leisurely, and administered an emphatic tweak to the speaker's nose.

For a moment or two the bully sat motionless, as if utterly flabbergasted by such a mode of attack, then sprang to his feet with a roar.

"Take that," he said, "and that—and that—and that."

Four times his fist shot out, landing one punch on each eye and two on the bully's mouth. It was a particularly ugly mouth, and so it received particular attention. The big man tried to fight back, and his blows would have proved devastating if they had landed.

None of them did, for Hannan was always somewhere else when they fell. For good measure he administered a final jab to the jaw, watched the bully go down, saw a dazed look come into the brute's face, and then he turned to his second adversary, a red-faced man with a wart on his nose.

The other customers were moving up from the rear of the room to witness the excitement. The hunchback was strutting about and wildly proclamiing that there must be no rough stuff. The second man had been a little slow getting into action, for it had taken him a minute or so to recover from his surprise at Hannan's sudden transformation from a gentle and peaceful youth to a hard-hitting combatant. Now he came forward, jerked a blackjack from his pocket, aimed a blow at the side of Hannan's head—and in the next instant let out a yell of terrible pain.

Hannan laughed. He had caught the red-faced man's wrist just in time. He had twisted it expertly, in a manner he had learned in the Far East, and the blackjack had fallen to the floor. Now his fist drew a jet of crimson from the antagonist's nose, and the latter fell back, blinded. Hannan waited a while, giving his two adversaries ample time to renew the attack, but evidently a good deal of their natural pugnacity had been drained out of them. Then he picked up his stick, smiled in the consciousness of a job well performed, and walked out.

The street glimmered pleasantly in the slanting sunshine, for it was now late afternoon. Hannan's veins tingled agreeably as he swung down the crooked thoroughfare. He reached into his inside breast pocket. The blue envelope was still there.

Hannan chuckled a little. No great shrewdness was required to understand that the two bullies had followed him to the restaurant with the intention of picking a fight with him. One of them in particular had gone out of his way to be offensive. Hannan was certain they had not sought a quarrel with him just because they loved to fight. No, they must have been actuated by a deeper and more practical motive. By a process of elimination he arrived at the blue envelope as the only possible explanation. It was a little difficult to understand how they could have known it was in his possession, even granting that they realized its importance, but what else could they have been after?

He was approaching Broadway, and the traffic was thickening. The crowds no longer thrilled him, and he was anxious to be back at his hotel so he could read the letter. A taxi crused leisurely along, and he signaled it. It drew up to the sidewalk, the driver leaned out and opened the door, but a strange and unreasonable hesitancy seemed to have fallen upon Hannan. He looked back the length of half a block. Another taxi had stopped back there, and at a moment's glance he saw a woman point in his direction as she climbed inside.

"I've changed my mind," said Hannan, and tossed the driver a quarter for his trouble.

He sauntered back to the other taxi. It had just started but stopped with a squeal of brakes as a policeman's whistle cleared the way for the transverse traffic. Hannan looked into the cab. A woman was seated there, loking very prim in severe black hat and a tailored suit of some gray material. A pair of heavy shell-rimmed glass accentuated her stiff, uncompromising appearance. As far as casual eye could see, she might have been a school teacher on a sight-seeing jaunt.

Hannan glanced at the driver, who was lighting a cigarette while waiting for the signal to proceed. Then he opened the door.

"Why, hello!" he exclaimed, and unceremoniously climbed in and seated himself beside the occupant of the cab. She had been looking out into the street, and now she turned to him with a gasp and a half-stifled exclamation.

"No use paying two taxi fares when we are both traveling in the same direction," Hannan pointed out. "But you had better change your order to the driver, or he will be following an empty cab."

"Sir?" she demanded freezingly, with a startled and hostile look. "What do you mean by such conduct?"

Hannan regarded her severe garb with a critical eye. "I don't like those togs," was his frank comment. "And those glasses—ugh! You looked much nicer this morning."

"I don't know what you are talking about." She gave him a cold and threatening look. "And unless you leave this cab instantly I shall call a policeman."

A whistle shrilled. A tightly packed mass of vehicles, their own among them, shot forward like chariots in a race. Hannan opened the door and leaned out.

"The Illington," he shouted.

The driver nodded stolidly. He had started with one passenger, and now he had two, but such things held no novelty for him. Hannan turned again to his companion.

"Do you always change your speech along with your dress?" he inquired. "I don't know which I like better—the slang you used this morning, or the schoolma'am tatter you are trying to work off on me now."

PATRIOTISM PLEA OF NOTED FORGER

BERLIN.—Prince Ludwig Windischgraetz, of Budapest, who was sentenced to jail for his connection with the forgery of French 1000-franc notes in 1926, is seeking social and political rehabilitation.

He has started an action in the Hungarian parliament for the appointment of a jury of persons prominent in public life to pass on his personal role in the forgery affairs.

Prince Windischgraetz and his fellow-conspirators had always maintained that they had committed the forgeries from political and patriotic motives only—to revenge Hungary on France for the mutilation of the peace treaties.

CITY KEEPS TIME ON CHURCH BELL

TUBINGEN.—In the tiny ancient city of Rottenburg, not far from Tubingen, the watchman in the tower of the cathedral still strikes the hours and the quarter and half hours on a bell, as has been done for untold centuries. But the city council has now decided to have a new clock built into the tower, with an automatic striking device, and another bit of romance must vanish before modernity.

GOVERNMENT STEAMBOAT AT N. CUMBERLAND

Replaces Dam No. 8 Crew in Handling Repair Job.

LOCKS DAMAGED

River Stage 13.3 Feet; Shipping on Increase.

The United States government steamboat, J. F. Klein, with James Bevington, in charge, has replaced 10 men from Dam No. 8 crew who have been repairing the locks and wickets at Dam No. 9, New Cumberland, W. Va.

The stage at Dam No. 8 at noon today was 13.3 feet.

The H. B. Williams, towing six barges of coal to Mongo, passed here yesterday afternoon The Maggie May, without a tow, the J. H. Hillman, with six empties, the J. F. Douglass, with 800 tons of cement in two barges, and the LaBelle, with nine empties, are enroute to Pittsburgh. The Smoky City passed here, bound for the Mississipi river with a tow of five new steel barges.

Steamers Make Fast Time.

Experienced pilots and engineers are proving the effectiveness of shipping by river, it was learned yesterday. The steamers William G. Clyde and A. O. Asckard of the Carnegie Line delivered their tows of manufactured steel products from plants in the Monongahela valley to the steamer Monongahela, in charge of Captain John A. Hottell, at Maysville.

These two boats made the trip of 407 miles in 66 hours, considered fast time on account of wind and thick weather, without a mishap. They are now on their way to Pittsburgh with empty barges and sulphur from New Orleans, brought by the Monongahela, and will arrive in the harbor tomorrow morning. The latter steamer passed Louisville yesterday morning on her return trip to New Orleans with steel products, making good time on a high river. Graham Varble is standing watch at the wheel with Hottell.

The steamer City of Pittsburgh, with Captain Calvin Blazier in charge, is due to pass Helena on her way to Pittsburgh with a tow of empty barges and a cargo of sulphur.

Captain English Dies.

Captain William A. English died in his home in South Gate, Ky., Wednesday. He was well known in the Pittsburgh harbor, having been in charge of the steamers Homer Smith, Virginia, Island Queen and the Cincinnati. He leaves four sons, two of them river captains.

The steamer Elizabeth Smith of J. K. Davidson & Brothers, which had been tied up all winter, was placed in the service yesterday after being overhauled. Thomas Carnahan painted the boat. Joe Sheplar is standing watch in the engine room, replacing the late Howard Cavett. The electric dredge, which is being rebuilt at the Aspinwall dock, is expected to be placed in the trade early in May.

C. E. Frankenberry, secretary and treasurer of the Monongahela and Ohio Dredging Company, returned yesterday from Florida. He was at his desk for the first time in several months.

Announce Bridge Hearing.

Pittsburgh pilots and river interests are being notified that a public hearing will be held in the Maysville county court house April 23. According to Colonel George R. Spalding, in charge of the Louisville district, the application of Dwight P. Robinson & Co. of Philadelphia and the state highway department of Kentucky for the construction of a bridge across the Ohio river at or near Maysville, Ky., will be discussed.

The war department has approved the site for the construction of two houses for the lock keeper and engineer who will be in charge of the Deadmans Island locks. They will be located one-half mile below the locks between the Ohio rver and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad.

United States Engineer E. H. Beechley in charge of the Monogahela river said yesterday that the repairs to Lock No. 2 on that stream will be completed today. The repairs to Lock No. 14 will be completed within four weeks; repairs also are being made to the lock chamber of Lock No. 5. Two concrete mooring piers are being built above the lock.

OLD CUSTOMS ARE OFTEN BEST

Wisdom of Nations Applied in World's Tonic

Old things are often best. Nations have a vast amount of wisdom stored up in the simple customs of the plain people. For instance, over across the water many an old housewife has a simple mixture of herbs, a wonderful medicine, handed down from generation to generation, that makes the neighbors for miles around depend on her when they are run down and feeling sick. Experience has taught several generations what these medicines will do. Probably Old World people who come to America miss nothing quite as much as they do these simple means of keeping well.

A few years ago a great research was made to find a real tonic for use in America, one that would combine the wisdom of Europe with the learning of the new country. The value of these Old World remedies was recognized, and they were carefully studied. The world was made to contribute toward the marvel that has proved such a wonderful help to thousands—World's Tonic. Many of the people who use it now say that it even tastes like the remedies they used to get when they were boys and girls at home.

This thing is sure this remedy has brought hundreds of people right in this neighborhood into better health. Living here in much different surroundings, with differences in air and water and food, and with work in mills and mines that is quite a change from the healthful Old World surroundings, many a man or woman who has felt all run down, and who has suffered from the catarrh that is so common in America, has found in World's Tonic just what was needed to bring back health and strength, to clean up the system and help enrich the blood, and to make life ever so much happier. Many of your neighbors have used it, and you have seen the change in them. There is no reason for you to go on suffering from catarrh and its results—indigestion, sleeplessness, weakness and weariness—when you can obtain World's Tonic from Carnahan's also C. M. Brannon's at Wellsville or any other first class drug store. (A-18).—Adv.

A Message to Underweight Men and Women

The one supremely good health building tonic that is also the one great weight producer known to modern science the country over is McCoy's Tablets.

They build flesh where flesh is needed — sunken cheeks, neck and chest—and many a man and woman, skinny and scrawny have thanked McCoy's after a few weeks treatment for the decided improvement in looks and figure.

McCoy takes all the risk — Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Ask at Mathew's Med. Store or any drug store for McCoy's Tablets. Marketed by McCoy's Laboratories. Also distributors of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil.—Adv.
